British Opinion That President Can't Do Otherwise.

MUST SEND FLEET TO EUROPE.

This, if Spain Continues Obstinate—Spain would Sell the Remnant, if We Left Her a Portion of Her Eastern Possessions—Conference Meets Tomorrow.

LONDON, Nov. 15.—The morning papers comment editorially upon the peace conference crisis and the American naval preparations, reiterating their conviction of the hopelessness of Spanish opposition and recognizing that the United States have practically no alternative, especially after the elections, but complete annexation, and that if Spain continues obstinate the United States must send a fleet to Europe, an action which no power but Great Britain would welcome, though none would be likely to interfere in Spain's behalf. The Daily Telegraph says: "We cannot believe that President McKinley favors a compromise that would leave Spain a portion of her far eastern possessions. Such a policy would combine the evils of both alternatives confronting America, since Spain would speedily sell the remnant."

WILL YIELD TO FORCE.

This the Belief in Madrid, but Spain Will Not Break Off Peace Negotiations.

PARIS, Nov. 15.—A dispatch to The Temps from Madrid says the officials there do not believe the peace negotiations will be broken off. It adds: "If the United States persist in their present claims Spain will accept the conditions, after formally announcing at a session of the commission and in a circular to the powers that she yields to force and owing to the impossibility of renewing the war without unobtainable assistance in defense of her rights."

BERLIN, Nov. 15.—A high official of the German foreign office asserts that no communications or negotiations have occurred between the powers regarding the Philippine question.

Germany, he says, has only commercial interests to protect there.

PARIS, Nov. 15.—Secretary Moore of the United States commission received from Secretary Ojeda of the Spanish commission a note saying that the Spanish commissioners had found it impossible to prepare their memorandum for presentation and asking if the United States commissioners would be inconvenienced if, owing to the late arrival from Madrid of expected data, the Spaniards should request that the next meeting be deferred until Wednesday. Secretary Moore replied that the American commissioners were quite ready to accommodate the Spanish commissioners in this matter, and the joint session was postponed.

DECENTRALIZATION DEMANDED.

Aragon Joins Other Spanish Provinces. The Aggressive Anglo-Saxons.

MADRID, Nov. 15.—Aragon has now joined with the other provinces of Spain in demanding the decentralization of the government, on which subject a Catalanian deputation was received in audience by the queen regent.

The Aragonians, in presenting their demands, point out that the "Anglo-Saxons of America, aided by the Anglo-Saxons of Europe, have obliterated half of Spain from the maps."

METHODIST PREACHERS ACT.

Appoint a Committee to Investigate Southern Outrages.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—The Methodist preachers' meeting passed a resolution to have a committee appointed to investigate certain "outrages alleged to have been committed recently upon colored citizens of North Carolina."

HOOLEY WAS CONTRADICTED.

Sir William Marriott Aroused the Ex-Speculator's Wrath.

LONDON, Nov. 15.—The hearing in the case of Ernest T. Hooley, the bankrupt speculator, was resumed and Sir William Marriott was called to the stand. He denied the statement made by Hooley that the latter had paid him £1,000 to introduce the speculator into the Carlton club. He branded Hooley's statement as "a most abominable lie." The witness admitted that a check for £50,000 had passed through his hands when Hooley, contrary to the advice of the witness, wished to contribute to the funds of the Conservative party, thinking that he would consequently be made a baronet. The check, Sir William said, was returned to Hooley.

During the testimony Hooley became greatly excited, and upon one occasion threatened to throw the witness out of the witness box.

Too Unsanitary For Troops.

HAVANA, Nov. 15.—Dr. Laine expects to have his report on the condition of the military hospitals ready today. He has visited and inspected every hospital in the city and suburbs, with the view of converting them into military hospitals for the use of the American troops. But it is understood that the condition of most of the hospitals was found to be too unsanitary to warrant their being used by unacclimated troops.

Framing Hawaiian Report.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—Senator Culom, chairman of the Hawaiian commission, who has arrived here, expects to call a meeting of the commission at an early date, although he has not yet fixed a date. He is now engaged in framing the report.

BRECKINRIDGE'S PLAINT.

A Peculiar Order That Caused Much of the Trouble in Camps—Huidekoper Testified.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—General Breckinridge, Dr. Huidekoper and Major Knox were before the war investigating commission. General Breckinridge's testimony dealt with conditions at Camp Thomas of which he was for a time in command.

Governor Woodbury returned from Vermont, and sat with the commission. At one point in his testimony, General Breckinridge said that there was such a division of duties and responsibilities that it was difficult at times to know to whom to give instructions. He gave an illustration of the defects of a system, in which authority was not well defined, which had occurred when he was there on an inspection tour in May. He found a typhoid fever patient lying in a wagon outside a hospital, who was refused admission for two hours until an order could be secured from Colonel Hartsoff, chief surgeon of the camp, notwithstanding General Wilson, in command of the division, had ordered the man's admission.

The relation of this incident to a line of questioning concerning the duties of inspection which brought out replies of considerable interest because of the fact that General Breckinridge is inspector general. He stated that previous to the beginning of the war an order was issued requiring inspectors general to make their reports to the adjutant general instead of the head of their own department, leaving him nothing to do unless he went into the field, and making a hiatus in the work. As a consequence conditions were not made plain. As a matter of fact, he said, this commission is now doing what the inspector general should have done three months ago.

DR. HUIDEKOPER TESTIFIED.

He Denied Being a Horse Doctor and Blamed Departments.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—Lieutenant Colonel R. S. Huidekoper, surgeon of the Second corps at Camp Thomas, appeared before the war investigating commission and testified that there was a constant deficiency of medicines at Chickamauga. He could not say whose fault it was. He sent communications to the surgeon general at Washington and sometimes the supplies were increased.

He said the main purveying depot at Chickamauga was conducted in a most parsimonious way. The officers in charge dealt out supplies in an irregular manner. There was a scarcity of exceedingly important drugs, such as quinine, morphia, etc. He complained, and the officers at the depot replied: "Oh, be patient; they are coming." Regimental surgeons were compelled to purchase elsewhere.

Dr. Huidekoper was chief surgeon in Porto Rico, and much of his testimony related to the campaign in that island.

General Beaver then questioned the witness as to his medical experience, and it was brought out that Colonel Huidekoper was not a "horse doctor," as charged by some. He is, according to his story, a graduate of numerous first-class universities and colleges. He was connected for several years with the Pennsylvania national guard.

MUTINEERS LEAVE HAVANA.

Rebellious Members of the Orden Publico Sent Away.

HAVANA, Nov. 15.—The Alicante, with 900 members of the Orden Publico, who recently mutinied owing to not getting pay, and 20 officers and 900 soldiers of the regular forces, have sailed. During the mutiny General Arolas ordered the regulars to fire on the mutineers, but they refused to do so. Retreating to the palace, on the way he met an unarmed member of the Orden Publico, and assaulted him with his sword, from which the man died later. This caused great excitement.

Want the Negroes to Return.

WILMINGTON, N. C., Nov. 15.—The city authorities are bending every energy toward persuading the refugee negroes who are in the woods to return to their homes.

FILIPINOS COMPLAIN.

Allege Americans Enjoy Fruits of Their Fighting.

THEIR LEADERS NOW IGNORED.

They Ask President McKinley to Stop the Snubbing of Their Authorities by the American Officers—False Reports Said to Have Been Spread.

HONGKONG, Nov. 15.—The Filipino junta, representatives of General Aguinaldo and the Filipino government here, have drawn up what they designate as an "appeal to President McKinley and the American people." The memorial says in part:

"While the fate of the islands is still undecided and we are doing all in our power to prevent a conflict between the Americans and Filipinos—awaiting patiently the conclusion of the Paris conference—we implore the intervention of the president, supported by the will of the people, to end the slights shown our leaders, soldiers and people by some of the American military and naval officers, although we do not wish to wrong Admiral Dewey or General Otis."

The memorial then avers that "false reports are spread broadcast, alleging that the Filipinos are responsible for all the friction," points out that "the tension is greater every day, and any moment a shot may be fired by an irresponsible American or Filipino soldier leading to great bloodshed," and beseeches the United States to "help the junta to control our own people by directing American officials at Manila to temper their actions with friendship, justice and fairness."

"From the commencement of the hostilities," continues the memorial, "the Filipinos acceded to all the American requests; but, after bottling up the Spaniards in Manila, the Filipinos were completely ignored when the Americans advanced and thus deprived of the fruits of victory. Now, after months of campaigning, the Filipino troops have been ordered beyond the suburbs, where they have no quarters and where supplies are difficult to obtain. All our launches have been seized because of foolish rumors that we would attack the Americans and when we asked explanations we were not even answered. The Spaniards of late, the enemies of the Americans, have been shown every consideration, while the Filipinos, their friends and allies, are often treated as enemies."

STEWART SAYS HE WILL WIN.

Makes a Statement Regarding the Nevada Legislature.

CHICAGO, Nov. 15.—United States Senator Stewart of Nevada telegraphed the following from Carson, Nev.:

silver party has elected 30. The Silver Democrats have elected 2, who will undoubtedly act with the Silver party. The Republicans have elected 13, but 2 of their seats are seriously contested. The Silver party in its convention endorsed me for United States senator, and I shall undoubtedly have two thirds majority in the legislature. It is not publicly known how the Republicans will vote. No Silver party man is running against me and no straight Republican is seeking the Republican vote. In 1892 I received the unanimous vote of the Silver men and Republicans.

"WILLIAM M. STEWART."

WEST VIRGINIA SENATORSHIP.

Much Depends on the Organization of the Legislature.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Nov. 15.—The political complexion of the West Virginia legislature on joint ballot depends upon contested seats, and will not be settled until the two houses are organized. The Republicans will organize the senate, and the Democrats the house. The two contested seats in the senate will be decided by the courts, the question being whether a senator loses his seat by accepting a commission in the army.

Senator Pierson is a lieutenant and Senator Getzendanner a captain in the Second West Virginia regiment, and Democrats were elected as their supporters.

cessors. In the house several seats will be contested. Friends of Judge Goff at Clarksburg say he will be elected senator.

SQUIRE REFUSED.

Would Not Produce the Books in the Standard Oil Company Investigation Case.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 15.—The Standard oil investigation was taken up here before Colonel Allen T. Brinsmade, who was appointed by the state supreme court as special master commissioner, to take testimony in the contempt proceeding brought against the Standard Oil company in the Ohio supreme court by Attorney General Monnett.

Mr. Monnett is representing the state, and is assisted by E. B. Kinkadee of Columbus, as special counsel. The Standard company is being represented by M. F. Elliott of New York, attorney for the oil company. The witnesses subpoenaed before Special Master Commissioner Brinsmade today were F. B. Squire, secretary, and Martin Snider, treasurer of the Standard Oil company.

F. B. Squire, secretary of the Ohio corporation of the Standard Oil company, had a small memorandum book, from which he read the names of the officers and directors who have served since the decree of the Ohio supreme court ordering the Ohio Standard Oil company out of the Standard Oil trust. He testified that on March 17, 1892, after the order of the court, a dividend of 92 per cent was declared, amounting to $3,220,000. Of this sum only $300 was paid to actual stockholders, the remainder, according to the constructions of Attorney General Monnett, going to the trustees of the Standard Oil company.

On Jan. 27, 1893, a resolution was adopted charging $3,000,000 to depreciation of the works in Cleveland, which had been partially abandoned. On Feb. 7, 1895, the sum of $3,800,019 was charged to depreciation of plant, and on May 6, 1896, the sum of $1,200,000, making a total of $5,500,019 charged to depreciation. Mr. Squire testified that no dividends had been paid on the stock of the Ohio Standard Oil company since 1892.

Attorney General Monnett demanded of Mr. Squire that he produce the books containing the record of these transactions. On advice of Attorney Virgil P. Kline Mr. Squire refused. Mr. Monnett appealed to Commissioner Brinsmade, who upheld Mr. Squire. Mr. Kline declared that the books could not be produced, and that no authority could be invoked to compel their production. Mr. Monnett then requested Commissioner Brinsmade to certify Mr. Kline to the supreme court for contempt.

John D. Rockefeller, during the hearing in New York, testified that a surplus of $700,000 had been invested by the company in government bonds. Mr. Squire confirmed this, and said the purchase was made last March, and the bonds deposited in the Euclid Avenue National bank of Cleveland and the City National bank of New York.

SUMS FOR MISSIONS.

PROVIDENCE, Nov. 15.—Bishop Walden of Cincinnati occupied the chair at the session of the general missionary committee of the Methodist Episcopal church. These sums were appropriated for the following conferences: Dakota, $9,000; Des Moines, $1,117; Kansas, $1,200; Minnesota, $3,437; Nebraska, $2,150; North Dakota, $5,000; Northwest Nebraska, $6,500; Northern Minnesota, $5,000; Northwest Iowa, $3,500; Northwest Kansas, $6,700; Oklahoma, $14,600; South Kansas, $1,400; Southwest Kansas, $5,300; Arizona, $6,300; Colorado, $9,000; Idaho, $4,500; Montana, $1,100; Nevada, $4,000; New Mexico, English, $5,250; Utah, $10,000; Utah (for schools), $1,500; Wyoming, $5,800. The principal discussion was over the appropriation for Utah, strong addresses being made by Bishops Mallalien and McCabe and Dr. Buckley. The appropriation is $1,000 in excess of last year.

Lieutenant General Suicided.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—Lieutenant Dresel, U. S. N., suicided at Baltimore. He was on the Puritan during the war, but had been on the training ship Essex for about a month. He wanted on a warship. He was assigned to the Zebra, with Admiral Dewey, the understanding being that it was not to be permanent. He preferred to stay in the Essex. The order was to have been promulgated Monday night, but he suicided during the day. It was believed to be due to melancholia.

Demonstration to the Curzon.

SOUTHPORT, England, Nov. 15.—The visit to this place of Lord and Lady Curzon of Kedleston resulted in a remarkable demonstration of good will for his lordship, who has represented this division in parliament since the last general election in 1895.

NO TARIFF REVISION.

None the Coming Session Said Chairman Dingley.

THE WAR TAX WILL STAND.

Government Will Need the Revenue Produced by It For Some Time—Other Matters Need Consideration—Don't Favor Expansion on Large Scale.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—The Post stated that the war tax will not be abolished at the coming short session of congress and that there will be no revision of the tariff whatever. It bases this announcement upon the positive statement made by Chairman Dingley of the ways and means committee, who in an interview said: "The government will need for some time all the revenue produced by the war taxes. During the month of October the war expenditures exceeded the war revenue by some $14,000,000, and this month they will be $10,000,000 in excess. This being the case, there will be no changes at least this fiscal year. The war revenue act will continue in force and unchanged, except perhaps in a few minor administrative features, for at least a year longer."

"It is hardly necessary to add," continued Mr. Dingley, "that there will be no revision of the tariff, although I have seen some statement to the effect that such a revision is contemplated."

"The session is limited to three months," he said, "and that short period will be mainly occupied in passing the appropriation bills, in enacting new laws for the regular army and deciding upon the legislation necessary for the government of Hawaii. In addition to these important matters the usual number of routine matters will arise. From the present outlook the session will be well under way before the treaty of peace with Spain will be laid before the senate, and the ratification of that document may not be accomplished long before the 4th of March arrives."

"It is, of course, impossible," said Mr. Dingley, "to know what will arise between Dec. 1 and March 4 next, but so far as the present outlook can form a basis for judgment, I should say that no extra session will be necessary or desirable unless some new question should arise. In the first place, we shall not know until the treaty of peace has been ratified what new possessions we are to have and what legislation is necessary for them, and even then we will be in no position to act intelligently."

"I think that the military administration ought to be continued for at least a year longer. Military administration means the maintenance of order, the establishment of sanitary regulations, the giving of assistance to those who may need it. It will bring order out of chaos and afford us time to determine the wisest legislation. Time always enlightens, and certainly when congress meets at its regular session in December of next year we will be much better equipped to consider the proper method of dealing with our new possessions."

"For my part," added Mr. Dingley, "I hope that the territory to be added will be no larger than is absolutely necessary. I realize that in some cases it may be easier to hold than it will be to let go, but at the same time I hope that the treaty, when it is presented to the senate, will provide for the acquisition of a minimum amount of territory."

ABANDON THE TEMPLE.

The W. C. T. U. Convention So Voted, but the Matter May Be Considered Again.

ST. PAUL, Nov. 15.—The W. C. T. U. national convention decided by a vote of 285 to 71 to abandon the temple project as an affiliated interest. Five hours of animated, vigorous and occasionally bitter and personal debating was necessary before the vote was reached.

The opposition to this action fought every inch of ground, but most of the leaders were against them and carried their point. Just before adjournment, Mrs. Dunham presented some resolutions on the subject which may precipitate the whole controversy once more if she calls them up today, as expected.

Negro Soldier Escaped.

SANTIAGO DE CUBA, Nov. 15.—Private Gaston of the Eighth Illinois volunteers (colored), who was recently court-martialed for a murderous assault on a corporal of the regiment and sentenced to three years' imprisonment, was released a few days ago from the city jail by the warden by mistake. Among the injured were Mrs. C. E. Kendall, Lima, and a young daughter; Mr. and Mrs. N. E. Prentice, Payne, O., and the county surveyor of Paulding county. The accident was caused by a broken truck under a freight car.

SQUIRE REFUSED.

Would Not Produce the Books in the Standard Oil Company Investigation Case.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 15.—The Standard oil investigation was taken up here before Colonel Allen T. Brinsmade, who was appointed by the state supreme court as special master commissioner, to take testimony in the contempt proceedings brought against the Standard Oil company in the Ohio supreme court by Attorney General Monnett.

Mr. Monnett is representing the state, and is assisted by E. B. Kinkead of Columbus, as special counsel. The Standard company is being represented by M. F. Elliott of New York, attorney for the oil company. The witnesses subpoenaed before Special Master Commissioner Brinsmade today were F. B. Squire, secretary, and Martin Snider, treasurer of the Standard Oil company.

F. B. Squire, secretary of the Ohio corporation of the Standard Oil company, had a small memorandum book, from which he read the names of the officers and directors who have served since the decree of the Ohio supreme court ordering the Ohio Standard Oil company out of the Standard Oil trust. He testified that on March 17, 1892, after the order of the court, a dividend of 92 per cent was declared, amounting to $3,230,000. Of this sum only $300 was paid to actual stockholders, the remainder, according to the constructions of Attorney General Monnett, going to the trustees of the Standard Oil company.

On Jan. 27, 1893, a resolution was adopted charging $2,000,000 to depreciation of the works in Cleveland, which had been partially abandoned. On Feb. 7, 1895, the sum of $2,500,019 was charged to depreciation of plant, and on May 6, 1896, the sum of $1,200,000, making a total of $5,600,019 charged to depreciation. Mr. Squire testified that no dividends had been paid on the stock of the Ohio Standard Oil company since 1892.

Attorney General Monnett demanded of Mr. Squire that he produce the books containing the record of these transactions. On advice of Attorney Virgil P. Kline Mr. Squire refused. Mr. Monnett appealed to Commissioner Brinsmade, who upheld Mr. Squire. Mr. Kline declared that the books could not be produced, and that no authority could be invoked to compel their production. Mr. Monnett then requested Commissioner Brinsmade to certify Mr. Kline to the supreme court for contempt. John D. Rockefeller, during the hearing in New York, testified that a surplus of $700,000 had been invested by the company in government bonds. Mr. Squire confirmed this, and said the purchase was made last March, and the bonds deposited in the Euclid Avenue National bank of Cleveland and the City National bank of New York.

SUMS FOR MISSIONS.

Amounts Appropriated For the Different M. E. Conferences.

PROVIDENCE, Nov. 15.—Bishop Walden of Cincinnati occupied the chair at the session of the general missionary committee of the Methodist Episcopal church. These sums were appropriated for the following conferences: Dakota, $4,000; Des Moines, $1,117; Kansas, $1,200; Minnesota, $3,437; Nebraska, $2,150; North Dakota, $5,000; Northwest Nebraska, $6,500; Northern Minnesota, $5,000; Northwest Iowa, $3,500; Northwest Kansas, $6,700; Oklahoma, $14,600; South Kansas, $1,400; Southwest Kansas, $5,300; Arizona, $6,300; Colorado, $9,000; Idaho, $4,500; Montana, $1,100; Nevada, $4,000; New Mexico, English, $5,280; Utah, $10,000; Utah (for schools), $1,500; Wyoming, $5,800.

The principal discussion was over the appropriation for Utah, strong addresses being made by Bishops Mallie and McCabe and Dr. Buckley. The appropriation is $1,000 in excess of last year.

Lieutenant Dresel Suicided.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—Lieutenant Dresel, U. S. N., suicided at Baltimore. He was on the Puritan during the war, but had been on the training ship Essex for about a month. He wanted on a warship. He was assigned to the Zafra, with Admiral Dewey, the understanding being that it was not to be permanent. He preferred staying in the Essex. The order was to have been promulgated Monday night, but he suicided during the day. It was believed to be due to melancholia.

Demonstration to the Curzon.

SOUTHPORT, England, Nov. 15.—The visit to this place of Lord and Lady Curzon of Kedleston resulted in a remarkable demonstration of good will for his lordship, who has represented this division in parliament since the last general election in 1895.

NO TARIFF REVISION.

None the Coming Session Said Chairman Dingley.

THE WAR TAX WILL STAND.

Government Will Need the Revenue Produced by It For Some Time—Other Matters Need Consideration—Don't Favor Expansion on Large Scale.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—The Post stated that the war tax will not be abolished at the coming short session of congress and that there will be no revision of the tariff whatever. It bases this announcement upon the positive statement made by Chairman Dingley of the ways and means committee, who in an interview said: "The government will need for some time all the revenue produced by the war taxes. During the month of October the war expenditures exceeded the war revenue by some $14,000,000, and this month they will be $10,000,000 in excess. This being the case, there will be no changes at least this fiscal year. The war revenue act will continue in force and unchanged, except perhaps in a few minor administrative features, for at least a year longer."

"It is hardly necessary to add," continued Mr. Dingley, "that there will be no revision of the tariff, although I have seen some statement to the effect that such a revision is contemplated."

"The session is limited to three months," he said, "and that short period will be mainly occupied in passing the appropriation bills, in enacting new laws for the regular army and deciding upon the legislation necessary for the government of Hawaii. In addition to these important matters the usual number of routine matters will arise. From the present outlook the session will be well under way before the treaty of peace with Spain will be laid before the senate, and the ratification of that document may not be accomplished long before the 4th of March arrives."

"It is, of course, impossible," said Mr. Dingley, "to know what will arise between Dec. 1 and March 4 next, but so far as the present outlook can form a basis for judgment, I should say that no extra session will be necessary or desirable unless some new question should arise. In the first place, we shall not know until the treaty of peace has been ratified what new possessions we are to have and what legislation is necessary for them, and even then we will be in no position to act intelligently."

"I think that the military administration ought to be continued for at least a year longer. Military administration means the maintenance of order, the establishment of sanitary regulations, the giving of assistance to those who may need it. It will bring order out of chaos and afford us time to determine the wisest legislation. Time always enlightens, and certainly when congress meets at its regular session in December of next year we will be much better equipped to consider the proper method of dealing with our new possessions."

"For my part," added Mr. Dingley, "I hope that the territory to be added will be no larger than is absolutely necessary. I realize that in some cases it may be easier to hold than it will be to let go, but at the same time I hope that the treaty, when it is presented to the senate, will provide for the acquisition of a minimum amount of territory."

ABANDON THE TEMPLE.

The W. C. T. U. Convention So Voted, but the Matter May Be Considered Again.

ST. PAUL, Nov. 15.—The W. C. T. U. national convention decided by a vote of 285 to 71 to abandon the temple project as an affiliated interest. Five hours of animated, vigorous and occasionally bitter and personal debating was necessary before the vote was reached.

The opposition to this action fought every inch of ground, but most of the leaders were against them and carried their point. Just before adjournment, Mrs. Dunham presented some resolutions on the subject which may precipitate the whole controversy once more if she calls them up today, as expected.

Negro Soldier Escaped.

SANTIAGO DE CUBA, Nov. 15.—Private Gaston of the Eighth Illinois volunteers (colored), who was recently court-martialed for a murderous assault on a corporal of the regiment and sentenced to three years' imprisonment, was released a few days ago from the city jail by the warden by mistake. He got away.

Mrs. Booth to Go to Chicago.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—Mrs. Ballington Booth, wife of the Volunteers of America, will leave her home in Mont Clair, N. J., for Chicago at the solicitation of Governor Tanner and the warden of the Illinois state prison, to start a home for discharged prisoners in that city.

A MURDERER'S CHUM.

NEW YORK CLUBMAN'S EXPERIENCE AS A ROUGH RIDER.

His Smooth Faced Tentmate, Who Talked Like a Woman, Proved to Be a Murderer Wanted in Kansas. Arrested, but Escaped.

A number of the New York boys who enlisted with the rough riders experienced some severe shocks during the first few days that that regiment was in camp in Tampa, while getting acquainted with their associates in the organization. A young New York clubman who served through the Santiago campaign with Colonel Roosevelt told the following story of his first days in the regiment at the University club the other night.

"I went to Tampa alone, after the regiment had been there for several days, armed with letters, which, I felt pretty sure, would result in my being taken in. I had heard much about the rough riders, but never having been in the west I had no idea what kind of men formed the nucleus of the regiment, although I had heard there were lots of cowboys and western bad men in the ranks. The day I struck Tampa I presented my letters to Colonel Wood, and the next day I was a trooper. My troop was made up almost entirely of westerners, and at that time I was the only New Yorker in it. I didn't make friends very rapidly, but my tentmate seemed a decent sort of fellow, and I was soon on pretty good terms with him. He was a little, smooth faced fellow, with a firm jaw and a keen eye, and I should say, about 30 years of age. He was very quiet, but when he did talk it was in a voice as soft as a woman's.

"I made up my mind that he was a good fellow, but rather diffident, and that in order to make our relations more cordial I must draw him out. I felt rather sorry for him and for a time made a point of going everywhere with him in order to make him feel more comfortable. He took my overtures in good part and seemed to enjoy my company. About the fourth day it suddenly dawned on me that my bashful little 'bunkie' knew all about me, while all I knew about him was that his name was Redmond. So I just tackled him one day and told him that, as we might be together for months, I'd like to know who he was and where he came from and whether he had a family.

"He gave me a queer look, mumbled something about seeing me later, and left the tent. I made up my mind right there that there was some sad secret in his life that he couldn't talk about to so new an acquaintance as myself, and I didn't bother him again. I was so blue myself about being away from my friends and relatives that a great wave of pity for this poor fellow, who seemed so much less able to stand trouble than I, swept over me. The second night after this Redmond put on his coat and said he was going out for a walk. 'Hold on a minute,' I said, 'and I'll go with you.' 'Oh, I'm not going far,' he said. 'You'd better stay. I'll be back in an hour.' 'But I want to go,' I said. 'I'm sick of hanging around the tent.'

"He said no more, and we went out together. There were no guards but the provost guards, and the men could wander around at will. We went into the town and stopped at a saloon, where Redmond made me gasp by drinking nearly half a tumbler of whisky without wincing. We went to several other places and had drinks, and finally, at my suggestion, started back for camp. We were passing through a very dark street when Redmond suddenly came to a standstill, and, hauling out his big cavalry revolver, examined it carefully, and then, turning to me, said: 'You'd better step in that doorway a moment. I'll be right back.' I looked up and then noticed about a hundred yards away a man coming toward us. He was a well dressed, prosperous looking man, and as I saw Redmond take a step in his direction it came over me all of a sudden what he intended to do.

"'See here, Redmond,' I called, walking forward and catching him by the shoulder. 'What are you going to do?' 'Hold him up,' he said in his soft voice. 'Go in a doorway; it won't take a moment.' 'Not a bit of it,' I said. 'You'll do no such work as that while I'm around.' An expression which betrayed the man's real character came over his face and for a second I thought he was going to shoot me. Before he got a chance, I continued: 'Redmond, if you need some money, I'll help you out. I've got a little. I won't stand for any such game as this, though.' 'I can get along until we get a pay day on $5. Can you let me have that much?' 'Certainly,' I said, and I gave him a bill in a hurry, for the stranger was getting dangerously near us. He put up his revolver and the stranger passed us, little knowing what a narrow escape he had had.

"Redmond never made the slightest reference to the affair on our way back to camp, but when we got in our tent I told him very plainly that I was going to quit him, and I made an exchange with another man the next day. A week later he gave back my $5. We hadn't had a pay day and I don't know where he got the money.

"It wasn't until I got to Camp Wikoff that I learned all about Redmond.

I came up to that camp from Cuba. He came from Tampa and got there ahead of me. When I got there, he was under guard, although he wasn't supposed to know it. He was wanted in Kansas for murdering two women, and the Kansas officer who brought on the warrant told a tale of Redmond's career that was blood curdling. A sergeant was put on guard over him so that he couldn't get away, but one night while the sergeant was peacefully sleeping Redmond cut out the whole back of the tent and escaped. The next day the detective came on to arrest Redmond, but the bird had flown."—New York Sun.

JIM HUTCH, THE "SKIPPER."

Hired For Life by Editor Medill, He Held His Job Until the End.

His name was James G. Hutchins, but all the old printers in the country knew him as "Jim Hutch," and the office in which he worked for 40 years knew him as the "skipper." He made up the paper in the mornings. He knew everybody's manuscript and footprints and earmarks. He had seen editors and city editors and reporters and night editors and their assistants come and go. He knew the names of all the out of town correspondents. When the rush hour came and there were but few minutes to elapse before the last page went down and the air was sulphurous, "Jim Hutch" was placid and sang merrily and smiled. Between the first and second editions he told stories of the old days in the office.

When the big fire occurred in the town, "Jim Hutch," Tom Sullivan and Jim Snow were working at the case. They staid until the plaster fell from the ceiling and, hot and blistering, "pied their sticks." The next day they went with the editor to an attic and helped him get out the first newspaper after the great fire. It was a typographical curiosity and not much larger than a sheet of letter paper, but it was the only one in the town that day. They continued work in the attic until the newspaper resumed its former size, and in larger quarters, and the editor, Mr. Medill, said one day: "Tom Sullivan, you be foreman; Jim Hutch, you be night foreman; Jim Snow, you take the 'ad.' case. And each of you hold your job as long as I am editor and as long as you live, for if I die first I shall arrange to have you stay."

"Jim Hutch" is the first to go. Mr. Medill is still the editor of the Chicago Tribune. Tom Sullivan is foreman. Jim Snow has the "ad." cases.—New York Sun.

GIRLS STUDYING FARMING.

Fifty In the New Dormitory of the Minneapolis Agricultural College.

Fifty girls have taken up the scientific study of farming this year in the College of Agriculture at Minneapolis, says the New York Sun. They have entered for the full course, and will work in the same classes with the men. Heretofore girls have been allowed to study at the college only six weeks in the year and that during the summer months, after the men's classes had dispersed for the long vacation. This year they are to have full use of all the college privileges. They have now a dormitory of their own, and a new staff of instructors for special subjects in the girls' department has been added to the faculty.

Girls are admitted to the college on the same conditions as boys. The agricultural course of study covers a term of three years, and includes every practical subject needed for farming. Field crops and seeds, agricultural engineering, agricultural chemistry, farm economics, animal husbandry, dairying, entomology, horticulture, forestry, veterinary medicine and surgery—these are some of the things the girls are learning about this year. Instead of blacksmithing, carpentry and military drill, which are required of the men, the girls take laundering, cooking, sewing, house management and social and physical culture. No classics are required, but German, French and Scandinavian are substituted as being of more value to the student of scientific farming.

MANY DIE IN NEW GUINEA.

But In Spite of the Terrible Climate Orchid Collectors Are Busy.

The death rate in British New Guinea is alarming. Some white men die within a few weeks of their arrival, owing to the climate. The rich gold mines cannot be worked on this account. The Chinese have been tried, but they, too, die off like flies. Samoans were also tried and six out of ten died in three weeks. The natives cannot be induced to work. Mr. Shanahan, a government agent, has died of fever and dysentery. He is the third official in three years to thus perish.

In spite of this state of affairs flower fanciers are traveling through the country collecting marvelous orchids unknown in other parts of the world.—Exchange.

The most remarkable scheme of the acquisitive genius of the Rockefellers is to acquire the Cherokee Indian lands in the Indian Territory, which are said to be rich in oil. But the territorial laws will needs be changed, for they now prohibit any but red men and "squaw" men from holding property in the territory.

NOVEL CLERICAL IDEA

NORTHWESTERN UNIVERSITY DIVINITY MEN TAUGHT HOW TO MARRY.

Western Professor of Oratory Institutes a New Regime in the Divinity Course—How It Will Benefit the Other Students.

Professor Robert McLean Cumnock, president of the Cumnock School of Oratory at Northwestern university, has instituted a new regime in preparing his divinity students for the practical side of their future work. Each Friday the chords of the bridal chorus from "Lohengrin" float from the keys of the chapel organ, the melodious voice of a divinity student chants the marriage service and the mock marriage ceremony is solemnized with attention to the minutest details. There are the student groom and blushing "co-ed" for a bride, the best man and the bridesmaids, Professor Cumnock acting as guardian to give away the bride.

In placing this course in Northwestern's curriculum it is the intention of Professor Cumnock to give his divinity students drill in officiating at marriages of every class that they may meet with in the vicissitudes of their future work. There are to be marriages in high life, with six bridesmaids and as many groomsmen as can be crowded at the chancel rail. There will be conducted the quiet wedding, with only a few friends of the family present. All of the services—both brief and prolix—are to be used. The embryonic divine will be shown just where to stand and how. He will be instructed in regard to the best usages of etiquette, the manner of receiving his fee and how to kiss the bride. He will also learn how to compose his countenance and restrain his lacerated feelings when there is no fee forthcoming.

Professor Cumnock is of the opinion that a mild, even monotone is more preferable for the officiating clergyman to assume than a grand, reverential and sublime style. He argues that the tones of the human voice, when properly trained, are most soothing to the perturbed feelings of novices at the altar, and those hardened by many visits to the matrimonial shrine are left out of the professor's consideration. The ministers to be are instructed not to shout the words, "Please join your right hands," like an excited general giving the order to close up ranks, but the entire service, from the filling out of the certificates to the pocketing of the fees, must be conducted in a smooth, even monotone, consistent with the whispered replies in which the trembling pair swear fealty to one another.

It must not be supposed that the divinity students are to reap all of the benefits of this course. The other seniors of the class who have no ministerial aspirations are utilized as material to practice upon. Their benefits are purely objective, and these are held by many of the students to be the most desirable of the course. On ceremonial days at the school of oratory the principals in the mock contract are selected with a view to giving each student a chance. The two processions mobilize in the opposite aisles of the auditorium, and, with their regulation escorts and convoys, proceed to the platform, where the minister awaits the attack. The bride is given away, while the bridesmaids watch the proceedings with ill concealed jealousy. The groom, while manifestly rattled, attempts to follow the general order of events, and the officiating student receives the interruptions for correctness of pronunciation and deportment with proper curbing of his feelings.

Here is where the benefits of the secular part of the ceremony come in. Loitering in the hymeneal procession is frowned upon. An erect bearing of all parties to the transaction is strictly enjoined, and the groom is given special instructions to carry a high head and not look sheepish. The students of the course are rapidly improving in the minor details, but many need further coaching on personal composure. It is admitted that if the female is of uncertain age and shows a propensity to arouse a choice assortment of snuffles the man is entirely justified in showing sundry quakes and tremors, but it is thought that a few more lessons will give to the most timorous the air of an Ajax defying the lightning. Eloping graduates of the school hereafter will be able to utter the matrimonial vows with perfect composure with the footstep of the irate father of the bride sounding on the roadway just outside the door.

Professor Cumnock denies any attempt to cultivate the affections of his students or to promote a greater intimacy than naturally exists in a co-educational institution like Northwestern. In fact, this has already given the authorities of the university much concern, three elopements having been chronicled from Northwestern during the last two years.

"If we should attempt to place that feature in our curriculum," said Professor Cumnock, "we would need a building that would cover the campus, and then we would have to refuse admittance to hundreds at matriculation. The only object in going through the marriage ceremony is to give the divinity students practical experience before

VETERAN ANDERSON

Talks of War and the Legacy That Was Left Him for His Share in It.

Like every city in our republic, East Liverpool has its share of veterans, who, in spite of pensions, are paying dearly for the privilege that they had in enduring the exposure, hardships, toil, sickness and risk of death for the glory of their country in the "late unpleasantness." If the testimonials received from old soldiers who came in the claims for Doan's Kidney Pills—and these same are now disappearing in the localities where they were unearthed—were published in East Liverpool, they would fill every column of every newspaper in East Liverpool. There would be nothing gained by their publication, for neither quantity nor quality of foreign testimony can touch evidence furnished by a local citizen. Read what Mr. Wm. Anderson, of 305 Lisbon street, says:

"During the Civil War I enlisted and served three years in the 43d Ohio Infantry. From the exposure during the war I attribute my late trouble which bothered me more or less ever since, some attacks being much worse than others. Severe aching and weakness in the loins so bad at times that I could scarcely get around, and muscular rheumatism of recent years, all seemed to have centered in my kidneys. In the mornings when first getting up I was very dizzy until I had moved around for a time, and my nervous system became affected, causing a fluttering and fullness around the heart. Seeing an advertisement in the Review, I got Doan's Kidney Pills at the W. & W. Pharmacy, and took them. The first few doses gave me relief. The improvement was gradual, but continued as the medicine got more thoroughly in the system. I firmly believe Doan's Kidney Pills will, in every case, as they did in mine, prove the justness of the claims made for them."

Doan's Kidney Pills are for sale by all dealers. Price, 50 cents. Mailed by Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States. Remember the name, Doan's, and take no other.

A MURDERER'S CHUM.

A number of the New York boys who enlisted with the rough riders experienced some severe shocks during the first few days that that regiment was in camp in Tampa, while getting acquainted with their associates in the organization. A young New York clubman who served through the Santiago campaign with Colonel Roosevelt told the following story of his first days in the regiment at the University club the other night.

"I went to Tampa alone, after the regiment had been there for several days, armed with letters, which, I felt pretty sure, would result in my being taken in. I had heard much about the rough riders, but never having been in the west I had no idea what kind of men formed the nucleus of the regiment, although I had heard there were lots of cowboys and western bad men in the ranks. The day I struck Tampa I presented my letters to Colonel Wood, and the next day I was a trooper. My troop was made up almost entirely of westerners, and at that time I was the only New Yorker in it. I didn't make friends very rapidly, but my tentmate seemed a decent sort of fellow, and I was soon on pretty good terms with him. He was a little, smooth faced fellow, with a firm jaw and a keen eye, and, I should say, about 30 years of age. He was very quiet, but when he did talk it was in a voice as soft as a woman's.

"I made up my mind that he was a good fellow, but rather diffident, and that in order to make our relations more cordial I must draw him out. I felt rather sorry for him and for a time made a point of going everywhere with him in order to make him feel more comfortable. He took my overtures in good part and seemed to enjoy my company. About the fourth day it suddenly dawned on me that my bashful little 'bunkie' knew all about me, while all I knew about him was that his name was Redmond. So I just tackled him one day and told him that, as we might be together for months, I'd like to know who he was and where he came from and whether he had a family.

"He gave me a queer look, mumbled something about seeing me later, and left the tent. I made up my mind right there that there was some sad secret in his life that he couldn't talk about to so new an acquaintance as myself, and I didn't bother him again. I was so blue myself about being away from my friends and relatives that a great wave of pity for this poor fellow, who seemed so much less able to stand trouble than I, swept over me. The second night after this Redmond put on his coat and said he was going out for a walk. 'Hold on a minute,' I said, 'and I'll go with you.' 'Oh, I'm not going far,' he said. 'You'd better stay. I'll be back in an hour.' 'But I want to go,' I said. 'I'm sick of hanging around the tent.'

"He said no more, and we went out together. There were no guards but the provost guards, and the men could wander around at will. We went into the town and stopped at a saloon, where Redmond made me gasp by drinking nearly half a tumbler of whisky without wincing. We went to several other places and had drinks, and finally, at my suggestion, started back for camp. We were passing through a very dark street when Redmond suddenly came to a standstill, and, hauling out his big cavalry revolver, examined it carefully, and then, turning to me, said: 'You'd better step in that doorway a moment. I'll be right back.' I looked up and then noticed about a hundred yards away a man coming toward us. He was a well dressed, prosperous looking man, and as I saw Redmond take a step in his direction it came over me all of a sudden what he intended to do.

"'See here, Redmond,' I called, walking forward and catching him by the shoulder. 'What are you going to do?' 'Hold him up,' he said in his soft voice. 'Go in a doorway; it won't take a moment.' 'Not a bit of it,' I said. 'You'll do no such work as that while I'm around.' An expression which betrayed the man's real character came over his face and for a second I thought he was going to shoot me. Before he got a chance, I continued: 'Redmond, if you need some money, I'll help you out. I've got a little. I won't stand for any such game as this, though.' 'I can get along until we get a pay day on $5. Can you let me have that much?' 'Certainly,' I said, and I gave him a bill in a hurry, for the stranger was getting dangerously near us. He put up his revolver and the stranger passed us, little knowing what a narrow escape he had had.

"Redmond never made the slightest reference to the affair on our way back to camp, but when we got in our tent I told him very plainly that I was going to quit him, and I made an exchange with another man the next day. A week later he gave back my $5. We hadn't had a pay day and I don't know where he got the money.

"It wasn't until I got to Camp Wikoff that I learned all about Redmond.

I came up to that camp from Cuba. He came from Tampa and got there ahead of me. When I got there, he was under guard, although he wasn't supposed to know it. He was wanted in Kansas for murdering two women, and the Kansas officer who brought on the warrant told a tale of Redmond's career that was blood curdling. A sergeant was put on guard over him so that he couldn't get away, but one night while the sergeant was peacefully sleeping Redmond cut out the whole back of the tent and escaped. The next day the detective came on to arrest Redmond, but the bird had flown."—New York Sun.

JIM HUTCH, THE "SKIPPER."

Hired For Life by Editor Medill, He Held His Job Until the End.

His name was James G. Hutchins, but all the old printers in the country knew him as "Jim Hutch," and the office in which he worked for 40 years knew him as the "skipper." He made up the paper in the mornings. He knew everybody's manuscript and footprints and earmarks. He had seen editors and city editors and reporters and night editors and their assistants come and go. He knew the names of all the out of town correspondents. When the rush hour came and there were but few minutes to elapse before the last page went down and the air was sulphurous, "Jim Hutch" was placid and sang merrily and smiled. Between the first and second editions he told stories of the old days in the office.

When the big fire occurred in the town, "Jim Hutch," Tom Sullivan and Jim Snow were working at the case. They staid until the plaster fell from the ceiling and, hot and blistering, "pied their sticks." The next day they went with the editor to an attic and helped him get out the first newspaper after the great fire. It was a typographical curiosity and not much larger than a sheet of letter paper, but it was the only one in the town that day. They continued work in the attic until the newspaper resumed its former size, and in larger quarters, and the editor, Mr. Medill, said one day: "Tom Sullivan, you be foreman; Jim Hutch, you be night foreman; Jim Snow, you take the 'ad.' case. And each of you hold your job as long as I am editor and as long as you live, for if I die first I shall arrange to have you stay."

"Jim Hutch" is the first to go. Mr. Medill is still the editor of the Chicago Tribune. Tom Sullivan is foreman. Jim Snow has the "ad." cases.—New York Sun.

GIRLS STUDYING FARMING.

Fifty In the New Dormitory of the Minneapolis Agricultural College.

Fifty girls have taken up the scientific study of farming this year in the College of Agriculture at Minneapolis, says the New York Sun. They have entered for the full course, and will work in the same classes with the men. Heretofore girls have been allowed to study at the college only six weeks in the year and that during the summer months, after the men's classes had dispersed for the long vacation. This year they are to have full use of all the college privileges. They have now a dormitory of their own, and a new staff of instructors for special subjects in the girls' department has been added to the faculty.

Girls are admitted to the college on the same conditions as boys. The agricultural course of study covers a term of three years, and includes every practical subject needed for farming. Field crops and seeds, agricultural engineering, agricultural chemistry, farm economics, animal husbandry, dairying, entomology, horticulture, forestry, veterinary medicine and surgery—these are some of the things the girls are learning about this year. Instead of blacksmithing, carpentry and military drill, which are required of the men, the girls take laundering, cooking, sewing, house management and social and physical culture. No classics are required, but German, French and Scandinavian are substituted as being of more value to the student of scientific farming.

MANY DIE IN NEW GUINEA.

But In Spite of the Terrible Climate Orchid Collectors Are Busy.

The death rate in British New Guinea is alarming. Some white men die within a few weeks of their arrival, owing to the climate. The rich gold mines cannot be worked on this account. The Chinese have been tried, but they, too, die off like flies. Samoans were also tried and six out of ten died in three weeks. The natives cannot be induced to work. Mr. Shanahan, a government agent, has died of fever and dysentery. He is the third official in three years to thus perish.

In spite of this state of affairs flower fanciers are traveling through the country collecting marvelous orchids unknown in other parts of the world.—Exchange.

The most remarkable scheme of the acquisitive genius of the Rockefeller is to acquire the Cherokee Indian lands in the Indian Territory, which are said to be rich in oil. But the territorial laws will needs be changed, for they now prohibit any but red men and "squaw" men from holding property in the territory.

NOVEL CLERICAL IDEA

NORTHWESTERN UNIVERSITY DIVINITY MEN TAUGHT HOW TO MARRY.

Western Professor of Oratory Institutes a New Regime in the Divinity Course—How It Will Benefit the Other Students.

Professor Robert McLean Cumnock, president of the Cumnock School of Oratory at Northwestern university, has instituted a new regime in preparing his divinity students for the practical side of their future work. Each Friday the chords of the bridal chorus from "Lohengrin" float from the keys of the chapel organ, the melodious voice of a divinity student chants the marriage service and the mock marriage ceremony is solemnized with attention to the minutest details. There are the student groom and blushing "co-ed" for a bride, the best man and the bridesmaids, Professor Cumnock acting as guardian to give away the bride.

In placing this course in Northwestern's curriculum it is the intention of Professor Cumnock to give his divinity students drill in officiating at marriages of every class that they may meet with in the vicissitudes of their future work. There are to be marriages in high life, with six bridesmaids and as many groomsmen as can be crowded at the chancel rail. There will be conducted the quiet wedding, with only a few friends of the family present. All of the services—both brief and prolix—are to be used. The embryonic divine will be shown just where to stand and how. He will be instructed in regard to the best usages of etiquette, the manner of receiving his fee and how to kiss the bride. He will also learn how to compose his countenance and restrain his lacerated feelings when there is no fee forthcoming.

Professor Cumnock is of the opinion that a mild, even monotone is more preferable for the officiating clergyman to assume than a grand, reverential and sublime style. He argues that the tones of the human voice, when properly trained, are most soothing to the perturbed feelings of novices at the altar, and those hardened by many visits to the matrimonial shrine are left out of the professor's consideration. The ministers to be are instructed not to shout the words, "Please join your right hands," like an excited general giving the order to close up ranks, but the entire service, from the filling out of the certificates to the pocketing of the fees, must be conducted in a smooth, even monotone, consistent with the whispered replies in which the trembling pair swear fealty to one another.

It must not be supposed that the divinity students are to reap all of the benefits of this course. The other seniors of the class who have no ministerial aspirations are utilized as material to practice upon. Their benefits are purely objective, and these are held by many of the students to be the most desirable of the course. On ceremonial days at the school of oratory the principals in the mock contract are selected with a view to giving each student a chance. The two processions mobilize in the opposite aisles of the auditorium, and, with their regulation escorts and convoys, proceed to the platform, where the minister awaits the attack. The bride is given away, while the bridesmaids watch the proceedings with ill concealed jealousy. The groom, while manifestly rattled, attempts to follow the general order of events, and the officiating student receives the interruptions for correctness of pronunciation and deportment with proper curbing of his feelings.

Here is where the benefits of the secular part of the ceremony come in. Loitering in the hymeneal procession is frowned upon. An erect bearing of all parties to the transaction is strictly enjoined, and the groom is given special instructions to carry a high head and not look sheepish. The students of the course are rapidly improving in the minor details, but many need further coaching on personal composure. It is admitted that if the female is of uncertain age and shows a propensity to arouse a choice assortment of snuffles the man is entirely justified in showing sundry quakes and tremors, but it is thought that a few more lessons will give to the most timorous the air of an Ajax defying the lightning. Elopement graduates of the school hereafter will be able to utter the matrimonial vows with perfect composure with the footstep of the irate father of the bride sounding on the roadway just outside the door.

Professor Cumnock denies any attempt to cultivate the affections of his students or to promote a greater intimacy than naturally exists in a co-educational institution like Northwestern. In fact, this has already given the authorities of the university much concern, three elopements having been chronicled from Northwestern during the last two years.

"If we should attempt to place that feature in our curriculum," said Professor Cumnock, "we would need a building that would cover the campus, and then we would have to refuse admittance to hundreds at matriculation. The only object in going through the marriage ceremony is to give the divinity students practical experience before

VETERAN ANDERSON

Talks of War and the Legacy That Was Left Him for His Share in It.

Like every city in our republic, East Liverpool has its share of veterans, who, in spite of pensions, are paying dearly for the privilege that they had in enduring the exposure, hardships, toil, sickness and risk of death for the glory of their country in the "late unpleasantness." If the testimonials received from old soldiers who had made the claims for Doan's Kidney Pills and these same are now disappearing in the localities where they were unearthed were published in East Liverpool, they would fill every column of every newspaper in East Liverpool. There would be nothing gained by their publication, for neither quantity nor quality of foreign testimony can touch evidence furnished by a local citizen. Read what Mr. Wm. Anderson, of 305 Lisbon street, says:

"During the Civil War I enlisted and served three years in the 43d Ohio Infantry. From the exposure during the war I attribute my late trouble which bothered me more or less ever since, some attacks being much worse than others. Severe aching and weakness in the loins so bad at times that I could scarcely get around, and muscular rheumatism of recent years, all seemed to have centered in my kidneys. In the mornings when first getting up I was very dizzy until I had moved around for a time, and my nervous system became affected, causing a fluttering and fullness around the heart. Seeing an advertisement in the Review, I got Doan's Kidney Pills at the W. & W. Pharmacy, and took them. The first few doses gave me relief. The improvement was gradual, but continued as the medicine got more thoroughly in the system. I firmly believe Doan's Kidney Pills will, in every case, as they did in mine, prove the justness of the claims made for them."

Doan's Kidney Pills are for sale by all dealers. Price, 50 cents. Mailed by Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States. Remember the name, Doan's, and take no other.

The plurality in Ohio will not be far from 55,000, and there have been elected 15 Republican congressmen from the state, who will support the splendid administration of President McKinley. Without the efficient work of the Republican newspapers of the state this grand result could not have been accomplished.

I desire personally to thank you for the courtesy you have shown me, and the information you have furnished me from time to time throughout the campaign.

With personal regards, I am

NOVEL CLERICAL IDEA

NORTHWESTERN UNIVERSITY DIVINITY MEN TAUGHT HOW TO MARRY.

Western Professor of Oratory Institutes a New Regime in the Divinity Course—How It Will Benefit the Other Students.

Professor Robert McLean Cumnock, president of the Cumnock School of Oratory at Northwestern university, has instituted a new regime in preparing his divinity students for the practical side of their future work. Each Friday the chords of the bridal chorus from "Lohengrin" float from the keys of the chapel organ, the melodious voice of a divinity student chants the marriage service and the mock marriage ceremony is solemnized with attention to the minutest details. There are the student groom and blushing "co-ed" for a bride, the best man and the bridesmaids, Professor Cumnock acting as guardian to give away the bride.

In placing this course in Northwestern's curriculum it is the intention of Professor Cumnock to give his divinity students drill in officiating at marriages of every class that they may meet with in the vicissitudes of their future work. There are to be marriages in high life, with six bridesmaids and as many groomsmen as can be crowded at the chancel rail. There will be conducted the quiet wedding, with only a few friends of the family present. All of the services—both brief and prolix—are to be used. The embryonic divine will be shown just where to stand and how. He will be instructed in regard to the best usages of etiquette, the manner of receiving his fee and how to kiss the bride. He will also learn how to compose his countenance and restrain his lacerated feelings when there is no fee forthcoming.

Professor Cumnock is of the opinion that a mild, even monotone is more preferable for the officiating clergyman to assume than a grand, reverential and sublime style. He argues that the tones of the human voice, when properly trained, are most soothing to the perturbed feelings of novices at the altar, and those hardened by many visits to the matrimonial shrine are left out of the professor's consideration. The ministers to be are instructed not to shout the words, "Please join your right hands," like an excited general giving the order to close up ranks, but the entire service, from the filling out of the certificates to the pocketing of the fees, must be conducted in a smooth, even monotone, consistent with the whispered replies in which the trembling pair swear fealty to one another.

It must not be supposed that the divinity students are to reap all of the benefits of this course. The other seniors of the class who have no ministerial aspirations are utilized as material to practice upon. Their benefits are purely objective, and these are held by many of the students to be the most desirable of the course. On ceremonial days at the school of oratory the principals in the mock contract are selected with a view to giving each student a chance. The two processions mobilize in the opposite aisles of the auditorium, and, with their regulation escorts and convoys, proceed to the platform, where the minister awaits the attack. The bride is given away, while the bridesmaids watch the proceedings with ill concealed jealousy. The groom, while manifestly rattled, attempts to follow the general order of events, and the officiating student receives the interruptions for correctness of pronunciation and deportment with proper curbing of his feelings.

Here is where the benefits of the secular part of the ceremony come in. Loitering in the hymeneal procession is frowned upon. An erect bearing of all parties to the transaction is strictly enjoined, and the groom is given special instructions to carry a high head and not look sheepish. The students of the course are rapidly improving in the minor details, but many need further coaching on personal composure. It is admitted that if the female is of uncertain age and shows a propensity to arouse a choice assortment of snuffles the man is entirely justified in showing sundry quakes and tremors, but it is thought that a few more lessons will give to the most timorous the air of an Ajax defying the lightning. Eloping graduates of the school hereafter will be able to utter the matrimonial vows with perfect composure with the footstep of the irate father of the bride sounding on the roadway just outside the door.

Professor Cumnock denies any attempt to cultivate the affections of his students or to promote a greater intimacy than naturally exists in a co-educational institution like Northwestern. In fact, this has already given the authorities of the university much concern, three elopements having been chronicled from Northwestern during the last two years.

"If we should attempt to place that feature in our curriculum," said Professor Cumnock, "we would need a building that would cover the campus, and then we would have to refuse admittance to hundreds at matriculation. The only object in going through the marriage ceremony is to give the divinity students practical experience before

VETERAN ANDERSON

Talks of War and the Legacy That Was Left Him for His Share in It.

Like every city in our republic, East Liverpool has its share of veterans, who, in spite of pensions, are paying dearly for the privilege that they had in enduring the exposure, hardships, toil, sickness and risk of death for the glory of their country in the "late unpleasantness." If the testimonials received from old soldiers, who claim the claims for Doan's Kidney Pills and these same are now disappearing in the localities where they were unearthed—were published in East Liverpool, they would fill every column of every newspaper in East Liverpool. There would be nothing gained by their publication, for neither quantity nor quality of foreign testimony can touch evidence furnished by a local citizen. Read what Mr. Wm. Anderson, of 305 Lisbon street, says:

"During the Civil War I enlisted and served three years in the 43d Ohio Infantry. From the exposure during the war I attribute my late trouble which bothered me more or less ever since, some attacks being much worse than others. Severe aching and weakness in the loins so bad at times that I could scarcely get around, and muscular rheumatism of recent years, all seemed to have centered in my kidneys. In the mornings when first getting up I was very dizzy until I had moved around for a time, and my nervous system became affected, causing a fluttering and fullness around the heart. Seeing an advertisement in the Review, I got Doan's Kidney Pills at the W. & W. Pharmacy, and took them. The first few doses gave me relief. The improvement was gradual, but continued as the medicine got more thoroughly in the system. I firmly believe Doan's Kidney Pills will, in every case, as they did in mine, prove the justness of the claims made for them."

Doan's Kidney Pills are for sale by all dealers. Price, 50 cents. Mailed by Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States. Remember the name, Doan's, and take no other.

COUNCIL CANNOT GET TOGETHER

Troubles Because of the Illness of One Member and the Resignation of Another. Lieutenant Bootes is Home—All the News of Wellsville.

The situation in council is becoming serious. Bills amounting to about $1,000, now past due, cannot be paid until an order is passed for their payment. With one member ill, only eight members are left after the resignation of B. Rand. If for any cause any one of the eight cannot attend a meeting no bills can be paid. At the time of the regular meeting there were not enough present and at the called meeting last week only three members answered. J. Goetz was called away to attend the funeral of a relative in New York City, so no meeting could be held last night. It was proposed to call a special meeting for Thursday of this week, as by that date Mr. Goetz was expected home, but a business engagement will probably call Mr. Minor out of town on that day. Meantime the men whose salaries and wages are past due are needing their money, and the members of council are being interviewed as to what is going to be done about it. Each member sadly shakes his head and assures the interviewer that he don't know. The names of candidates for the vacancy were not sent in time for a place on the ticket at the recent election.

Saw Active Service.

Lieutenant Bootes, who was called from his position with the Cleveland and Pittsburg company when the war broke out, returned to Wellsville last night.

When he left he was ordered to the Lancaster, but was soon transferred to the Wilmington. The ship was ordered to join the fleet off Santiago, and remained in those waters until the protocol was signed. The ship was then sent north, and the lieutenant remained for a week in Washington. He is now on leave, and does not know when he will be discharged. The lieutenant's plans are not yet matured, but he will report to the railroad company at Cleveland at once.

School Board Meeting.

The school board held a meeting last evening at which all members of the board were present except President White.

A number of bills were ordered paid. On motion the schools will be closed from Wednesday evening Nov. 23 until Nov. 28.

No other business came before the board and adjournment was had after a very short session.

The Lesson of the Cross.

It is the cross of Christ that furnishes not only the programmes of philanthropy, but as well the power necessary for humanitarian effort. The motive truths of the cross are the great dynamic forces of missions and ministries the world over. Faith in the One who loved us and gave Himself for us moves to faith in the men whom He can redeem. The exhibition of the supreme sacrifice of a Divine sufferer to produce an imitative impulse in the wondering worshipers of that Saviour. The grace of God energizing the soul pushes it out along lines of lowly and kindly service. Love to God becomes the strongest and steadiest inspiration to love for man.—New York Observer.

Sunday a Necessity.

Mr. Gladstone's daughter once stated in a letter that her father said "He did not believe he would be alive now if he had not always kept his Sundays quite apart from his ordinary, and especially his political life, not only because of the pure refreshment it has always been to him to turn to holier things on that day, but because it has enabled him to learn more on religious subjects than perhaps any other layman, and so has given him that firm and splendid ground which has ennobled and hallowed all his actions through life."

Slightly Bewildered.

Our town of Pawpaw-on-the-Crick set out to stir the nation By celebrating peace. We planned a monster demonstration. But presently black eyes were scattered through the hull committee Because the chairman made remarks that wa'n't exactly pretty. Wives sided with their husbands, as they'll do in outside matters; School children took it up, tore one another's books to tatters; The neighborin' townships all mixed in; the row's been gettin' thicker Till life insurance companies dodge a Pawpaw-on-the-Cricker.

It's what he calls a paradox, my friend, the wise perflusser. I take his word for it, 'cause he's a most accomplished guesser. It's jes' the same way with the czar; he starts a peace petition. An all the world gits up an says the amiable condition Which he suggests is what we need, an then the bayonets rattle. An all the monarchs put themselves in readiness for battle. It beats my time to see the funny way that things'll happen. With everybody yellin' "Peace!" an everybody scrappin'!

Novel Contest.

A horse hitching match took place in Main street, in the center of Arcola, Ill., the other day. The unique contest was the outcome of a prize offered by Charles H. Hickman, a local harness dealer, to the woman who would hitch a harnessed horse to a buggy the quickest. There were six entries, and each woman went at her task with as little concern as the average hostler, and the time made in each case was remarkably fast considering the limited space in which the contestants were compelled to work, the immense crowd taking up every inch of spare room. Miss Watson, a young woman from the country, won first in 2:30 flat, while Mrs. Alfred Donley was a close second with a mark of 2:33.—Arcola (Ills.) Cor. Chicago Chronicle.

The Foreign Situation.

Recent news tends to confirm the theory advanced by the New York World the other day that England is arming in preparation for the announcement that her occupation of Egypt is to be made permanent. A French diplomat in Washington says, "There is not the slightest chance that Fashoda alone will lead to war." He adds that "if there is to be an issue at all it will be on the larger question of Egypt in general." The situation is further complicated by the "clearing for action" of the British warships in Chinese waters, apparently to resist the rumored purpose of Russia to seize the treaty port of Newchwang.

The Lesson of the Cross.

It is the cross of Christ that furnishes not only the programmes of philanthropy, but as well the power necessary for humanitarian effort. The motive truths of the cross are the great dynamic forces of missions and ministries the world over. Faith in the One who loved us and gave Himself for us moves to faith in the men whom He can redeem. The exhibition of the supreme sacrifice of a Divine sufferer to produce an imitative impulse in the wondering worshipers of that Saviour. The grace of God energizing the soul pushes it out along lines of lowly and kindly service. Love to God becomes the strongest and steadiest inspiration to love for man.—New York Observer.

Sunday a Necessity.

Mr. Gladstone's daughter once stated in a letter that her father said "He did not believe he would be alive now if he had not always kept his Sundays quite apart from his ordinary, and especially his political life, not only because of the pure refreshment it has always been to him to turn to holier things on that day, but because it has enabled him to learn more on religious subjects than perhaps any other layman, and so has given him that firm and splendid ground which has ennobled and hallowed all his actions through life."

May Adopt Our scheme.

Germany has decided to send a naval attache to Washington. Is it possible that Germany is going to try and solve our system of playing naval favorites?—Washington Post.

Slightly Bewildered.

Our town of Pawpaw-on-the-Crick set out to stir the nation By celebratin peace. We planned a monster demonstration. But presently black eyes was scattered through the hull committee Because the chairman made remarks that wa'n't exactly pretty. Wives sided with their husbands, as they'll do in outside matters; School children took it up, tore one another's books to tatters; The neighborin townships all mixed in; the row's been gettin thicker Till life insurance companies dodge a Pawpaw-on-the-Cricker.

It's what he calls a paradox, my friend, the wise perffesser. I take his word for it, 'cause he's a most accomplished guesser. It's jes' the same way with the czar; he starts a peace petition. An all the world gits up an says the amiable condition Which he suggests is what we need, an then the bayonets rattle. An all the monarchs put themselves in readiness for battle. It beats my time to see the funny way that things'll happen. With everybody yellin "Peace!" an everybody scrappin! —Washington Star.

Novel Contest.

A horse hitching match took place in Main street, in the center of Arcola, Ill., the other day. The unique contest was the outcome of a prize offered by Charles H. Hickman, a local harness dealer, to the woman who would hitch a harnessed horse to a buggy the quickest. There were six entries, and each woman went at her task with as little concern as the average hostler, and the time made in each case was remarkably fast considering the limited space in which the contestants were compelled to work, the immense crowd taking up every inch of spare room. Miss Watson, a young woman from the country, won first in 2:30 flat, while Mrs. Alfred Donley was a close second with a mark of 2:33.—Arcola (Ills.) Cor. Chicago Chronicle.

The Foreign Situation.

Recent news tends to confirm the theory advanced by the New York World the other day that England is arming in preparation for the announcement that her occupation of Egypt is to be made permanent. A French diplomat in Washington says, "There is not the slightest chance that Fashoda alone will lead to war." He adds that "if there is to be an issue at all it will be on the larger question of Egypt in general." The situation is further complicated by the "clearing for action" of the British warships in Chinese waters, apparently to resist the rumored purpose of Russia to seize the treaty port of Newchwang.

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., TUESDAY, NOV. 15.

UNION PAPERS.
 All Union papers of East Liverpool are known to the various craft and unions of the city by the printing of the above
 Union Labels at the head of their columns

MIDST the sound of martial music and the tramp of marching feet, Major Weybrecht is probably forgetting that he ever so far forgot himself as to permit
 the use of his name as a candidate for congress.

As the people hear more of the war and the manner in which it was conducted they appreciate the wild stories of the yellow newspapers and the tales told during the campaign by the Democratic party. There is every reason to believe that history will tell the story as it was told by the recent election.

WHILE the announcement that Secretary Gage has been converted and now believes the American flag should remain where American heroism has planted may tend to bring converts to that belief, it does not necessarily follow that President McKinley's policy would have failed without the gentleman's support.

It matters not what proportion of the dispatches from Paris is truth, the fact remains that it is only a matter of time until Spain must yield. Europe is not rushing to her defense and her last effort is therefore exhausted. With a discouraged army, and dismantled navy
 she must quietly accede to any demand
 this country makes. There is no other alternative.

THE NEWS REVIEW appreciates the letter of Chairman Daugherty, of the State Republican committee, because it contains commendation from a man who is in position to know whereof he speaks. His close and careful watch of the campaign put him in touch with all features tending to make it the success
 it has developed.

CONGRESSMAN LENTZ, the Columbus
 chap who has made anything but a brilliant record in Washington, is being boomed as the favorite of Democracy for governor. Lentz would make a good candidate for the Republicans. It goes without saying that he would not be elected, but his nomination would insure less work for the Republican committee next year.

THE manner in which Attorney General Monnett is fighting the Standard Oil company is worthy the highest commendation. The trust for the first time in years has found a foe worthy its best efforts, and while it may succeed in evading the law once more it cannot but understand that this state is in earnest and for once has a law that means business.

JOHN SHERMAN.

Taking the word of a sensational New York journal as a basis a number of Democratic newspapers of Ohio are weaving some readable stories upon the position John Sherman occupies in politics. That it is all directed against President McKinley goes without saying, but for what purpose cannot be understood, unless it is the pure cussedness
 of those Democratic leaders who are not in the best of humor, and who, like a bear with a sore head, must do something to make themselves ridiculous.
 That they should attempt to use Sherman in order to create discontent in the Republican party is too transparent to work harm to any one except themselves.

WENT OVER THE LAND

The Jury Viewed Pennsylvania
 Avenue Property.

RETURNED TO LISBON AT NOON

Having Obtained Some Idea of the Ground, They Will Tomorrow Hear
 Testimony—Council Will Settle at the Next Session.

Although President of Council Marshall has patiently worked for several years to have Pennsylvania avenue opened to East End it was not until this morning that the necessary steps were taken to open the street.

The jury empanelled to view the land and set a valuation upon it arrived in the city yesterday afternoon in charge of Deputy Sheriff Supplee and this morning went over the ground. All of the several plats to be appropriated were carefully viewed, and the jury adjourned and returned to Lisbon shortly before noon.

Tomorrow morning they will reconvene at 9 o'clock when the case will be heard. The testimony of a large number of witnesses will be taken and the jury will set a price upon the several plats of land.

The result will be given at the next meeting of council when it is probable
 the claims will be paid unless they are thought to be too high. There will be no improvement on the street this year,
 but it will be put in such shape that work can be commenced early in the spring and the roadway paved.

CITY WORK.

Engineer George Is Rapidly Winding
 It Up.

The work of grading Bradshaw avenue was completed yesterday, and the force this morning commenced work setting the curb.

The improvement in Lisbon road is now entirely completed, and yesterday Engineer George finished measuring up the street. It is probable council will open their eyes when they see the bill for the amount of work done.

NO MEETING.

Council and Sewer Commissioners Did Not Get Together.

Council and the sewer commissioners again failed to meet last evening owing to the fact that a majority of the commissioners were out of the city.

President Marshall and Members Cain
 and Challis were the only parties who were present and they remained at city hall but a few minutes. It is probable a meeting will be held later in the week.

RABBITS ON A WAGER.

Charley Smith Believes He Can Kill Sixty
 In Two Days.

Charles A. Smith, George Brant and Joseph W. Geon yesterday started on a two days' hunt.

Mr. Smith wagers $50 that he can kill 60 rabbits in that length of time, and the outcome is watched with interest.
 He has a carrier and is permitted to use
 all the ferrets and dogs he wants.

A PROPOSITION

Is Expected From the Railroad People by Wellsville.

Last evening J. L. Francis, T.
 Dwight, W. H. Folts, Mayor Bough
 and H. A. Keffer called on the Wells-ville board of improvement and were in consultation with several members of the board for about an hour. The railroad project was reviewed to the board at length by Messrs Francis and Folts, and after that the board expressed a desire to have the road run to Yellow Creek,
 but before any attempt is made to raise any money a proposition must be received from the promoters of the scheme.

If the board receives this paper this week, the work of collecting money will be commenced at once. Another joint meeting will be held within a few days.

STILL HOPEFUL.

Hospital Association Are Still at Work.

The Hospital association have not yet given up hope of establishing a temporary hospital in the city, and a meeting will be held in the near future to see how much money they have collected.

The subscription papers have been well signed, but the $1,000 necessary has not yet been secured.

GOING TO IRELAND.

Former Member of the News Review Staff
 to Take a Vacation.

W. T. Anderson, well known to many people in the city as a former member of the NEWS REVIEW staff, was in the city today from McKeesport where he has been editor of the Morning Journal.
 He was accompanied by Mr. Nill.

Mr. Anderson will leave on Friday
 for Ireland where he will enjoy a deserved vacation.

 The Drummer Boy of Shiloh.

On the River.

The river continues to fall, but a good boating stage will continue for several days. The packets will run all winter from present indications. The marks at the wharf at noon today registered 15 feet, a fall of 1 6 feet since yesterday morning.

The Queen City and the Avalon went up today, and the Kanawha and Argand will be down tonight. The Ben Hur and Keystone State went down last night, and both boats had good trips
 out of this place.

One of the largest shipments which ever passed the city went down today.
 It consisted of a cargo of steel rails in nine barges, three coal boats and six full barges. The rails were valued at $200,000.

Pleasant Surprise.

A very pleasant surprise party was given last evening at the residence of John A. George in honor of his son
 John who celebrated his birthday.

The evening was spent in music and games and much amusement was caused by the young men in the party presenting the host with a number of toys.

Hear Capt. Harry Palmer's story of the Philippines at Christian church, Friday evening,

In the City.

James Chisholm, who served in the recent unpleasantness with Spain as a private in Company K, Eighteenth Pennsylvania Volunteer infantry, and who has been working in Kittanning since being mustered out, is in the city today.

Go to the First Presbyterian church Thursday night for hot turkey supper. 25 cents.

Giving Up Hope.

The parties who proposed building a co-operative glass plant in East End and could not secure the necessary bonus, have about given up hope of locating anywhere, and it is probable the scheme
 will be dropped.

THE SUDAN COUNTRY

MANY OF ITS PRODUCTS ARE VERY VALUABLE TO COMMERCE.

It Is a Region Where Agriculture and Trade Would Smile With Beneficence if Controlled by White Men.
 Description of Dervishes.

By his recent victories in the Sudan
 and the destruction of the khalifa's power in the taking of Omdurman, the Bagdad of the mahdists, General Kitchener has brought under the control of civilization an important part of the earth's surface with a tremendous population and a productivity drawn upon
 by a large portion of the western world.
 The Sudan has an area of 2,000,000 square miles and a population that is estimated between 80,000,000 and 90,
 000,000. It is comprised of that section of Africa that lies immediately south of the great desert of Sahara. On the south it is bounded by the Abyssinian highlands, on the east by the lands that drain the Kongo and on the west by Senegambia. These are the average boundaries. Various geographers have given the Sudan various boundaries.

Eastern Sudan, in which the civilized world is now particularly interested, owing to recent events in the east and the triumph of the sirdar's army, has an area of 950,000 square miles and a population of more than 10,000,000.
 This territory until 1882 was more or less under the rule of Egypt. People in general are familiar with Sudanese history and with the terrible slaughter which the fanatic mahdists dealt out to brave Englishmen, Hindoos and Egyptians. For the death of Gordon, the massacre of Hicks' army and the deviltry in general of "Fuzzy Wuzzy," whom Kipling has immortalized in the song, the British people have for years vowed vengeance, or, not to put too fine a point upon it, the reconquest of the Sudan.

It is pretty freely admitted on all hands that "Fuzzy Wuzzy" will be breaking no more British squares or squares of any other nationality for some time to come. It matters little how the British got into the Sudan—whether for aggression or not. Once in,
 their savage foes treated them in a manner to arouse the indignation of any white man, and the putting down
 of the dervishes and the laying low of the hideous, cruel, brutal, blind, slave trafficking khalifa is a distinct advance for any civilization, British or otherwise.

But to return to the Sudan—as a country. The whole of upper Egypt is surrounded on three sides by deserts.
 The desert regions are inhabited by the Arabs, whose chief industry is cattle raising. The Sudan produces various commodities, many of them very valuable to commerce. The Arabs of the desert are fine sheep and camel raisers.
 The camel is the most important beast
 in the entire region and is used as the chief means of transport. On the mountains between Berber and Suakin sem-ma is produced in large quantities. From the Sudan comes the chief supply of gum arabic. In the regions of the Atbara and Setitte rivers mimosas grow in thickets. On the plains between the Blue Nile and the upper Atbara corn is grown so freely that a camel's load costs only a dollar. Other products are sesame, from which fine oil is extracted;
 millet seed, which is called dochan,
 and cotton. In almost all parts of the Sudan where cultivation is at all possible the soil will produce plentifully
 such goods as sugar, spices and all sorts of tropical fruits. Below Omdurman wheat is grown in large crops. From the regions of the White Nile come ivory and india rubber. Rare feathers, which find their way into the shops of the capitals of Europe and America, are brought down from the country beyond the Sudan and through it. It is a region in which agriculture and trade would smile with beneficence if white men had control of it.

Such is the Sudan—place of black mystery, of death, of adventure, of wild men and murder, the faroff Cathay to the American, the land of blood and revenge for the Briton.

The original of "Fuzzy Wuzzy" is the devoted dervish of the Baggara tribe who lives in the cultivated regions of Kordofan—tribes which threw themselves into the "holy war" with a fervor
 that put all the other Arabs to the blush
 and even astonished the prophet himself. The Baggara man has a skin like that of the American Indian, and for his athletic form, physical beauty, elegance of hand and foot, has few equals
 in the world. He wears a white shirt

striped with red, leaving the right arm
 uncovered, and he is very fond of trinkets, necklaces, beads and other adornments of person that appeal to savage tastes. He carries the lance and the Solengin sword, and he never forgives
 an enemy. He knows but one thing well
 —hate of the European, whether that European be English, Irish, Scotch, French or German, or, if there is another thing he knows better, it is his devotion to his religion—a devotion blinder, more self sacrificing, in many ways
 more sublime, than the transfiguring
 devotion of the early Christian martyrs.
 In a word, he is a human devil.—Chicago Times-Herald.

WENT OVER THE LAND

A PROPOSITION

Is Expected From the Railroad People by Wellsville.

Last evening J. L. Francis, T. Dwight, W. H. Folts, Mayor Bough and H. A. Kaffer called on the Wellsville board of improvement and were in consultation with several members of the board for about an hour. The railroad project was reviewed to the board at length by Messrs. Francis and Folts, and after that the board expressed a desire to have the road run to Yellow Creek, but before any attempt is made to raise any money a proposition must be received from the promoters of the scheme.

If the board receives this paper this week, the work of collecting money will be commenced at once. Another joint meeting will be held within a few days.

STILL HOPEFUL.

On the River.

The river continues to fall, but a good boating stage will continue for several days. The packets will run all winter from present indications. The marks at the wharf at noon today registered 15 feet, a fall of 16 feet since yesterday morning.

The Queen City and the Avalon went up today, and the Kanawha and Argand will be down tonight. The Ben Hur and Keystone State went down last night, and both boats had good trips out of this place.

One of the largest shipments which ever passed the city went down today. It consisted of a cargo of steel rails in nine barges, three coal boats and six full barges. The rails were valued at $200,000.

Pleasant Surprise.

A very pleasant surprise party was given last evening at the residence of John A. George in honor of his son John who celebrated his birthday.

THE SUDAN COUNTRY

MANY OF ITS PRODUCTS ARE VERY VALUABLE TO COMMERCE.

It is a Region Where Agriculture and Trade Would Smile With Beneficence if Controlled by White Men. Description of Dervishes.

By his recent victories in the Sudan and the destruction of the khalifa's power in the taking of Omdurman, the Bagdad of the mahdists, General Kitchener has brought under the control of civilization an important part of the earth's surface with a tremendous population and a productivity drawn upon by a large portion of the western world. The Sudan has an area of 2,000,000 square miles and a population that is estimated between 80,000,000 and 90,000,000. It is comprised of that section of Africa that lies immediately south of the great desert of Sahara. On the south it is bounded by the Abyssinian highlands, on the east by the lands that drain the Kongo and on the west by Senegambia. These are the average boundaries. Various geographers have given the Sudan various boundaries.

Eastern Sudan, in which the civilized world is now particularly interested, owing to recent events in the east and the triumph of the sirdar's army, has an area of 950,000 square miles and a population of more than 10,000,000. This territory until 1882 was more or less under the rule of Egypt. People in general are familiar with Sudanese history and with the terrible slaughter which the fanatic mahdists dealt out to brave Englishmen, Hindus and Egyptians. For the death of Gordon, the massacre of Hicks' army and the devilry in general of "Fuzzy Wuzzy," whom Kipling has immortalized in the song, the British people have for years vowed vengeance, or, not to put too fine a point upon it, the reconquest of the Sudan.

It is pretty freely admitted on all hands that "Fuzzy Wuzzy" will be breaking no more British squares or squares of any other nationality for some time to come. It matters little how the British got into the Sudan—whether for aggression or not. Once in, their savage foes treated them in a manner to arouse the indignation of any white man, and the putting down of the dervishes and the laying low of the hideous, cruel, brutal, blind, slave trafficking khalifa is a distinct advance for any civilization, British or otherwise.

But to return to the Sudan—as a country. The whole of upper Egypt is surrounded on three sides by deserts. The desert regions are inhabited by the Arabs, whose chief industry is cattle raising. The Sudan produces various commodities, many of them very valuable to commerce. The Arabs of the desert are fine sheep and camel raisers. The camel is the most important beast in the entire region and is used as the chief means of transport. On the mountains between Berber and Suakin seama is produced in large quantities. From the Sudan comes the chief supply of gum arabic. In the regions of the Atbara and Setitte rivers mimosa grow in thickets. On the plains between the Blue Nile and the upper Atbara corn is grown so freely that a camel's load costs only a dollar. Other products are sesame, from which fine oil is extracted; millet seed, which is called dochan, and cotton. In almost all parts of the Sudan where cultivation is at all possible the soil will produce plentifully such goods as sugar, spices and all sorts of tropical fruits. Below Omdurman wheat is grown in large crops. From the regions of the White Nile come ivory and india rubber. Rare feathers, which find their way into the shops of the capitals of Europe and America, are brought down from the country beyond the Sudan and through it. It is a region in which agriculture and trade would smile with beneficence if white men had control of it.

Such is the Sudan—place of black mystery, of death, of adventure, of wild men and murder, the faroff Cathay to the American, the land of blood and revenge for the Briton.

The original of "Fuzzy Wuzzy" is the devoted dervish of the Baggara tribe who lives in the cultivated regions of Kordofan—tribes which threw themselves into the "holy war" with a fervor that put all the other Arabs to the blush and even astonished the prophet himself. The Baggara man has a skin like that of the American Indian, and for his athletic form, physical beauty, elegance of hand and foot, has few equals in the world. He wears a white shirt striped with red, leaving the right arm uncovered, and he is very fond of trinkets, necklaces, beads and other adornments of person that appeal to savage tastes. He carries the lance and the Solengin sword, and he never forgives an enemy. He knows but one thing well—mate of the European, whether that European be English, Irish, Scotch, French or German, or, if there is another thing he knows better, it is his devotion to his religion—a devotion blinder, more self sacrificing, in many ways more sublime, than the transfiguring devotion of the early Christian martyrs. In a word, he is a human devil.—Chicago Times-Herald.

MIDST the sound of martial music and the tramp of marching feet, Major Weybrecht is probably forgetting that he ever so far forgot himself as to permit the use of his name as a candidate for congress.

As the people hear more of the war and the manner in which it was conducted they appreciate the the wild stories of the yellow newspapers and the tales told during the campaign by the Democratic party. There is every reason to believe that history will tell the story as it was told by the recent election.

WHILE the announcement that Secretary Gage has been converted and now believes the American flag should remain where American heroism has planted may tend to bring converts to that belief, it does not necessarily follow that President McKinley's policy would have failed without the gentleman's support.

It matters not what proportion of the dispatches from Paris is truth, the fact remains that it is only a matter of time until Spain must yield. Europe is not rushing to her defense and her last effort is therefore exhausted. With a discouraged army, and dismantled navy she must quietly accede to any demand this country makes. There is no other alternative.

THE NEWS REVIEW appreciates the letter of Chairman Daugherty, of the State Republican committee, because it contains commendation from a man who is in position to know whereof he speaks. His close and careful watch of the campaign put him in touch with all features tending to make it the success it has developed.

CONGRESSMAN LENTZ, the Columbus chap who has made anything but a brilliant record in Washington, is being boomed as the favorite of Democracy for governor. Lentz would make a good candidate for the Republicans. It goes without saying that he would not be elected, but his nomination would insure less work for the Republican committee next year.

THE manner in which Attorney General Monnett is fighting the Standard Oil company is worthy the highest commendation. The trust for the first time in years has found a foe worthy its best efforts, and while it may succeed in evading the law once more it cannot but understand that this state is in earnest and for once has a law that means business.

JOHN SHERMAN.

Taking the word of a sensational New York journal as a basis a number of Democratic newspapers of Ohio are weaving some readable stories upon the position John Sherman occupies in politics. That it is all directed against President McKinley goes without saying, but for what purpose cannot be understood, unless it is the pure cussedness of those Democratic leaders who are not in the best of humor, and who, like a bear with a sore head, must do something to make themselves ridiculous. That they should attempt to use Sherman in order to create discontent in the Republican party is too transparent to work harm to any one except themselves.

WENT OVER THE LAND

The Jury Viewed Pennsylvania Avenue Property.

RETURNED TO LISBON AT NOON

Having Obtained Some Idea of the Ground, They Will Tomorrow Hear Testimony--Council Will Settle at the Next Session.

Although President of Council Marshall has patiently worked for several years to have Pennsylvania avenue opened to East End it was not until this morning that the necessary steps were taken to open the street.

The jury empanelled to view the land and set a valuation upon it arrived in the city yesterday afternoon in charge of Deputy Sheriff Supplee and this morning went over the ground. All of the several plats to be appropriated were carefully viewed, and the jury adjourned and returned to Lisbon shortly before noon.

Tomorrow morning they will reconvene at 9 o'clock when the case will be heard. The testimony of a large number of witnesses will be taken and the jury will set a price upon the several plats of land.

The result will be given at the next meeting of council when it is probable the claims will be paid unless they are thought to be too high. There will be no improvement on the street this year, but it will be put in such shape that work can be commenced early in the spring and the roadway paved.

CITY WORK.

Engineer George is Rapidly Winding It Up.

The work of grading Bradshaw avenue was completed yesterday, and the force this morning commenced work setting the curb.

The improvement in Lisbon road is now entirely completed, and yesterday Engineer George finished measuring up the street. It is probable council will open their eyes when they see the bill for the amount of work done.

NO MEETING.

Council and Sewer Commissioners Did Not Get Together.

Council and the sewer commissioners again failed to meet last evening owing to the fact that a majority of the commissioners were out of the city.

President Marshall and Members Cain and Challis were the only parties who were present and they remained at city hall but a few minutes. It is probable a meeting will be held later in the week.

LISBON, Nov. 15.—[Special]—C. M. Dix, of East Liverpool, has sued Eliza Foutts and others, asking $5,000 damages.

The petition says that the defendants own a large brick building at Fifth and Market streets, and by reason of negligence in leaving the elevator way open the plaintiff fell, permanently injuring his back.

Thomas Haden asks for a judgment of $330.59 against the Wallace & Chetwynd Pottery company, Nettie Wallace and Wallace & Chetwynd. The amount is claimed for work.

The case of the East End Pottery company, of Liverpool, against Joseph Deacon, is being tried today. The company sues for $3,500 from Deacon for mixing oxide of cobalt with their ground flint. ### A WIFE'S COMPLAINT

Caused an Unfortunate Happening For Fortune.

Yesterday evening William Fortune, who lives with his family in Third street opposite city hall, was placed in jail by Officer Mahony at the request of his wife. He was very drunk when the officer gathered him in, and after a charge was placed against him he was put in the lockup for the night. He will be given a hearing this evening.

David Mackey, who was arrested Saturday evening in the Diamond for being drunk and put up scenery for his appearance, called at city hall last night. He pleaded guilty to the charge against him, and was fined $7.60 and released.

Nothing has been done by the police in the cases of the two recent robberies. One of the officers stated last night that it was probable nothing would ever be done in the matter, as from what he could learn there were no clues on which they could work. None of the stolen goods have been recovered, although the matter has not been entirely dropped by the authorities.

AN EAST END MYSTERY

Bert Maloy, of Johnstown, Although In Jail

SAYS HE IS NO ROBBER

He Called at the Home of B. Grosshans, and Was Admitted to Repair a Sewing Machine—A Few Minutes Later Valuable Jewelry Was Missing.

Bert H. Maloy, who says his home is in Johnston, Pa., is in jail charged with being a suspicious person. His case is being investigated by Chief Johnson.

Yesterday afternoon a telephone message was received at the central fire station asking that an officer be sent to the home of Abner Martin in East End. Officers McCullough and Bryan were detailed on the case and when they arrived Maloy was turned over to them. A short time before that the individual went to the home of Mrs. Benton Grosshans, in the East End, and inquired if a sewing machine needed repairing. He was taken to a room on the second floor where the machine was, and he commenced to do some work about it. Mrs. Grosshans went to another part of the house, and when she returned found it different from when she left it. She made an investigation and found that one gold watch, two diamond rings, one band ring which was her wedding ring, and some other jewelry was missing. The man in the meantime had left the house, and went to the Martin home, to which place he was traced by Mrs. Grosshans.

When the officers were bringing him to city hall he denied taking anything, and said with a sarcastic voice "O, they will find it all." When he was searched in jail a shirt owned by Mr. Grosshans was found in his bosom, and a handkerchief which was missing from the house was found in his hip pocket.

At a late hour this afternoon the missing articles had not been found.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Not Under Control.

Sometimes as a ship is found flying the signal, "Not under control." That is a very terrible signal. So long as the machinery and rudder and the rigging are sound and the ship is under complete control she may weather the strongest gale, but now she lies helpless at the mercy of wind and wave. No rescuing ship even dare come very near, for "not under control" means that she is a menace to others as well as herself. So in life we find far too often a man whose conduct indicates that the forces of his life are not under control. That is a sad and dangerous condition, dangerous for himself and for those about him. Safely lies in keeping the elements of character so adjusted that they are always under control, that thus we may keep our manhood true to its divine course.—Universalist Leader.

Laziness of Mind.

There is a laziness of the mind as well as of the body. People loaf mentally as well as physically. One is to be despised quite as much as the other. The man or boy who sits about on street corners and in stores telling idle tales is no more a social nuisance than is he who dawdles over his studies or dreams away the hours wool gathering which should be employed in planning and thinking about the serious problems of life. The mind should be held quite as rigidly to discipline as the body, for an aimless, wandering, unapplicable mind will destroy one's usefulness quite as much as a slothful, flabby, unskilled body.—Churchman.

Swearing.

General Washington, it is said, once uttered an oath, and his example is presented as an excuse for the profanity of other men, but with the statement General Washington's opinion of swearing should always be joined. He said, "This is a vice so mean and low, without any temptation, that every man of sense and character detests and despises it."—Congregationalist.

Mistakes.

People who make mistakes are those who quarrel with one another before their children or who allow the latter to grow up in idleness, those who talk about their troubles before strangers, the father who tells his children to go the way he does not go himself and the young woman who does not make a confidant of her mother.—Lutheran Observer.

Only One Design.

A WIFE'S COMPLAINT

Caused an Unfortunate Happening For Fortune.

Yesterday evening William Fortune, who lives with his family in Third street opposite city hall, was placed in jail by Officer Mahony at the request of his wife. He was very drunk when the officer gathered him in, and after a put in the lockup for the night. He will be given a hearing this evening.

David Mackey, who was arrested Saturday evening in the Diamond for being drunk and put up security for his appearance, called at city hall last night.
He pleaded guilty to the charge against him, and was fined $7.60 and released.

Nothing has been done by the police in the cases of the two recent robberies. One of the officers stated last night that it was probable nothing would ever be done in the matter, as from what he could learn there were no clues on which they could been recovered, although the matter has

GOOD MUSIC.

The advance sale of seats for the An-most gratifying, a large number of seats week.

One of the Best.

There was a large audience at the Grand last evening to see "McDoodle's Flats" presented by Rice & Barton's comedians. The show was one of the best ever presented in the city, and the audience was kept in a continual uproar from the rise of the curtain until it fell at the close of the last act. The musical specialties by Hughes and Berry were unusually clever while J. K.
Mullen was very clever. Romeo Gore, a jealous husband, played the part to perfection. The specialties introduced by the ladies of the company were also very good.

God's word fails not. As the days come,

Bert Maloy, of Johnstown, Although In Jail

He Called at the Home of B. Grosshans, and Was Admitted to Repair a Sewing Machine—A Few Minutes Later Valuable Jewelry Was Missing.

Bert H. Maloy, who says his home is in Johnston, Pa., is in jail charged with being a suspicious person. His case is being investigated by Chief Johnson.

Yesterday afternoon a telephone message was received at the central fire station asking that an officer be sent to the home of Abner Martin in East End.
Officers McCullough and Bryan were detailed on the case and when they arrived Maloy was turned over to them.
A short time before that the individual went to the home of Mrs. Benton Grosshans, in the East End, and inquired if a sewing machine needed repairing. He was taken to a room on the second floor where the machine was,
and he commenced to do some work about it. Mrs. Grosshans went to another part of the house, and when she returned found it different from when she left it. She made an investigation and found that one gold watch, two diamond rings, one band ring which was her wedding ring, and some other jewelry was missing. The man in the meantime had left the house, and went to the Martin home, to which place he was traced by Mrs. Grosshans.

When the officers were bringing him to city hall he denied taking anything, and said with a sarcastic voice "O, they will find it all." When he was searched in jail a shirt owned by Mr. Grosshans was found in his bosom, and a handkerchief which was missing from the house was found in his hip pocket.

At a late hour this afternoon the missing articles had not been found.

One of the Best.

There was a large audience at the Grand last evening to see "McDoodle's Flats" presented by Rice & Barton's comedians. The show was one of the best ever presented in the city, and the audience was kept in a continual uproar from the rise of the curtain until it fell at the close of the last act. The musical specialties by Hughes and Berry were unusually clever while J. K. Mullen was very clever. Romeo Gore, a jealous husband, played the part to perfection. The specialties introduced by the ladies of the company were also very good.

AN EAST END MYSTERY

Bert Maloy, of Johnstown, Although In Jail

SAYS HE IS NO ROBBER

He Called at the Home of B. Grosshans, and Was Admitted to Repair a Sewing Machine—A Few Minutes Later Valuable Jewelry Was Missing.

Bert H. Maloy, who says his home is in Johnston, Pa., is in jail charged with being a suspicious person. His case is being investigated by Chief Johnson.

Yesterday afternoon a telephone message was received at the central fire station asking that an officer be sent to the home of Abner Martin in East End. Officers McCullough and Bryan were detailed on the case and when they arrived Maloy was turned over to them. A short time before that the individual went to the home of Mrs. Benton Grosshans, in the East End, and inquired if a sewing machine needed repairing. He was taken to a room on the second floor where the machine was, and he commenced to do some work about it. Mrs. Grosshans went to another part of the house, and when she returned found it different from when she left it. She made an investigation and found that one gold watch, two diamond rings, one band ring which was her wedding ring, and some other jewelry was missing. The man in the meantime had left the house, and went to the Martin home, to which place he was traced by Mrs. Grosshans.

When the officers were bringing him to city hall he denied taking anything, and said with a sarcastic voice "O, they will find it all." When he was searched in jail a shirt owned by Mr. Grosshans was found in his bosom, and a handkerchief which was missing from the house was found in his hip pocket.

At a late hour this afternoon the missing articles had not been found.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Not Under Control.

Sometimes at sea a ship is found flying the signal, "Not under control." That is a very terrible signal. So long as the machinery and rudder and the rigging are sound and the ship is under complete control she may weather the strongest gale, but now she lies helpless at the mercy of wind and wave. No rescuing ship even dare come very near, for "not under control" means that she is a menace to others as well as herself. So in life we find far too often a man whose conduct indicates that the forces of his life are not under control. That is a sad and dangerous condition, dangerous for himself and for those about him. Safely lies in keeping the elements of character so adjusted that they are always under control, that thus we may keep our manhood true to its divine course.—Universalist Leader.

Laziness of Mind.

There is a laziness of the mind as well as of the body. People loaf mentally as well as physically. One is to be despised quite as much as the other. The man or boy who sits about on street corners and in stores telling idle tales is no more a social nuisance than is he who dawdles over his studies or dreams away the hours wool gathering which should be employed in planning and thinking about the serious problems of life. The mind should be held quite as rigidly to discipline as the body, for an aimless, wandering, unapplicable mind will destroy one's usefulness quite as much as a slothful, flabby, unskilled body.—Churchman.

Swearing.

General Washington, it is said, once uttered an oath, and his example is presented as an excuse for the profanity of other men, but with the statement General Washington's opinion of swearing should always be joined. He said, "This is a vice so mean and low, without any temptation, that every man of sense and character detests and despises it."—Congregationalist.

Mistakes.

People who make mistakes are those who quarrel with one another before their children or who allow the latter to grow up in idleness, those who talk about their troubles before strangers, the father who tells his children to go the way he does not go himself and the young woman who does not make a confidant of her mother.—Lutheran Observer.

Only One Design.

A sculptor has many models from which he chisels various statues, though one may be his masterpiece, but when I come into the Lord's studio I find only one design—that we should be made in the likeness of Jesus Christ.—Bishop Baldwin.

Men and women rarely get so old that in their secret souls they do not still think themselves fit subjects for matrimony.

When the Hickory Nuts Are Fallin'.

About the first days of November seems the world is at its best. With its calm and stately bearing, in its gorgeous beauty dressed True, the flower scents are scarcer than in leafy days of June. An the bird songs ain't as plenty as some summer afternoon. But they's somethin' in the silence with your better nature chimes—Like the Lord wuz somewhat closer then than at all other times! An you walk about the woodlands full er memories an dreams While the hickory nuts are fallin with a spatter in the streams

Roamin by the hazy pastures whar the sagegras spreads away Like a muddy inland river er a slowly wavin bay.

You can mighty nigh see faces that have long been hid from view.

An the skies er old time Aprils in the Jay-bird's coat er blue.

While the whistle er the partridge brings yer boyhood back again.

When you romped along the byways minus care an much er pain.

An you halt wush life had faded with the glad old boyhood dreams.

When the hickory nuts are fallin with a spatter in the streams.

KIND WORDS TO RAYMAN

Board of Education Commends the Superintendent.

WELL PLEASED WITH HIS WORK

Member Peach Voiced the Sentiment, and the Professor Replied in a Fitting Manner—Two Days of Vacation at Thanksgiving Time—Some Other Business.

The board of education met in regular session in the directors' room of the Central building last evening. There were present Members Vodrey, Norris, Williams and Peach. The session was opened with the reading of the xxiv psalm and prayer by Superintendent Rayman. The minutes of the last two meetings were approved.

A gentleman representing an eastern book concern presented to the board a new dictionary which is complete in four volumes. The work was inspected by the board and ten sets were ordered on approval, subject to the action of the text book committee.

The pay roll for the month of October was read. The amount was $2,114.50.

Superintendent Rayman's report for the month ending November 4, is as follows: New enrollment, males 65, females 43; entire enrollment, males 1262, females 1318; monthly enrollment, males 1218, females 1213; re-enrollment, males 20, females 15; re-enrollment No. 2, males 4, females 5; average daily attendance, males 1091, females 1087; percent attendance, males 95, females 93; promoted six, an increase of one over last month; pupils absent, males 713, females 647; pupils withdrawn, males 33, females 53; [last month 17 males and 14 females withdrew]; cases of tardiness, males 160, females 145; cases of truancy, males 21, females none; [last month 11 males and two females were recorded as truants]; corporal punishment, 67; teachers absent 9 1/2 days; visits by patrons, males 16, females 53; visits by board, 5; cases of sickness, males 205, females 244; [last month 132 males and 174 females were sick]; visits by superintendent, 113.

Superintendent Rayman stated that much progress was being made by the scholars in spelling and penmanship. The latter is now being taught in the high school and the progress the scholars have made is commendable.

Miss Shultz, a graduate of the high school of several years ago, has been granted a teacher's certificate, and asked the board to be appointed a substitute. It was done unanimously.

Bids for coal were received from Robert Moore and W. H. Frazier. The average cost per bushel from Mr. Moore was 71-6 cents and Mr. Frazier 7 1/2. The contract was awarded to Mr. Moore.

Mr. Peach stated that he was very much pleased to hear of the rapid progress the scholars have been making under the direction of Superintendent Rayman and if there was any help the board could render him they would do it gladly.

Mr. Rayman replied as follows:

"I am pleased to hear this from the board, and wish to thank them for that which they have done in the past. The crowded condition of the East End school and some others in the city should be remedied. In the Central building so crowded are some of the rooms that scholars are compelled to sit upon front seats." The matter was placed in the hands of the building committee who will make a report of their work at the next meeting.

As has been the custom in the past there will be no school on Friday of next week, the day following Thanksgiving. The teachers will not receive pay for Friday.

Doctor Williams stated that a well known photographer of the city who recently took photographs of the various rooms was now disposing of his work to the scholars at 25 cents a piece. Superintendent Rayman replied that he did not know of the fact, but would see that the action was stopped immediately.

The meeting then adjourned.

A UNIQUE UNIVERSITY.

De Mauny-Talvande Establishes It at Azay-le-Rideau.

Le Comte de Mauny-Talvande, who recently married Lady Mary Byng, lately a maid of honor to the queen, has taken a lease of the Chateau d'Azay-le-Rideau. It is a lovely example of renaissance architecture, perched on a broad island embraced by the river Indre. The park is well wooded and the waters overshadowed by weeping willows. His idea is to receive young Englishmen during the interregnum between the university and their career, whether in the army, the civil service, diplomacy or of enterprise in our colonies. They are treated as guests, and the association is founded on honorable understandings. In the first place, every one engages to talk nothing but French. In the second, more broadly, every one undertakes to enter into the spirit of experiment—that is, to live a reasonable life of mental and bodily activity in a thoroughly French manner.

Professors from the neighboring University of Tours deliver lectures on literature or history. Excursions are made to the many historic castles in the neighborhood—Chenonceaux, Amboise, Loches, Chinon, Langeais—impregnated with historical associations and filled with pictures of historical characters. Afterward essays are written on the lectures and excursions. French comedies are acted, and so forth. Meanwhile those who are studying for examinations for the civil service or their degree have every facility. There is a good library in the chateau, and a famous collection of pictures, including some of the most celebrated Clouets.

The five circular towers at the angles of the chateau afford in their four stories 20 circular studies, any one of which would enchant the heart of an overworked man of letters. In short, if it be possible to recreate a medieval university the best chance is offered by Azay. The students meet the residents of the neighborhood in social intercourse, come into contact at official fetes with the maire and prefect, follow the evolutions of the maneuvers and have only themselves to thank if they do not acquire a thorough knowledge of French life and a perfect facility in the French language.—London Outlook.

SEIZED IN THE EVERGLADES.

Corporal Walker's Experience While Hunting Deserters.

Corporal R. H. Walker, Company K, Sixth Missouri volunteers, returned recently to Jacksonville, Fla., from the everglades, where he went a few days ago to arrest a deserter from his regiment. He relates an interesting experience in the swamp. Walker says he arrived at Stewart, a half wild village on the edge of the everglades, a few days ago. He learned from some Indians that several white men were encamped a short distance in the swamp. In company with a guide he started for the place, feeling confident that his man was one of the number. The camp was reached after he had waded through marsh and water for several miles, but it was deserted. From there Walker was guided to another camp.

He was approaching this den cautiously when suddenly a bullet whizzed by his head. In a moment a grizzled bearded man wearing a soldier's uniform appeared from the brush, rifle in hand, and demanded what was wanted. Four other men also appeared shortly afterward, all heavily armed, and together they seized Walker and made him a prisoner. He informed them that he had not come to arrest them and would not do so if he could. After consultation between themselves Walker was told to go. With his guide he made his way back to the first camp. He strode boldly into the hut, and there on a blanket spread upon a bed of straw was the object of his quest, sleeping soundly with his rifle by his side. Quickly Walker covered the man with two revolvers and he was made to get up. His hands were then tied and he was marched to the station.—Special Chicago Record.

Her Short Honey-moon With a Tramp.

Mrs. Amele Walters, until about a week ago Miss Tennie Fox, is mourning a husband, $100 in cash, a gold watch and jewelry valued at several hundred dollars. About three weeks ago a tramp named Amele Walters appeared at the Fox home and begged a meal. He was accommodated. A week later he returned to pay for the dinner and asked to be taken in as a boarder, as he had secured employment. He stayed at the Fox home a week and met Tennie, the daughter. It was a case of love at first sight, and they were married. The couple went to Pettisville, O., to spend their honeymoon. While there he took the money and articles named above and decamped.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Lost—Another Link.

Where, where is the time honored apron, The apron our grandmothers knew? It was ample and checked, it was ribbon bedecked—

Nay, 'twas every known fabric and hue, And the linen ones whiter than snowdrifts, So glossy with patience and starch! Now, where have they vanished, or has progress banished

Them all in her fin de siecle march? Say, where is that cute little apron With pocket adorned with a bow? (Fascinations untold did that small pocket hold

For the fingers and eyes of each bean.) Such dainty, such furbelowed aprons, Each ruffled or ribboned or laced, With strings most alluring, embracing, securing

It safe to her trim, slender waist! Ah, where is that dearest of aprons, So snowy, so soft and so cool,

When "mother's lap" cured every sorrow endured, Every heartbreak of playground or school? It is folded in lavender, yellowed

With time and with kisses and tears. Her sweet face recalling, her fond caress falling— It summons from long, lonely years. And where is that old fashioned apron, The apron no new woman wears,

Since her smart tailor gown most correctly would frown On such feminine frippery and snares? Then what earthly occasion to wear it

Would office or clubroom allow? No small hands detaining, no home cares constraining, No apron strings tether her now.

Dame Fashion, restore the lost aprons! Make womanly home life the style! Our ball gowns neglect and our tailors reject, Reverse folly's wheel just awhile, And bring back the old days when only

The home seemed the dearest, the best; When Cupid completely each manly heart nearly Bound fast with those apron strings blest! —Ella M. Sexton in San Francisco Chronicle.

Cyclists to Invade Cuba.

Smith N. Fowler of Chicago is now making a trip through the country looking for crack cycle riders to take to Bermuda and the West Indies on a winter tour. His scheme leaked out recently, and his friends and wheelmen generally in Chicago are much interested in it. He intends to take his stars to Bermuda first, give a series of meets there and then go to Cuba and Porto Rico. Mr. Fowler was the promoter of the Florida circuit last winter, and he believes that America's new possessions will prove a bonanza for racing men.—New York World.

The Kaiser's Flying Trip.

Never again let foreigners laugh at American tourists for rushing through renowned picture galleries and boasting of having "done Egypt" in eight days! The German emperor and empress beat the band in the rapidity with which they are doing Palestine. Five minute stops are made at the holy places, and the kaiser makes a speech and the kaiserin snaps a kodak, and then on they pass like a sightseeing whirlwind.—Boston Herald.

Kite Flying Experiments.

W. A. Eddy, of kite flying fame, yesterday performed experiments on Liberty island with a view to ascertaining the effect of the immense amount of bronze in the Liberty statue upon the electrical condition of the surrounding atmosphere. An electrical collector was sent up by means of kites, and it was found that the statue did not absorb the electricity from the atmosphere beyond 100 feet away.—New York Tribune

KIND WORDS TO RAYMAN

WELL PLEASED WITH HIS WORK

Member Peach Voiced the Sentiment, and the Professor Replied in a Fitting Manner—Two Days of Vacation at Thanksgiving Time—Some Other Business.

The board of education met in regular session in the directors' room of the Central building last evening. There were present Members Vodrey, Norris, Williams and Peach. The session was opened with the reading of the xxiv psalm and prayer by Superintendent Rayman. The minutes of the last two meetings were approved.

A gentleman representing an eastern book concern presented to the board a new dictionary which is complete in four volumes. The work was inspected by the board and ten sets were ordered on approval, subject to the action of the text book committee.

The pay roll for the month of October was read. The amount was $2,114.50.

Superintendent Rayman's report for the month ending November 4, is as follows: New enrollment, males 65, females 43; entire enrollment, males 1262, females 1318; monthly enrollment, males 1218, females 1313; re-enrollment, males 20, females 15; average daily attendance, males 1091, females 1087; percent attendance, males 95, females 93; promoted six, an increase of one over last month; pupils absent, males 713, females 647; pupils withdrawn, males 33, females 53; [last month 17 males and 14 females withdrew]; cases of tardiness, males 160, females 145; cases of truancy, males 21, females none; [last month 11 males and two females were recorded as truants]; corporal punishment, 67; teachers absent 9 1/2 days; visits by patrons, males 16, females 53; visits by board, 5; cases of sickness, males 205, females 244; [last month 192 males and 174 females were sick]; visits by superintendent, 113.

Superintendent Rayman stated that much progress was being made by the scholars in spelling and penmanship. The latter is now being taught in the high school and the progress the scholars have made is commendable.

Miss Schertz, a graduate of the high school of several years ago, has been granted a teacher's certificate, and asked the board to be appointed a substitute. It was done unanimously.

Bids for coal were received from Robert Moore and W. H. Frazier. The average cost per bushel from Mr. Moore was 71-6 cents and Mr. Frazier 7 1/2. The contract was awarded to Mr. Moore.

Mr. Peach stated that he was very much pleased to hear of the rapid progress the scholars have been making under the direction of Superintendent Rayman and if there was any help the board could render him they would do it gladly.

Mr. Rayman replied as follows:

"I am pleased to hear this from the board, and wish to thank them for that which they have done in the past. The crowded condition of the East End school and some others in the city should be remedied. In the Central building so crowded are some of the rooms that scholars are compelled to sit upon front seats." The matter was placed in the hands of the building committee who will make a report of their work at the next meeting.

As has been the custom in the past there will be no school on Friday of next week, the day following Thanksgiving. The teachers will not receive pay for Friday.

Doctor Williams stated that a well known photographer of the city who recently took photographs of the various rooms was now disposing of his work to the scholars at 25 cents a piece. Superintendent Rayman replied that he did not know of the fact, but would see that the action was stopped immediately.

The meeting then adjourned.

A UNIQUE UNIVERSITY.

De Mauny-Talvande Establishes It at Azay-le-Rideau.

Le Comte de Mauny-Talvande, who recently married Lady Mary Lyng, lately a maid of honor to the queen, has taken a lease of the Chateau d'Azay-le-Rideau. It is a lovely example of renaissance architecture, perched on a broad island embraced by the river Indre. The park is well wooded and the waters overshadowed by weeping willows. His idea is to receive young Englishmen during the interregnum between the university and their career, whether in the army, the civil service, diplomacy or of enterprise in our colonies. They are treated as guests, and the association is founded on honorable understandings. In the first place, every one engages to talk nothing but French. In the second, more broadly, every one undertakes to enter into the spirit of experiment—that is, to live a reasonable life of mental and bodily activity in a thoroughly French manner.

Professors from the neighboring University of Tours deliver lectures on literature or history. Excursions are made to the many historic castles in the neighborhood—Chenonceaux, Amboise, Loches, Chinon, Langeais—impregnated with historical associations and filled with pictures of historical characters. Afterward essays are written on the lectures and excursions. French comedies are acted, and so forth. Meanwhile those who are studying for examinations for the civil service or their degree have every facility. There is a good library in the chateau, and a famous collection of pictures, including some of the most celebrated Clouets.

The five circular towers at the angles of the chateau afford in their four stories 20 circular studies, any one of which would enchant the heart of an overworked man of letters. In short, if it be possible to recreate a mediæval university the best chance is offered by Azay. The students meet the residents of the neighborhood in social intercourse, come into contact at official fetes with the maire and prefect, follow the evolutions of the maneuvers and have only themselves to thank if they do not acquire a thorough knowledge of French life and a perfect facility in the French language.—London Outlook.

SEIZED IN THE EVERGLADES.

Corporal Walker's Experience While Hunting Deserters.

Corporal R. H. Walker, Company K, Sixth Missouri volunteers, returned recently to Jacksonville, Fla., from the everglades, where he went a few days ago to arrest a deserter from his regiment. He relates an interesting experience in the swamp. Walker says he arrived at Stewart, a half wild village on the edge of the everglades, a few days ago. He learned from some Indians that several white men were encamped a short distance in the swamp. In company with a guide he started for the place, feeling confident that his man was one of the number. The camp was reached after he had waded through marsh and water for several miles, but it was deserted. From there Walker was guided to another camp.

He was approaching this den cautiously when suddenly a bullet whizzed by his head. In a moment a grizzled bearded man wearing a soldier's uniform appeared from the brush, rifle in hand, and demanded what was wanted. Four other men also appeared shortly afterward, all heavily armed, and together they seized Walker and made him a prisoner. He informed them that he had not come to arrest them and would not do so if he could. After consultation between themselves Walker was told to go. With his guide he made his way back to the first camp. He strode boldly into the hut, and there on a blanket spread upon a bed of straw was the object of his quest, sleeping soundly with his rifle by his side. Quickly Walker covered the man with two revolvers and he was made to get up. His hands were then tied and he was marched to the station.—Special Chicago Record.

Her Short Honeymoon With a Tramp.

Mrs. Amele Walters, until about a week ago Miss Tennie Fox, is mourning a husband, $100 in cash, a gold watch and jewelry valued at several hundred dollars. About three weeks ago a tramp named Amele Walters appeared at the Fox home and begged a meal. He was accommodated. A week later he returned to pay for the dinner and asked to be taken in as a boarder, as he had secured employment. He stayed at the Fox home a week and met Tennie, the daughter. It was a case of love at first sight, and they were married. The couple went to Pettisville, O., to spend their honeymoon. While there he took the money and articles named above and decamped.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Choice of Two Evils.

It's always very wrong to fight, But never close your ears When Uncle Sam suggests that he May need new volunteers.

It's always very wrong to fight; The saying's old and terse, But to make battle and get whipped—That's infinitely worse.

Lost—Another Link.

Where, where is the time honored apron, The apron our grandmothers knew? It was ample and checked, it was ribbon bedecked—

Nay, 'twas every known fabric and hue, And the linen ones whiter than snowdrifts, So glossy with patience and starch! Now, where have they vanished, or has progress banished

Them all in her fin de siècle march?

Say, where is that cute little apron With pocket adorned with a bow? (Fascinations untold did that small pocket hold

For the fingers and eyes of each beau.) Such dainty, such furbelowed aprons, Each ruffled or ribboned or laced, With strings most alluring, embracing, securing

It safe to her trim, slender waist!

Ah, where is that dearest of aprons, So snowy, so soft and so cool, When "mother's lap" cured every sorrow endured,

Every heartbreak of playground or school? It is folded in lavender, yellowed With time and with kisses and tears. Her sweet face recalling, her fond caress falling

It summons from long, lonely years.

And where is that old fashioned apron, The apron no new woman wears, Since her smart tailor gown most correctly would frown

On such feminine frippery and snares? Then what earthly occasion to wear it? Would office or clubroom allow?

No small hands detaining, no home cares constraining, No apron strings tether her now.

Dame Fashion, restore the lost aprons! Make womanly home life the style! Our ball gowns neglect and our tailors reject, Reverse folly's wheel just awhile, And bring back the old days when only

The home seemed the dearest, the best; When Cupid completely each manly heart nearly

Cyclists to Invade Cuba.

Smith N. Fowler of Chicago is now making a trip through the country looking for crack cycle riders to take to Bermuda and the West Indies on a winter tour. His scheme leaked out recently, and his friends and wheelmen generally in Chicago are much interested in it. He intends to take his stars to Bermuda first, give a series of meets there and then go to Cuba and Porto Rico. Mr. Fowler was the promoter of the Florida circuit last winter, and he believes that America's new possessions will prove a bonanza for racing men.—New York World.

The Kaiser's Flying Trip.

Never again let foreigners laugh at American tourists for rushing through renowned picture galleries and boasting of having "done Egypt" in eight days! The German emperor and empress beat the band in the rapidity with which they are doing Palestine. Five minute stops are made at the holy places, and the kaiser makes a speech and the kaiserin snaps a kodak, and then on they pass like a sightseeing whirlwind.—Boston Herald.

Kite Flying Experiments.

W. A. Eddy, of kite flying fame, yesterday performed experiments on Liberty island with a view to ascertaining the effect of the immense amount of bronze in the Liberty statue upon the electrical condition of the surrounding atmosphere. An electrical collector was sent up by means of kites, and it was found that the statue did not absorb the electricity from the atmosphere beyond 100 feet away.—New York Tribune

A gentleman representing an eastern book concern presented to the board a new dictionary which is complete in four volumes. The work was inspected by the board and ten sets were ordered on approval, subject to the action of the text book committee.

The pay roll for the month of October was read. The amount was $2,114.50.

Superintendent Rayman's report for the month ending November 4, is as follows: New enrollment, males 65, females 43; entire enrollment, males 1262, females 1318; monthly enrollment, males 1218, females 1213; re-enrollment, males 20, females 15; re-enrollment No. 2, males 4, females 5; average daily attendance, males 1091, females 1087; percent attendance, males 95, females 93; promoted six, an increase of one over last month; pupils absent, males 713, females 647; pupils withdrawn, males 33, females 53; [last month 17 males and 14 females withdrew]; cases of tardiness, males 180, females 145; cases of truancy, males 21, females none; [last month 11 males and two females were recorded as truants]; corporal punishment, 67; teachers absent 9 1/2 days; visits by patrons, males 16, females 53; visits by board, 5; cases of sickness, males 205, females 244; [last month 132 males and 174 females were sick]; visits by superintendent, 113.

Superintendent Rayman stated that much progress was being made by the scholars in spelling and penmanship. The latter is now being taught in the high school and the progress the scholars have made is commendable.

Miss Shontz, a graduate of the high school of several years ago, has been granted a teacher's certificate, and asked the board to be appointed a substitute. It was done unanimously.

Bids for coal were received from Robert Moore and W. H. Frazier. The average cost per bushel from Mr. Moore was 71-6 cents and Mr. Frazier 7 1/2. The contract was awarded to Mr. Moore.

Mr. Peach stated that he was very much pleased to hear of the rapid progress the scholars have been making under the direction of Superintendent Rayman and if there was any help the board could render him they would do it gladly.

Mr. Rayman replied as follows:

"I am pleased to hear this from the board, and wish to thank them for that which they have done in the past. The crowded condition of the East End school and some others in the city should be remedied. In the Central building so crowded are some of the rooms that scholars are compelled to sit upon front seats." The matter was placed in the hands of the building committee who will make a report of their work at the next meeting.

As has been the custom in the past there will be no school on Friday of next week, the day following Thanksgiving. The teachers will not receive pay for Friday.

Doctor Williams stated that a well known photographer of the city who recently took photographs of the various rooms was now disposing of his work to the scholars at 25 cents a piece. Superintendent Rayman replied that he did not know of the fact, but would see that the action was stopped immediately.

The meeting then adjourned.

A UNIQUE UNIVERSITY.

De Mauny-Talvande Establishes It at Azay-le-Rideau.

Le Comte de Mauny-Talvande, who recently married Lady Mary Byng, lately a maid of honor to the queen, has taken a lease of the Chateau d'Azay-le-Rideau. It is a lovely example of renaissance architecture, perched on a broad island embraced by the river Indre. The park is well wooded and the waters overshadowed by weeping willows. His idea is to receive young Englishmen during the interregnum between the university and their career, whether in the army, the civil service, diplomacy or of enterprise in our colonies. They are treated as guests, and the association is founded on honorable understandings. In the first place, every one engages to talk nothing but French. In the second, more broadly, every one undertakes to enter into the spirit of experiment—that is, to live a reasonable life of mental and bodily activity in a thoroughly French manner.

Professors from the neighboring University of Tours deliver lectures on literature or history. Excursions are made to the many historic castles in the neighborhood—Chenonceaux, Amboise, Loches, Chinon, Langeais—impregnated with historical associations and filled with pictures of historical characters. Afterward essays are written on the lectures and excursions. French comedies are acted, and so forth. Meanwhile those who are studying for examinations for the civil service or their degree have every facility. There is a good library in the chateau, and a famous collection of pictures, including some of the most celebrated Clouets.

The five circular towers at the angles of the chateau afford in their four stories 20 circular studies, any one of which would enchant the heart of an overworked man of letters. In short, if it be possible to recreate a medieval university the best chance is offered by Azay. The students meet the residents of the neighborhood in social intercourse, come into contact at official fetes with the maire and prefet, follow the evolutions of the maneuvers and have only themselves to thank if they do not acquire a thorough knowledge of French life and a perfect facility in the French language.—London Outlook.

SEIZED IN THE EVERGLADES.

Corporal Walker's Experience While Hunting Deserters.

Corporal R. H. Walker, Company K, Sixth Missouri volunteers, returned recently to Jacksonville, Fla., from the everglades, where he went a few days ago to arrest a deserter from his regiment. He relates an interesting experience in the swamp. Walker says he arrived at Stewart, a half wild village on the edge of the everglades, a few days ago. He learned from some Indians that several white men were encamped a short distance in the swamp. In company with a guide he started for the place, feeling confident that his man was one of the number. The camp was reached after he had waded through marsh and water for several miles, but it was deserted. From there Walker was guided to another camp.

He was approaching this den cautiously when suddenly a bullet whizzed by his head. In a moment a grizzled bearded man wearing a soldier's uniform appeared from the brush, rifle in hand, and demanded what was wanted. Four other men also appeared shortly afterward, all heavily armed, and together they seized Walker and made him a prisoner. He informed them that he had not come to arrest them and would not do so if he could. After consultation between themselves Walker was told to go. With his guide he made his way back to the first camp. He strode boldly into the hut, and there on a blanket spread upon a bed of straw was the object of his quest, sleeping soundly with his rifle by his side. Quickly Walker covered the man with two revolvers and he was made to get up. His hands were then tied and he was marched to the station.—Special Chicago Record.

Her Short Honeymoon With a Tramp.

Mrs. Amele Walters, until about a week ago Miss Tennie Fox, is mourning a husband, $100 in cash, a gold watch and jewelry valued at several hundred dollars. About three weeks ago a tramp named Amele Walters appeared at the Fox home and begged a meal. He was accommodated. A week later he returned to pay for the dinner and asked to be taken in as a boarder, as he had secured employment. He stayed at the Fox home a week and met Tennie, the daughter. It was a case of love at first sight, and they were married. The couple went to Pettisville, O., to spend their honeymoon. While there he took the money and articles named above and decamped.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Choice of Two Evils.

It's always very wrong to fight, But, none the less, my son, Improve your muscles—don't relax As if all strife were done.

It's always very wrong to fight, But never close your ears When Uncle Sam suggests that he May need new volunteers.

Lost—Another Link.

Where, where is the time honored apron. The apron our grandmothers knew? It was ample and checked, it was ribbon bedecked—

Nay, 'twas every known fabric and hue, And the linen ones whiter than snowdrifts. So glossy with patience and starch! Now, where have they vanished, or has progress banished

Them all in her fin de siecle march?

Say, where is that cute little apron With pocket adorned with a bow? (Fascinations untold did that small pocket hold

For the fingers and eyes of each beau.) Such dainty, such furbelowed aprons, Each ruffled or ribboned or laced, With strings most alluring, embracing, securing

It safe to her trim, slender waist!

Ah, where is that dearest of aprons, So snowy, so soft and so cool, When "mother's lap" cured every sorrow endured,

Every heartbreak of playground or school? It is folded in lavender, yellowed With time and with kisses and tears. Her sweet face recalling, her fond caress falling—

It summons from long, lonely years.

And where is that old fashioned apron, The apron no new woman wears, Since her smart tailor gown most correctly would frown

On such feminine frippery and snare? Then what earthly occasion to wear it? Would office or clubroom allow? No small hands detaining, no home cares constraining, No apron strings tether her now.

Dame Fashion, restore the lost aprons! Make womanly home life the style! Our ball gowns neglect and our tailors reject, Reverse folly's wheel just while, And bring back the old days when only

The home seemed the dearest, the best; When Cupid completely each manly heart neatly

Cyclists to Invade Cuba.

Smith N. Fowler of Chicago is now making a trip through the country looking for crack cycle riders to take to Bermuda and the West Indies on a winter tour. His scheme leaked out recently, and his friends and wheelmen generally in Chicago are much interested in it. He intends to take his stars to Bermuda first, give a series of meets there and then go to Cuba and Porto Rico. Mr. Fowler was the promoter of the Florida circuit last winter, and he believes that America's new possessions will prove a bonanza for racing men.—New York World.

The Kaiser's Flying Trip.

Never again let foreigners laugh at American tourists for rushing through renowned picture galleries and boasting of having "done Egypt" in eight days! The German emperor and empress beat the band in the rapidity with which they are doing Palestine. Five minute stops are made at the holy places, and the kaiser makes a speech and the kaiserin snaps a kodak, and then on they pass like a sightseeing whirlwind.—Boston Herald.

Kite Flying Experiments.

W. A. Eddy, of kite flying fame, yesterday performed experiments on Liberty island with a view to ascertaining the effect of the immense amount of bronze in the Liberty statue upon the electrical condition of the surrounding atmosphere. An electrical collector was sent up by means of kites, and it was found that the statue did not absorb the electricity from the atmosphere beyond 100 feet away.—New York Tribune

UNION LABELS.

It should be a deep-rooted principle of all union workmen and union sympathizers, and particularly those members of the different organizations of East Liverpool, to buy nothing but Union Label goods, in preference to all others. And why not? If we ask fair wages for our labor, why should we buy goods made at unfair wages by others? The Union Label in every industry is a guarantee of fair wages, decent working hours, and union labor employed.

PATRONIZE UNION CLERKS.

All members of the R. C. N. P. A. can show this card. Ask for it when making your purchases. Endorsed by the A. F. of L.

COLOR IS CHANGED EACH QUARTER.

Good only during months named in lower left hand corner and when properly signed, and STAMPED with the number of the Label.

UNION MADE BOOTS AND SHOES.

The Boot and Shoe Workers' union is the national head of the trade, and is a new combination of all the branches of boot and shoe workers. The above trade-mark when found on the sole or lining of a boot or shoe, is a guarantee that the same is made by union labor. Look for the above design stamped on the sole of every pair of boots or shoes you buy.

CUSTOM TAILORS' LABEL.

The Journeymen Tailors' Label is to be found in the inside breast pocket of the coat, on the under side of the buckle strap of the vest, and on the waistband lining of the pants. It is printed in black ink on white linen.

UNION MADE HATS.

This Label is about an inch and a half square, and is printed on buff-colored paper. It is placed on every union made hat before it leaves the workman's hands. If a dealer takes a label from one hat and places it on another, or has any detached labels in his store, do not buy from him, as his label may be counterfeit, and his hats may be the product of scab or non-union labor.

UNION MADE CLOTHES.

You will find the linen label attached by machine stitching to the inside breast pocket of the coat, on the inside of the buckle strap of the vest, and on the waistband lining of the pants.

GIVING MONEY TO SCHOOL BOARD

To Be Used In Employing a Physical Director For the Public Schools—A Friend of the Movement Presents a Decidedly Original Idea.

MR. EDITOR:—Since reading the plan of "Citizen" in your issue of Wednesday last for physical culture in the public schools, the subject has been continually before me and the importance of the physical development of our children is more and more deeply impressed upon my mind.

It is indeed a lamentable fact, to which every parent in our city can add testimony, that few, of all the children who attend our schools, are physically sound and robust, and could some way be devised whereby this object could be attained, those who aid in this commendable work will not only merit, but undoubtedly receive the blessings of their children and of generations yet unborn.

Your correspondent very ably set before us the folly of pursuing the intellectual development of our children to the complete exclusion of the physical, and could some means be devised for placing in the hands of the board of education sufficient funds to carry out the work with the express desire of the parents in this city that such a work be undertaken, I have no doubt but that body, aided by our excellent superintendent, could so arrange the school work as to give place for instruction along this line in every room for a brief time once or twice each week.

But while this is a "consummation devoutly to be wished for and the beginning of an era of robust manhood and womanhood which would exert an untold influence for good in the future of our beloved country, yet the thoughtful citizen, resolving himself into a committee of one on ways and means, is confronted with the mighty question: How can this be brought about? Our board of education, exercising the greatest care possible in the expenditure of the public funds entrusted to them, find the entire amount at their disposal needed for the prosecution of the work already in hand, with little margin to provide the extended accommodation so urgently needed for our rapidly increasing school population, and would doubtless meet any request for the employment of a "physical director" in the schools with the seemingly answerable reply, "No Funds."

Then, too, some might be found who would look upon this vital question as a mere matter of play instead of a truly elemental step in thorough education, and object to what they would call an unwarranted expenditure of public funds.

I believe there are enough "citizens" in our city to overcome both the objections I have cited and to enable a thorough test of the idea to be made.

Permit me to suggest the following plan, which with such changes as may be deemed necessary by the superintendent and board of education, and with such details as may be found expedient for the successful carrying on of the work, will, I believe, give every child-lover in our city who recognizes the value of good health and a well-developed physique for the rising generation, an opportunity to help in a movement which has in it that power which shall revolutionize our ideas of thorough education and make us a nation to be both feared and envied by the entire world.

Your paper has ever been the champion of every laudable effort for the improvement of our city, and I am sure would not be backward in this.

Let a public subscription be asked for from individuals or groups of individuals, in sums of not less than one dollar per annum, to be paid to the treasurer of the board of education, either in a lump sum or in quarterly installments, and let all subscriptions be acknowledged in your columns at least once each week, showing the amount previously subscribed, and the total thus reached.

The board of education would, of course, be required to keep this fund separate from all other money, and to use it only for the purpose designated, i. e., the employment of a physical director steadily in our schools until the fund was exhausted.

Long ere this, I have faith to believe, we shall have seen enough of the first fruits of the system to fully demonstrate its merit, and should the public funds afterward prove insufficient for carrying on the work thus instituted there would be such a hearty response to a second call as would bear testimony to the truth of the claims advanced by "Citizen."

WOMEN OF MANILA.

A CORRESPONDENT'S IMPRESSIONS OF THE FILIPINO BEAUTIES.

He Says They Are All as Ugly as Sin. They Smoke Big Cigars and Chew Betel Nuts—How They Walk—Something About Manila.

G. C. Carlton of the San Francisco Call, who has just returned from the Philippines, says:

"I longed for a sight of those picturesque Filipino beauties that I had read about. The papers and magazines had represented them as charming dusky damsels.

"I traveled through the streets of Manila for nine days, eagerly looking for a female 'type,' that I might describe to my friends at home. Not one. All as ugly as sin. I am ready to believe that the graceful and attractive Filipino is like the beautiful Indian maiden, who, since the death of Pocahontas, is nowhere to be found out of Fenimore Cooper's novels. The Filipino girls wear a costume that is especially adapted for that climate. Those who can afford it dress in thin, gauzy stuff, a diaphanous and iridescent fabric woven from silk and a mixture of the pineapple leaf. It is called jusi, and yet another fabric is known as 'pinta cloth.' The Filipino girls wear their thick, black, glossy hair done up in rolls, much like the Chinese and Japanese women. On their feet are wooden slippers, which click, click, click on the flag-tones as they trip along the street, sometimes with a basket of something balanced on their heads and again with a huge Manila cigar between their lips stained red with betel nut.

"Two Filipino girls meet on the street, both bareheaded, as Filipino girls invariably are. One is puffing a big cigar. Girl No. 1 says something in Spanish to the other, who immediately removes the cigar from her mouth, spits a stream of betel nut juice from between her lips, and hands the cigar to her friend.

"If I had been near enough and knew enough Spanish, doubtless I should have heard this dialogue: 'Senorita, give me a light, will you? How is business? Are you going to take in the cockfight this evening?'

"For chicken fighting, as everybody must know, has until recently been the national sport of the Filipinos. At the Oriental hotel I was endeavoring to inquire in the best Spanish I could command where and when I could see a cockfight.

"Guerrero gallo — guerrero gallo. Donde? y cuando?" I asked.

"A mite of a Filipino girl (about 20 years old or so, I should say) tripped up smilingly and offered to escort me to a cockfight if I would pay the way. I surveyed her carefully and concluded that I didn't care to see a cockfight, but I said to her: 'After awhile. Must go up town now.' Would you believe it? When I got back, three hours later, the Filipino girl was waiting for me. I told her I had learned up town that cock-fights had been prohibited (which was the truth), and then purchased my release by paying her a peseta."

"Manila itself is not a 'city,' although there are 200,000 or 300,000 inhabitants there and in the suburbs. It is just a rambling, ramshackly old place, with (one and sometimes two) storied houses, built of wood, with red tile roofs. Frequently the entire upper story of the dwelling houses is a sort of bay window—that is to say, they would be bay windows if they were not square. These windows extend across the entire front and are provided with sliding shutters. Frequently these small wooden dwelling houses are vine clad. There are trellises of morning glories—delicate tints of pink and blue—and hollyhocks, too, on either side of the door. In the yards I saw flaming red blossoms of the pomegranate and pepper tree and palms. These flowers, plants and shrubs do much to redeem Manila and render life tolerable if not pleasant to the visitor.

"Manila is not a compactly built town. These little houses are separated, and, in some parts of town, isolated, one from the other; but this is in the outlying districts, where, too, may be seen many houses constructed of bamboo, thatched with palm or palmetto leaves. The 'streets' of Manila's outlying districts are nothing more than ordinary lanes, bordered by palm trees, pepper trees, and pomegranate, with here and there, in the grass, a profusion of tiny pink and blue blossoms. In the outlying districts you have fresher air, the flowers breathe a sweet perfume; but in Manila proper—that is to say, in the heart of 'Binondo,' or in the 'Intra-Mura'—one's nostrils are greeted with all sorts of noisome whiffs—the most offensive smells that ever offended a man's nose."

THE CIGARS OF MANILA.

Now Much Better Than Those Americans Used to Smoke.

Cigars and cigarettes are remarkably cheap, even in the face of the economic conditions that exist in the east. The cheapest cigars are sold for $10 per 1,000, and the most expensive for $100 per 1,000. Reduce that to a gold basis and you find yourself wondering how they can be made for the money. The cigarettes are even cheaper. The cheapest grades retail for 1½ and 2½ cents Mexican per package of 24 and 30 cigarettes, and the grades in most common use sell at the factory for $20 Mexican, or $9.50 gold, per 1,000 packages of 24 and 30 cigarettes each. The best cigars can be bought at retail at the cigar stands for 5 and 10 cents Mexican, and it is recorded that in the days of the monopoly a very fair cigar, as Manila cigars go, could be bought for 1 and 2 cents Mexican.

The genuine Manila cigar of today is not known in the United States, and if ever it finds its way there it will at once spring into immense popularity. The old Manila cigar, short and stubby, or cone shaped, is rapidly passing, and in its place modern cigars are being made. All of the modern shapes in vogue in Europe and America have been introduced since the monopoly ceased to exist and anything that pleases the fancy may be had at the kiosks of Manila. The modern cigar, made of the best Cagayan or Isabel tobacco, is not as good as the Cuban product, but it will bear fair comparison with it, and is certainly the superior of scores of the domestic brands sold in the United States. The tobacco is milder, and there is no flavoring introduced into it nor any chemical process resorted to in treating it.

There are 15,000 Americans in Manila now, and they take very kindly to the better grades of Manila cigars and freely predict a revolution in the cigar industry in the United States in the event of the annexation of Luzon of the Philippine group. The cigarettes are also made of pure tobacco. The entire industry has suffered on account of the inferior grades that are shipped from here, and Manila cigars have been unfairly condemned.—Manila Cor. Chicago Inter Ocean.

HIS LIFE SPENT IN SEWERS.

An English City Will Pension John Grubb For Fifty Years' Service.

The municipal authorities of Birmingham, England, have resolved to pension a man who has spent nearly half a century in building and exploring the sewers of Birmingham. His life contradicts the proverbial unhealthiness of sewer gas and lack of sunlight. The name of this important official is John Grubb, and he has traversed from six

Grubb boasts that he has not known a day of sickness throughout his subterranean career, though during the first decade of his office there was hardly a single well constructed sewer in the city, and he was daily in danger of being attacked by armies of rats and was compelled to inhale the foulest odors. During the last half of his career he has constructed 14 miles of sewers in the most approved modern style. He has survived all of his employees, some of them not being able to stand the work more than a few years.

Grubb is now a septuagenarian and his vigorous health augurs that he will live 20 years more. The sewer veteran says his retirement may prove detrimental to his health. The greatest peril he has been exposed to occurred some 20 years ago on the occasion of the queen's visit to Birmingham. He was overtaken by storm water. A terrific rainstorm had broken over the city and the water was rushing into the sewers in torrents. It was a thrilling race for life, as he and his workmen had to fight big regiments of rats with their shovels, scaring them by howls and yells, as they made their way, submerged to their shoulders, to a distant manhole, which they knew could be opened.—New York Journal.

Curious Discovery In Mashonaland.

Much interest has been aroused among numismatists by news recently received from Rhodesia respecting the discovery of ancient Venetian coins in proximity to one of the Mashonaland rivers. The coins in question have, in the meantime, been sent down to Natal and submitted to expert scrutiny at Pietermaritzburg, with the result that casts of the originals are to be sent on to London. The coins have been declared to be medals struck at Venice between 1570 and 1577 A. D. On one side is the figure of St. Mark, with the inscription, "This dukedom is thine, O Christ, and the giver be thine," while on the reverse are three figures, two in a kneeling position, the other upright, with a halo, on which the inscription is, "The Doge Aloys Mocenigo, first magistrate of Venice."—St. James Gazette.

GIVING MONEY TO SCHOOL BOARD

To Be Used In Employing a Physical Director For the Public Schools—A Friend of the Movement Presents a Decidedly Original Idea.

MR. EDITOR:—Since reading the plan of "Citizen" in your issue of Wednesday last for physical culture in the public schools, the subject has been continually before me and the importance of the physical development of our children is more and more deeply impressed upon my mind.

It is indeed a lamentable fact, to which every parent in our city can add testimony, that few, of all the children who attend our schools, are physically sound and robust, and could some way be devised whereby this object could be attained, those who aid in this commendable work will not only merit, but undoubtedly receive the blessings of their children and of generations yet unborn.

Your correspondent very ably set before us the folly of pursuing the intellectual development of our children to the complete exclusion of the physical, and could some means be devised for placing in the hands of the board of education sufficient funds to carry out the work with the express desire of the parents in this city that such a work be undertaken, I have no doubt but that body, aided by our excellent superintendent, could so arrange the school work as to give place for instruction along this line in every room for a brief time once or twice each week.

But while this is a "consummation devoutly to be wished for and the beginning of an era of robust manhood and womanhood which would exert an untold influence for good in the future of our beloved country, yet the thoughtful citizen, resolving himself into a committee of one on ways and means, is confronted with the mighty question: How can this be brought about? Our board of education, exercising the greatest care possible in the expenditure of the public funds entrusted to them, find the entire amount at their disposal needed for the prosecution of the work already in hand, with little margin to provide the extended accommodation so urgently needed for our rapidly increasing school population, and would doubtless meet any request for the employment of a "physical director" in the schools with the seemingly unanswerable reply, "No Funds."

Then, too, some might be found who would look upon this vital question as a mere matter of play instead of a truly elemental step in thorough education, and object to what they would call an unwarranted expenditure of public funds.

I believe there are enough "citizens" in our city to overcome both the objections I have cited and to enable a thorough test of the idea to be made.

Permit me to suggest the following plan, which with such changes as may be deemed necessary by the superintendent and board of education, and with such details as may be found expedient for the successful carrying on of the work, will, I believe, give every child-lover in our city who recognizes the value of good health and a well-developed physique for the rising generation, an opportunity to help in a movement which has in it that power which shall revolutionize our ideas of thorough education and make us a nation to be both feared and envied by the entire world.

Your paper has ever been the champion of every laudable effort for the improvement of our city, and I am sure would not be backward in this.

Let a public subscription be asked for from individuals or groups of individuals, in sums of not less than one dollar per annum, to be paid to the treasurer of the board of education, either in a lump sum or in quarterly installments, and let all subscriptions be acknowledged in your columns at least once each week, showing the amount previously subscribed, the subscriptions for the current week, and the total thus reached.

The board of education would, of course, be required to keep this fund separate from all other money, and to use it only for the purpose designated, i. e., the employment of a physical director steadily in our schools until the fund was exhausted.

Long ere this, I have faith to believe, we shall have seen enough of the first fruits of the system to fully demonstrate its merit, and should the public funds afterward prove insufficient for carrying on the work thus instituted there would be such a hearty response to a second call as would bear testimony to the truth of the claims advanced by "Citizen."

WOMEN OF MANILA.

A CORRESPONDENT'S IMPRESSIONS OF THE FILIPINO BEAUTIES.

He Says They Are All as Ugly as Sin. They Smoke Big Cigars and Chew Betel Nuts—How They Walk—Something About Manila.

C. C. Carlton of the San Francisco Call, who has just returned from the Philippines, says:

"I longed for a sight of those picturesque Filipino beauties that I had read about. The papers and magazines had represented them as charming dusky damsels.

"I traveled through the streets of Manila for nine days, eagerly looking for a female 'type,' that I might describe to my friends at home. Not one. All as ugly as sin. I am ready to believe that the graceful and attractive Filipino is like the beautiful Indian maiden, who, since the death of Pocahontas, is nowhere to be found out of Fenimore Cooper's novels. The Filipino girls wear a costume that is especially adapted for that climate. Those who can afford it dress in thin, gauzy stuff, a diaphanous and iridescent fabric woven from silk and a mixture of the pineapple leaf. It is called jusi, and yet another fabric is known as 'pinta cloth.' The Filipino girls wear their thick, black, glossy hair done up in rolls, much like the Chinese and Japanese women. On their feet are wooden slippers, which click, click, click on the flag-tones as they trip along the street, sometimes with a basket of something balanced on their heads and again with a huge Manila cigar between their lips stained red with betel nut.

"Two Filipino girls meet on the street, both bareheaded, as Filipino girls invariably are. One is puffing a big cigar. Girl No. 1 says something in Spanish to the other, who immediately removes the cigar from her mouth, spits a stream of betel nut juice from between her lips, and hands the cigar to her friend.

"If I had been near enough and knew enough Spanish, doubtless I should have heard this dialogue: 'Senorita, give me a light, will you? How is business? Are you going to take in the cockfight this evening?'

"For chicken fighting, as everybody must know, has until recently been the national sport of the Filipinos. At the Oriental hotel I was endeavoring to inquire in the best Spanish I could command where and when I could see a cockfight.

"Guerrero gallo — guerrero gallo. Donde? y cuando? I asked.

"A mite of a Filipino girl (about 20 years old or so, I should say) tripped up smilingly and offered to escort me to a cockfight if I would pay the way. I surveyed her carefully and concluded that I didn't care to see a cockfight, but I said to her: 'After awhile. Must go up town now.' Would you believe it? When I got back, three hours later, the Filipino girl was waiting for me. I told her I had learned up town that cock-fights had been prohibited (which was the truth), and then purchased my release by paying her a peseta."

"Manila itself is not a 'city,' although there are 200,000 or 300,000 inhabitants there and in the suburbs. It is just a rambling, ramshackly old place, with (one and sometimes two) storied houses, built of wood, with red tile roofs. Frequently the entire upper story of the dwelling houses is a sort of bay window—that is to say, they would be bay windows if they were not square. These windows extend across the entire front and are provided with sliding shutters. Frequently these small wooden dwelling houses are vine clad. There are trellises of morning glories—delicate tints of pink and blue—and hollyhocks, too, on either side of the door. In the yards I saw flaming red blossoms of the pomegranate and pepper tree and palms. These flowers, plants and shrubs do much to redeem Manila and render life tolerable if not pleasant to the visitor.

"Manila is not a compactly built town. These little houses are separated, and, in some parts of town, isolated, one from the other; but this is in the outlying districts, where, too, may be seen many houses constructed of bamboo, thatched with palm or palmetto leaves. The 'streets' of Manila's outlying districts are nothing more than ordinary lanes, bordered by palm trees, pepper trees, and pomegranate, with here and there, in the grass, a profusion of tiny pink and blue blossoms. In the outlying districts you have fresher air, the flowers breathe a sweet perfume; but in Manila proper—that is to say, in the heart of 'Binondo,' or in the 'Intra-Mura'—one's nostrils are greeted with all sorts of noisome whiffs—the most offensive smells that ever offended a man's nose."

The best cigars can be bought at retail at the cigar stands for 5 and 10 cents Mexican, and it is recorded that in the days of the monopoly a very fair cigar, as Manila cigars go, could be bought for 1 and 2 cents Mexican.

The genuine Manila cigar of today is not known in the United States, and if ever it finds its way there it will at once spring into immense popularity. The old Manila cigar, short and stubby, or cone shaped, is rapidly passing, and in its place modern cigars are being made. All of the modern shapes in vogue in Europe and America have been introduced since the monopoly ceased to exist and anything that pleases the fancy may be had at the kiosks of Manila. The modern cigar, made of the best Cagayan or Isabel tobacco, is not as good as the Cuban product, but it will bear fair comparison with it, and is certainly the superior of scores of the domestic brands sold in the United States. The tobacco is milder, and there is no flavoring introduced into it nor any chemical process resorted to in treating it.

There are 15,000 Americans in Manila now, and they take very kindly to the better grades of Manila cigars and freely predict a revolution in the cigar industry in the United States in the event of the annexation of Luzon of the Philippine group. The cigarettes are also made of pure tobacco. The entire industry has suffered on account of the inferior grades that are shipped from here, and Manila cigars have been unfairly condemned.—Manila Cor. Chicago Inter Ocean.

HIS LIFE SPENT IN SEWERS.

An English City Will Pension John Grubb For Fifty Years' Service.

The municipal authorities of Birmingham, England, have resolved to pension a man who has spent nearly half a century in building and exploring the sewers of Birmingham. His life contradicts the proverbial unhealthiness of sewer gas and lack of sunlight. The name of this important official is John Grubb, and he has traversed from six

Grubb boasts that he has not known a day of sickness throughout his subterranean career, though during the first decade of his office there was hardly a single well constructed sewer in the city, and he was daily in danger of being attacked by armies of rats and was compelled to inhale the foulest odors. During the last half of his career he has constructed 14 miles of sewers in the most approved modern style. He has survived all of his employees, some of them not being able to stand the work more than a few years.

Grubb is now a septuagenarian and his vigorous health augurs that he will live 20 years more. The sewer veteran says his retirement may prove detrimental to his health. The greatest peril he has been exposed to occurred some 20 years ago on the occasion of the queen's visit to Birmingham. He was overtaken by storm water. A terrific rainstorm had broken over the city and the water was rushing into the sewers in torrents. It was a thrilling race for life, as he and his workmen had to fight big regiments of rats with their shovels, scaring them by howls and yells, as they made their way, submerged to their shoulders, to a distant manhole, which they knew could be opened.—New York Journal.

Curious Discovery In Mashonaland.

Much interest has been aroused among numismatists by news recently received from Rhodesia respecting the discovery of ancient Venetian coins in proximity to one of the Mashonaland rivers. The coins in question have, in the meantime, been sent down to Natal and submitted to expert scrutiny at Pietermaritzburg, with the result that casts of the originals are to be sent on to London. The coins have been declared to be medals struck at Venice between 1570 and 1577 A. D. On one side is the figure of St. Mark, with the inscription, "This dukedom is thine, O Christ, and the giver be thine," while on the reverse are three figures, two in a kneeling position, the other upright, with a halo, on which the inscription is, "The Doge Aloys Mocenigo, first magistrate of Venice."—St. James Gazette.

His Ideal of a Soldier.

Captain Lee of the British army says that General Chaffee, lieutenant colonel of the Third cavalry, who commanded a brigade in the attack on Santiago, comes nearer his ideal of a soldier than any other man he has seen in the United States army.—Chicago Record.

Firing Through Glass.

A musket ball may be fired through a pane of glass making a hole the size of the ball without cracking the glass. If the ball is suspended by a thread, it will make no difference, and the thread will not even vibrate.

QUAKERS' OF RUSSIA.

PLAN TO COLONIZE TEN THOUSAND DHOUKHOBORTSI IN AMERICA.

They Are Tolstol's "Pets," a Religious Sect Persecuted in Russia and Siberia For the Last Hundred Years. Tenets of Their Faith.

Members of the Dhokhobortsi, one of Russia's many peculiar religious sects, for the last five years the especial protegee of Count Tolstoi, are seeking to teach the United States, and a committee, comprising William Dean Howells, Jane Addams of the Hull House, Chicago; William Lloyd Garrison of Boston, the Rev. Dr. George Dana Boardman of Philadelphia, N. O. Nelson of St. Louis and Bolton Hall and Ernest H. Crosby of New York was formed recently in Philadelphia, to gather the necessary funds. Isaac N. Seligman is treasurer of the committee.

When Count Tolstoi began his present ascetic and benevolent mode of life, he became deeply interested in the Dhokhobortsi, and they have come to be known as his "pets." During the last five years Tolstoi has devoted almost his entire time to them and has bombarded the czar with petitions, begging permission for them to leave the country.

Their name means spirit wrestlers or champions of the spirit. They were first heard of publicly in Russia in 1750, when they were unearthed by the imperial police. Their origin is directly traceable to an English Quaker resident in Russia. They deny the existence of a personal God and believe God lives in the soul of every man, and is inseparable from any human being. According to their doctrine memory is God the Father; reason, God the Son, and will, God the Holy Ghost. They accept the fall of Adam as historical, but deny that it had anything to do with the fall of any other man, contending that the fault was Adam's alone and descended to no one else. They regard Christ as nothing more than a good man.

They say they are the only true worshippers of God and regard the rest of the world as superstitious and idolatrous. They consider, however, that their church comprises all men, who know that God has chosen them, though such cannot be recognized by any outward sign. They believe in the immortality of the soul, but not in hell, paradise or the prospective destruction of the world. When the millennium comes, they say, all sinners will be wiped away and the righteous will possess the earth, but still be obliged to work, be born and die just as now.

According to their belief, a child has no soul until one enters its body, some time between its sixth and fifteenth years. In social intercourse they acknowledge no such relationships as father and child, and denounce the compulsion of one man to do the will of another as sacrilege. The greatest abomination in their eyes before God is the Russian government, yet they are the most submissive men, have never offered the slightest resistance and have always paid their taxes with the utmost punctuality. Their family ties are based entirely on mutual affection. When affection ceases, they leave each other. They call their wives sisters. Children call their father and mother old man and old woman, and parents speak of their offspring as children of the tribe and not of individuals.

Their first severe persecution began on Aug. 28, 1799, under a ukase of Paul I, in which he ordered that all members of this sect should be banished to the Siberian mines for life. They were condemned to the hardest work, and their hands and feet were always to be bound, so that, in the language of the ukase, "they who deny the supreme authority of earthly potentates, enthroned by the will of God, should feel sharply on their own bodies that there are authorities established by God on earth for the defense of the good and for the chastisement of villains like themselves."

In consequence of this ukase about 15,000 persons were transported to Siberia. They were flogged repeatedly with knouts and in 300 instances, according to official records, were mutilated. Alexander I gave them permission in 1832 to colonize on a Siberia farm, which their thrift and industry made very valuable in a short time. In 1839 their number had increased to 25,000, and the government seized their farm, sending all those able to serve into the Caucasian army corps and those unfit into the Nerchinsk lead mines, the deadliest of Siberia.

They did not decline to fulfill the peaceful duties of the regiments, but when face to face with an enemy they lay down. No amount of corporal punishment could make them go forward. They were allowed to return to Russia in 1860, and some 15,000 did so, only to be driven from one part of Russia to another until a few years ago, never being allowed to remain longer than six months in any one place. By this means their number has been reduced to 10,000.

Tolstoi's admirers in England and the United States have determined to do all in their power to bring these people hither and locate them in the west or southwest. Mr. Mode, a wealthy Englishman, who lives with Tolstoi and has given liberally to the great Russian's charitable schemes, arrived the other morning, and is now in Khinebeck, N. Y., to make preparations for locating a temporary colony there. A small nucleus is now on the outskirts of London, and the English government has granted permission for the Dhokhobortsi to be taken to Cyprus, as a step on their way to the United States, as the czar's decree allows only two years for their removal from Russia.—New York Herald.

BIG COAL FAILURES.

Receiver Named For Two Companies Operating In This State—Liabilities $1,200,000.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 15.—The Turney & Jones Coal company of Columbus and the Pennsylvania and Ohio Fuel company of St. Paul, with offices also in Chicago, were by the federal court put into the hands of the Security and Title company of Chicago as receivers. In the suit of Putnam against these companies application was made to have George S. Beason of Columbus also as receiver, but on the objection of Samuel N. Felton, receiver of the Columbus, Sandusky and Hocking Railroad company, Judge Taft refused to confirm Beason, who has been employed by the coal company.

Receiver Felton pleaded that these coal companies owed the Columbus, Sandusky and Hocking Railroad company $35,000, and that its interest should be considered. Judge Taft reserved to a further date the appointment of some practical coal operator as co-receiver.

The companies are among the largest that ever operated in the Ohio coal fields. Their troubles commenced in the summer of 1897 with the great coal strike. They had large contracts to fill in the northwest and were unable to get coal until late in the summer, and then at a high price and with very high lake rates.

The result was a loss of over $200,000 at that time. This summer they bought large quantities of coal, which is still on their docks, while their collections have been very slow. As they bought the coal early, a great deal of paper has fallen due before receipts were coming in. The crisis was brought about by New York parties declaring due the whole of an issue of $280,000 of obligations because one of the installments was not paid promptly.

The liabilities amount to $1,200,000. The officers of the companies claim they will pay it in full if the assets are carefully handled. The two companies were owned by the same parties—mostly by H. D. Turney of Columbus and John S. Jones of Chicago—and had to stand or fall together.

The mines of these companies furnished about one-half of the coal tonnage for the Columbus, Sandusky and Hocking railroad, and the future of that property depends very largely on what is done by the newly-appointed receivers of these coal companies.

FIRE IN DAWSON.

Woman of the Town Accused of Igniting a Building by Throwing a Lamp.

SKAGWAY, Alaska, Nov. 7, via Victoria, B. C., Nov. 15.—Returning Klondikers arriving in this city brought the news that the city of Dawson had been visited with a $500,000 fire, in which 40 buildings were burned, including the new postoffice building and some of the best buildings in the city. The fire took place on the morning of Oct. 16. It started in the Green Tree saloon as the result of a row between two women of the town. Belle Mitchell threw a lighted lamp at another woman.

ANOTHER VICTIM OF TRAGEDY.

Edward Beilstein Found Dead on His Murdered Mother's Grave.

PITTSBURG, Nov. 15.—Edward, the eldest brother of Bertha Beilstein, added another chapter Monday to the horrible Spring Garden tragedy by committing suicide on his mother's grave.

On the morning of Oct. 2 at 5 o'clock Bertha A. Beilstein, in a supposed temporary fit of insanity, fired three shots from a 32-caliber revolver through the breast and head of her aged mother. Shortly after she attempted suicide. Her death is expected daily by her physicians.

On the day of the double tragedy David Reich, aged 73 years, a protegee of the late J. Fred Beilstein, who lived at the Beilstein residence on Spring Garden avenue, threw himself in front of an express train at Verner station, on the Port Wayne railroad, and had his head severed from his body.

QUAKERS' OF RUSSIA.

They Are Tolstoi's "Pets," a Religious Sect Persecuted in Russia and Siberia For the Last Hundred Years. Tenets of Their Faith.

Members of the Dhoukhobortsi, one of Russia's many peculiar religious sects, for the last five years the especial protegee of Count Tolstoi, are seeking to teach the United States, and a committee, comprising William Dean Howells, Jane Addams of the Hull House, Chicago; William Lloyd Garrison of Boston, the Rev. Dr. George Dana Boardman of Philadelphia, N. O. Nelson of St. Louis and Bolton Hall and Ernest H. Crosby of New York was formed recently in Philadelphia, to gather the necessary funds. Isaac N. Seligman is treasurer of the committee.

When Count Tolstoi began his present ascetic and benevolent mode of life, he became deeply interested in the Dhoukhobortsi, and they have come to be known as his "pets." During the last five years Tolstoi has devoted almost his entire time to them and has bombarded the czar with petitions, begging permission for them to leave the country.

Their name means spirit wrestlers or champions of the spirit. They were first heard of publicly in Russia in 1750, when they were unearthed by the imperial police. Their origin is directly traceable to an English Quaker resident in Russia. They deny the existence of a personal God and believe God lives in the soul of every man, and is inseparable from any human being. According to their doctrine memory is God the Father; reason, God the Son, and will, God the Holy Ghost. They accept the fall of Adam as historical, but deny that it had anything to do with the fall of any other man, contending that the fault was Adam's alone and descended to no one else. They regard Christ as nothing more than a good man.

They say they are the only true worshipers of God and regard the rest of the world as superstitious and idolatrous. They consider, however, that their church comprises all men, who know that God has chosen them, though such cannot be recognized by any outward sign. They believe in the immortality of the soul, but not in hell, paradise or the prospective destruction of the world. When the millennium comes, they say, all sinners will be wiped away and the righteous will possess the earth, but still be obliged to work, be born and die just as now.

According to their belief, a child has no soul until one enters its body, some time between its sixth and fifteenth years. In social intercourse they acknowledge no such relationships as father and child, and denounce the compulsion of one man to do the will of another as sacrilege. The greatest abomination in their eyes before God is the Russian government, yet they are the most submissive men, have never offered the slightest resistance and have always paid their taxes with the utmost punctuality. Their family ties are based entirely on mutual affection. When affection ceases, they leave each other. They call their wives sisters. Children call their father and mother old man and old woman, and parents speak of their offspring as children of the tribe and not of individuals.

Their first severe persecution began on Aug. 28, 1799, under a ukase of Paul I, in which he ordered that all members of this sect should be banished to the Siberian mines for life. They were condemned to the hardest work, and their hands and feet were always to be bound, so that, in the language of the ukase, "they who deny the supreme authority of earthly potentates, enthroned by the will of God, should feel sharply on their own bodies that there are authorities established by God on earth for the defense of the good and for the chastisement of villains like themselves."

In consequence of this ukase about 15,000 persons were transported to Siberia. They were flogged repeatedly with knouts and in 300 instances, according to official records, were mutilated. Alexander I gave them permission in 1832 to colonize on a Siberia farm, which their thrift and industry made very valuable in a short time. In 1839 their number had increased to 25,000, and the government seized their farm, sending all those able to serve into the Caucasian army corps and those unfit into the Nerchinsk lead mines, the deadliest of Siberia.

They did not decline to fulfill the peaceful duties of the regiments, but when face to face with an enemy they lay down. No amount of corporal punishment could make them go forward. They were allowed to return to Russia in 1860, and some 15,000 did so, only to be driven from one part of Russia to another until a few years ago, never being allowed to remain longer than six months in any one place. By this means their number has been reduced to 10,000.

Tolstoi's admirers in England and the United States have determined to do all in their power to bring these people hither and locate them in the west or southwest. Mr. Mode, a wealthy Englishman, who lives with Tolstoi and has given liberally to the great Russian's charitable schemes, arrived the other morning, and is now in Khinebeck, N. Y., to make preparations for locating a temporary colony there. A small nucleus is now on the outskirts of London, and the English government has granted permission for the Dhoukhobortsi to be taken to Cyprus, as a step on their way to the United States, as the czar's decree allows only two years for their removal from Russia.—New York Herald.

BIG COAL FAILURES.

Receiver Named For Two Companies Operating In This State—Liabilities $1,200,000.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 15.—The Turney & Jones Coal company of Columbus and the Pennsylvania and Ohio Fuel company of St. Paul, with offices also in Chicago, were by the federal court put into the hands of the Security and Title company of Chicago as receivers. In the suit of Putnam against these companies application was made to have George S. Beason of Columbus also as receiver, but on the objection of Samuel N. Felton, receiver of the Columbus, Sandusky and Hocking Railroad company, Judge Taft refused to confirm Beason, who has been employed by the coal company.

Receiver Felton pleaded that these coal companies owed the Columbus, Sandusky and Hocking Railroad company $95,000, and that its interest should be considered. Judge Taft reserved to a further date the appointment of some practical coal operator as co-receiver.

The companies are among the largest that ever operated in the Ohio coal fields. Their troubles commenced in the summer of 1897 with the great coal strike. They had large contracts to fill in the northwest and were unable to get coal until late in the summer, and then at a high price and with very high lake rates.

The result was a loss of over $200,000 at that time. This summer they bought large quantities of coal, which is still on their docks, while their collections have been very slow. As they bought the coal early, a great deal of paper has fallen due before receipts were coming in. The crisis was brought about by New York parties declaring due the whole of an issue of $280,000 of obligations because one of the installments was not paid promptly.

The liabilities amount to $1,200,000. The officers of the companies claim they will pay it in full if the assets are carefully handled. The two companies were owned by the same parties—mostly by H. D. Turney of Columbus and John S. Jones of Chicago—and had to stand or fall together.

The mines of these companies furnished about one-half of the coal tonnage for the Columbus, Sandusky and Hocking railroad, and the future of that property depends very largely on what is done by the newly-appointed receivers of these coal companies.

I desire personally to thank you for the courtesy you have shown me, and the information you have furnished me from time to time throughout the campaign.

With personal regards, I am

Yours truly,

H. M. DAUGHERTY,

Chairman.

A MURDERER'S CHUM.

NEW YORK CLUBMAN'S EXPERIENCE AS A ROUGH RIDER.

His Smooth Faced Tentmate, Who Talked Like a Woman, Proved to Be a Murderer Wanted in Kansas. Arrested, but Escaped.

A number of the New York boys who enlisted with the rough riders experienced some severe shocks during the first few days that that regiment was in camp in Tampa, while getting acquainted with their associates in the organization. A young New York clubman who served through the Santiago campaign with Colonel Roosevelt told the following story of his first days in the regiment at the University club the other night.

"I went to Tampa alone, after the regiment had been there for several days, armed with letters, which, I felt pretty sure, would result in my being taken in. I had heard much about the rough riders, but never having been in the west I had no idea what kind of men formed the nucleus of the regiment, although I had heard there were lots of cowboys and western bad men in the ranks. The day I struck Tampa I presented my letters to Colonel Wood, and the next day I was a trooper. My troop was made up almost entirely of westerners, and at that time I was the only New Yorker in it. I didn't make friends very rapidly, but my tentmate seemed a decent sort of fellow, and I was soon on pretty good terms with him. He was a tall, smooth faced fellow, with a firm jaw and a keen eye, and, I should say, about 30 years of age. He was very quiet, but when he did talk it was in a voice as soft as a woman's.

"I made up my mind that he was a good fellow, but rather diffident, and that in order to make our relations more cordial I must draw him out. I felt rather sorry for him and for a time made a point of going everywhere with him in order to make him feel more comfortable. He took my overtures in good part and seemed to enjoy my company. About the fourth day it suddenly dawned on me that my bashful little 'bunkie' knew all about me, while all I knew about him was that his name was Redmond. So I just tackled him one day and told him that, as we might be together for months, I'd like to know who he was and where he came from and whether he had a family.

"He gave me a queer look, mumbled something about seeing me later, and left the tent. I made up my mind right there that there was some sad secret in his life that he couldn't talk about to so new an acquaintance as myself, and I didn't bother him again. I was so blue myself about being away from my friends and relatives that a great wave of pity for this poor fellow, who seemed so much less able to stand trouble than I, swept over me. The second night after this Redmond put on his coat and said he was going out for a walk. 'Hold on a minute,' I said, 'and I'll go with you.' 'Oh, I'm not going far,' he said. 'You'd better stay. I'll be back in an hour.' 'But I want to go,' I said. 'I'm sick of hanging around the tent.'

"He said no more, and we went out together. There were no guards but the provost guards, and the men could wander around at will. We went into the town and stopped at a saloon, where Redmond made me gasp by drinking nearly half a tumbler of whisky without wincing. We went to several other places and had drinks, and finally, at my suggestion, started back for camp. We were passing through a very dark street when Redmond suddenly came to a standstill, and, hauling out his big cavalry revolver, examined it carefully, and then, turning to me, said: 'You'd better step in that doorway a moment. I'll be right back.' I looked up and then noticed about a hundred yards away a man coming toward us. He was a well dressed, prosperous looking man, and as I saw Redmond take a step in his direction it came over me all of a sudden what he intended to do.

"'See here, Redmond,' I called, walking forward and catching him by the shoulder. 'What are you going to do?' 'Hold him up,' he said in his soft voice. 'Go in a doorway; it won't take a moment.' 'Not a bit of it,' I said. 'You'll do no such work as that while I'm around.' An expression which betrayed the man's real character came over his face and for a second I thought he was going to shoot me. Before he got a chance, I continued: 'Redmond, if you need some money, I'll help you out. I've got a little. I won't stand for any such game as this, though.' 'I can get along until we get a pay day on $5. Can you let me have that much?' 'Certainly,' I said, and I gave him a bill in a hurry, for the stranger was getting dangerously near us. He put up his revolver and the stranger passed us, little knowing what a narrow escape he had had.

"Redmond never made the slightest reference to the affair on our way back to camp, but when we got in our tent I told him very plainly that I was going to quit him, and I made an exchange with another man the next day. A week later he gave back my $5. We hadn't had a pay day and I don't know where he got the money.

"It wasn't until I got to Camp Wikoff that I learned all about Redmond.

I came up to that camp from Cuba. He came from Tampa and got there ahead of me. When I got there, he was under guard, although he wasn't supposed to know it. He was wanted in Kansas for murdering two women, and the Kansas officer who brought on the warrant told a tale of Redmond's career that was blood curdling. A sergeant was put on guard over him so that he couldn't get away, but one night while the sergeant was peacefully sleeping Redmond cut out the whole back of the tent and escaped. The next day the detective came on to arrest Redmond, but the bird had flown."—New York Sun.

JIM HUTCH, THE "SKIPPER."

Hired For Life by Editor Medill, He Held His Job Until the End.

His name was James G. Hutchins, but all the old printers in the country knew him as "Jim Hutch," and the office in which he worked for 40 years knew him as the "skipper." He made up the paper in the mornings. He knew everybody's manuscript and footprints and earmarks. He had seen editors and city editors and reporters and night editors and their assistants come and go. He knew the names of all the out of town correspondents. When the rush hour came and there were but few minutes to elapse before the last page went down and the air was sulphurous, "Jim Hutch" was placid and sang merrily and smiled. Between the first and second editions he told stories of the old days in the office.

When the big fire occurred in the town, "Jim Hutch," Tom Sullivan and Jim Snow were working at the case. They staid until the plaster fell from the ceiling and, hot and blistering, "pied their sticks." The next day they went with the editor to an attic and helped him get out the first newspaper after the great fire. It was a typographical curiosity and not much larger than a sheet of letter paper, but it was the only one in the town that day. They continued work in the attic until the newspaper resumed its former size, and in larger quarters, and the editor, Mr. Medill, said one day: "Tom Sullivan, you be foreman; Jim Hutch, you be night foreman; Jim Snow, you take the 'ad.' case. And each of you hold your job as long as I am editor and as long as you live, for if I die first I shall arrange to have you stay."

"Jim Hutch" is the first to go. Mr. Medill is still the editor of the Chicago Tribune. Tom Sullivan is foreman. Jim Snow has the "ad." cases.—New York Sun.

GIRLS STUDYING FARMING.

Fifty In the New Dormitory of the Minneapolis Agricultural College.

Fifty girls have taken up the scientific study of farming this year in the College of Agriculture at Minneapolis, says the New York Sun. They have entered for the full course, and will work in the same classes with the men. Heretofore girls have been allowed to study at the college only six weeks in the year and that during the summer months, after the men's classes had dispersed for the long vacation. This year they are to have full use of all the college privileges. They have now a dormitory of their own, and a new staff of instructors for special subjects in the girls' department has been added to the faculty.

Girls are admitted to the college on the same conditions as boys. The agricultural course of study covers a term of three years, and includes every practical subject needed for farming. Field crops and seeds, agricultural engineering, agricultural chemistry, farm economics, animal husbandry, dairying, entomology, horticulture, forestry, veterinary medicine and surgery—these are some of the things the girls are learning about this year. Instead of blacksmithing, carpentry and military drill, which are required of the men, the girls take laundering, cooking, sewing, house management and social and physical culture. No classics are required, but German, French and Scandinavian are substituted as being of more value to the student of scientific farming.

MANY DIE IN NEW GUINEA.

But In Spite of the Terrible Climate Orchid Collectors Are Busy.

The death rate in British New Guinea is alarming. Some white men die within a few weeks of their arrival, owing to the climate. The rich gold mines cannot be worked on this account. The Chinese have been tried, but they, too, die off like flies. Samoans were also tried and six out of ten died in three weeks. The natives cannot be induced to work. Mr. Shanahan, a government agent, has died of fever and dysentery. He is the third official in three years to thus perish.

In spite of this state of affairs flower fanciers are traveling through the country collecting marvelous orchids unknown in other parts of the world.—Exchange.

The most remarkable scheme of the acquisitive genius of the Rockefeller is to acquire the Cherokee Indian lands in the Indian Territory, which are said to be rich in oil. But the territorial laws will needs be changed, for they now prohibit any but red men and "squaw" men from holding property in the territory.

NOVEL CLERICAL IDEA

NORTHWESTERN UNIVERSITY DIVINITY MEN TAUGHT HOW TO MARRY.

Western Professor of Oratory Institutes a New Regime in the Divinity Course—How It Will Benefit the Other Students.

Professor Robert McLean Cumnock, president of the Cumnock School of Oratory at Northwestern university, has instituted a new regime in preparing his divinity students for the practical side of their future work. Each Friday the chords of the bridal chorus from "Lohengrin" float from the keys of the chapel organ, the melodious voice of a divinity student chants the marriage service and the mock marriage ceremony is solemnized with attention to the minutest details. There are the student groom and blushing "co-ed" for a bride, the best man and the bridesmaids, Professor Cumnock acting as guardian to give away the bride.

In placing this course in Northwestern's curriculum it is the intention of Professor Cumnock to give his divinity students drill in officiating at marriages of every class that they may meet with in the vicissitudes of their future work. There are to be marriages in high life, with six bridesmaids and as many groomsmen as can be crowded at the chancel rail. There will be conducted the quiet wedding, with only a few friends of the family present. All of the services—both brief and prolix—are to be used. The embryonic divine will be shown just where to stand and how. He will be instructed in regard to the best usages of etiquette, the manner of receiving his fee and how to kiss the bride. He will also learn how to compose his countenance and restrain his lacerated feelings when there is no fee forthcoming.

Professor Cumnock is of the opinion that a mild, even monotone is more preferable for the officiating clergyman to assume than a grand, reverential and sublime style. He argues that the tones of the human voice, when properly trained, are most soothing to the perturbed feelings of novices at the altar, and those hardened by many visits to the matrimonial shrine are left out of the professor's consideration. The ministers to be are instructed not to shout the words, "Please join your right hands," like an excited general giving the order to close up ranks, but the entire service, from the filling out of the certificates to the pocketing of the fees, must be conducted in a smooth, even monotone, consistent with the whispered replies in which the trembling pair swear fealty to one another.

It must not be supposed that the divinity students are to reap all of the benefits of this course. The other seniors of the class who have no ministerial aspirations are utilized as material to practice upon. Their benefits are purely objective, and these are held by many of the students to be the most desirable of the course. On ceremonial days at the school of oratory the principals in the mock contract are selected with a view to giving each student a chance. The two processions mobilize in the opposite aisles of the auditorium, and, with their regulation escorts and convoys, proceed to the platform, where the minister awaits the attack. The bride is given away, while the bridesmaids watch the proceedings with ill concealed jealousy. The groom, while manifestly rattled, attempts to follow the general order of events, and the officiating student receives the interruptions for correctness of pronunciation and deportment with proper curbing of his feelings.

Here is where the benefits of the secular part of the ceremony come in. Loitering in the hymeneal procession is frowned upon. An erect bearing of all parties to the transaction is strictly enjoined, and the groom is given special instructions to carry a high head and not look sheepish. The students of the course are rapidly improving in the minor details, but many need further coaching on personal composure. It is admitted that if the female is of uncertain age and shows a propensity to arouse a choice assortment of snuffles the man is entirely justified in showing sundry quakes and tremors, but it is thought that a few more lessons will give to the most timorous the air of an Ajax defying the lightning. Elopement graduates of the school hereafter will be able to utter the matrimonial vows with perfect composure with the footstep of the irate father of the bride sounding on the roadway just outside the door.

Professor Cumnock denies any attempt to cultivate the affections of his students or to promote a greater intimacy than naturally exists in a co-educational institution like Northwestern. In fact, this has already given the authorities of the university much concern, three elopements having been chronicled from Northwestern during the last two years.

"If we should attempt to place that feature in our curriculum," said Professor Cumnock, "we would need a building that would cover the campus, and then we would have to refuse admittance to hundreds at matriculation. The only object in going through the marriage ceremony is to give the divinity students practical experience before

VETERAN ANDERSON

Talks of War and the Legacy That Was Left Him for His Share in It.

Like every city in our republic, East Liverpool has its share of veterans, who, in spite of pensions, are paying dearly for the privilege that they had in enduring the exposure, hardships, toil, sickness and risk of death for the glory of their country in the "late unpleasantness." If the testimonials received from old soldiers who endorse the claims for Doan's Kidney Pills—and these same are now disappearing in the localities where they were unearthed—were published in East Liverpool, they would fill every column of every newspaper in East Liverpool. There would be nothing gained by their publication, for neither quantity nor quality of foreign testimony can touch evidence furnished by a local citizen. Read what Mr. Wm. Anderson, of 305 Lisbon street, says:

"During the Civil War I enlisted and served three years in the 43d Ohio Infantry. From the exposure during the war I attribute my late trouble which bothered me more or less ever since, some attacks being much worse than others. Severe aching and weakness in the loins so bad at times that I could scarcely get around, and muscular rheumatism of recent years, all seemed to have centered in my kidneys. In the mornings when first getting up I was very dizzy until I had moved around for a time, and my nervous system became affected, causing a fluttering and fullness around the heart. Seeing an advertisement in the Review, I got Doan's Kidney Pills at the W. & W. Pharmacy, and took them. The first few doses gave me relief. The improvement was gradual, but continued as the medicine got more thoroughly in the system. I firmly believe Doan's Kidney Pills will, in every case, as they did in mine, prove the justness of the claims made for them."

Doan's Kidney Pills are for sale by all dealers. Price, 50 cents. Mailed by Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States. Remember the name, Doan's, and take no other.

City Employees Are Weary of Waiting.

COUNCIL CANNOT GET TOGETHER

Troubled Because of the Illness of One Member and the Resignation of Another, Lieutenant Bootes Is Home—All the News of Wellsville.

The situation in council is becoming serious. Bills amounting to about $1,000, now past due, cannot be paid until an order is passed for their payment. With one member ill, only eight members are left after the resignation of B. Rand. If for any cause any one of the eight cannot attend a meeting no bills can be paid. At the time of the regular meeting there were not enough present and at the called meeting last week only three members answered. J. Goetz was called away to attend the funeral of a relative in New York City, so no meeting could be held last night. It was proposed to call a special meeting for Thursday of this week, as by that date Mr. Goetz was expected home, but a business engagement will probably call Mr. Minor out of town on that day.

Meantime the men whose salaries and wages are past due are needing their money, and the members of council are being interviewed as to what is going to be done about it. Each member sadly shakes his head and assures the interviewer that he don't know. The names of candidates for the vacancy were not sent in time for a place on the ticket at the recent election.

Saw Active Service.

Lieutenant Bootes, who was called from his position with the Cleveland and Pittsburg company when the war broke out, returned to Wellsville last night.

When he left he was ordered to the Lancaster, but was soon transferred to the Wilmington. The ship was ordered to join the fleet off Santiago, and remained in those waters until the protocol was signed. The ship was then sent north, and the lieutenant remained for a week in Washington. He is now on leave, and does not know when he will be discharged. The lieutenant's plans are not yet matured, but he will report to the railroad company at Cleveland at once.

School Board Meeting.

The school board held a meeting last evening at which all members of the board were present except President White.

A number of bills were ordered paid.

On motion the schools will be closed from Wednesday evening Nov. 23 until Nov. 28.

No other business came before the board and adjournment was had after a very short session.

Mrs. N. Champney and sister, Miss Julia McCain, left on the morning train for New Milford, after which they will go to Cleveland to visit friends before returning home.

The Lesson of the Cross.

It is the cross of Christ that furnishes not only the programmes of philanthropy, but as well the power necessary for humanitarian effort. The motive truths of the cross are the great dynamic forces of missions and ministries the world over. Faith in the One who loved us and gave Himself for us moves to faith in the men whom He can redeem. The exhibition of the supreme sacrifice of a Divine sufferer to produce an imitative impulse in the wondering worshipers of that Saviour. The grace of God energizing the soul pushes it out along lines of lowly and kindly service. Love to God becomes the strongest and steadiest inspiration to love for man.—New York Observer.

Sunday a Necessity.

Mr. Gladstone's daughter once stated in a letter that her father said "He did not believe he would be alive now if he had not always kept his Sundays quite apart from his ordinary, and especially his political life, not only because of the pure refreshment it has always been to him to turn to holier things on that day, but because it has enabled him to learn more on religious subjects than perhaps any other layman, and so has given him that firm and splendid ground which has ennobled and hallowed all his actions through life."

May Adopt Our scheme.

Germany has decided to send a naval attache to Washington. Is it possible that Germany is going to try and solve our system of playing naval favorites?—Washington Post.

Slightly Bewildered.

Our town of Pawpaw-on-the-Creek set out to stir the nation By celebratin peace. We planned a monster demonstration. But presently black eyes was scattered through the hull committee Because the chairman made remarks that wa'n't exactly pretty. Wives sided with their husbands, as they'll do in outside matters; School children took it up, tore one another's books to tatters; The neighborin townships all mixed in; the row's been gettin thicker Till life insurance companies dodge a Pawpaw-on-the-Cricker.

It's what he calls a paradox, my friend, the wise perferress. I take his word fur it, 'cause he's a most accomplished guesser. It's jes' the same way with the czar; he starts a peace petition. An all the world gits up an says the amiable condition Which he suggests is what we need, an then the bayonets rattle. An all the monarchs put themselves in readiness fur battle. It beats my time to see the funny way that things'll happen. With everybody yellin "Peace!" an everybody scrappin!

—Washington Star.

Novel Contest.

A horse hitching match took place in Main street, in the center of Arcola, Ill., the other day. The unique contest was the outcome of a prize offered by Charles H. Hickman, a local harness dealer, to the woman who would hitch a harnessed horse to a buggy the quickest. There were six entries, and each woman went at her task with as little concern as the average hostler, and the time made in each case was remarkably fast considering the limited space in which the contestants were compelled to work, the immense crowd taking up every inch of spare room. Miss Watson, a young woman from the country, won first in 2:30 flat, while Mrs. Alfred Donley was a close second with a mark of 2:33.—Arcola (Ills.) Cor. Chicago Chronicle.

The Foreign Situation.

Recent news tends to confirm the theory advanced by the New York World the other day that England is arming in preparation for the announcement that her occupation of Egypt is to be made permanent. A French diplomat in Washington says, "There is not the slightest chance that Fashoda alone will lead to war." He adds that "if there is to be an issue at all it will be on the larger question of Egypt in general." The situation is further complicated by the "clearing for action" of the British warships in Chinese waters, apparently to resist the rumored purpose of Russia to seize the treaty port of Newchwang.

UNION PAPERS.
All Union papers of East Liverpool are known to the various craft and unions of
the city by the printing of the above
Union Labels at the head of their columns

MIDST the sound of martial music and the tramp of marching feet, Major Weybrecht is probably forgetting that he
the use of his name as a candidate for congress.

As the people hear more of the war
and the manner in which it was conducted they appreciate the wild stories of the yellow newspapers and
the tales told during the campaign by the Democratic party. There is every reason to believe that history will tell
election.

WHILE the announcement that Secretary Gage has been converted and now
believes the American flag should remain where American heroism has planted may tend to bring converts
to that belief, it does not necessarily follow that President McKinley's policy
would have failed without the gentleman's support.

It matters not what proportion of the dispatches from Paris is truth, the fact remains that it is only a matter of time until Spain must yield. Europe is not rushing to her defense and her last effort is therefore exhausted. With a discouraged army, and dismantled navy
she must quietly accede to any demand
this country makes. There is no other alternative.

THE NEWS REVIEW appreciates the letter of Chairman Daugherty, of the State Republican committee, because it contains commendation from a man who is in position to know whereof he speaks. His close and careful watch of the campaign put him in touch with all features tending to make it the success
it has developed.

CONGRESSMAN LENTZ, the Columbus
chap who has made anything but a brilliant record in Washington, is being boomed as the favorite of Democracy
for governor. Lentz would make a good candidate for the Republicans. It goes without saying that he would not be elected, but his nomination would insure less work for the Republican committee next year.

The manner in which Attorney General Monnett is fighting the Standard Oil company is worthy the highest commendation. The trust for the first time in years has found a foe man worthy its best efforts, and while it may succeed in evading the law once more it cannot but understand that this state is in earnest
and for once has a law that means business.

JOHN SHERMAN.

Taking the word of a sensational New York journal as a basis a number of Democratic newspapers of Ohio are weaving some readable stories upon the position John Sherman occupies in politics. That it is all directed against President McKinley goes without saying, but for what purpose cannot be understood, unless it is the pure cussedness
of those Democratic leaders who are not in the best of humor, and who, like a bear with a sore head, must do something to make themselves ridiculous.
That they should attempt to use Sherman in order to create discontent in the Republican party is too transparent to work harm to any one except themselves.

WENT OVER THE LAND

The Jury Viewed Pennsylvania
Avenue Property.

Having Obtained Some Idea of the Ground, They Will Tomorrow Hear
Testimony--Council Will Settle at the Next Session.

Although President of Council Marshall has patiently worked for several years to have Pennsylvania avenue
opened to East End it was not until this morning that the necessary steps were taken to open the street.

The jury empanelled to view the land and set a valuation upon it arrived
in the city yesterday afternoon in charge of Deputy Sheriff Supplee and this morning went over the ground. All
of the several plats to be appropriated were carefully viewed, and the jury adjourned and returned to Lisbon shortly before noon.

Tomorrow morning they will recon-
vene at 9 o'clock when the case will be heard. The testimony of a large number of witnesses will be taken and the jury will set a price upon the several plats of land.

The result will be given at the next meeting of council when it is probable
the claims will be paid unless they are thought to be too high. There will be no improvement on the street this year,
but it will be put in such shape that
work can be commenced early in the spring and the roadway paved.

CITY WORK.

Engineer George Is Rapidly Winding
It Up.

The work of grading Bradshaw avenue was completed yesterday, and the force this morning commenced work setting the curb.

The improvement in Lisbon road is
now entirely completed, and yesterday
Engineer George finished measuring up
the street. It is probable council will open their eyes when they see the bill
for the amount of work done.

NO MEETING.

Council and Sewer Commissioners Did Not Get Together.

Council and the sewer commissioners
again failed to meet last evening owing to the fact that a majority of the commissioners were out of the city.

President Marshall and Members Cain
and Challis were the only parties who were present and they remained at city hall but a few minutes. It is probable a meeting will be held later in the week.

RABBITS ON A WAGER.

Charley Smith Believes He Can Kill Sixty
In Two Days.

Charles A. Smith, George Brant and Joseph W. Geon yesterday started on a two days' hunt.

Mr. Smith wagers $50 that he can kill 60 rabbits in that length of time, and
the outcome is watched with interest.
He has a carrier and is permitted to use

A PROPOSITION

Is Expected From the Railroad People by Wellsville.

Last evening J. L. Francis, T.
Dwight, W. H. Folts, Mayor Bough
and H. A. Keffer called on the Wells-ville board of improvement and were in consultation with several members of the board for about an hour. The railroad project was reviewed to the board at length by Messrs Francis and Folts, and after that the board expressed a desire
to have the road run to Yellow Creek,
but before any attempt is made to raise any money a proposition must be received from the promoters of the scheme.

If the board receives this paper this week, the work of collecting money will be commenced at once. Another joint

STILL HOPEFUL.

Work.

The Hospital association have not yet
given up hope of establishing a temporary hospital in the city, and a meeting will be held in the near future
to see how much money they have collected.

The subscription papers have been well signed, but the $1,000 necessary has not yet been secured.

GOING TO IRELAND.

Former Member of the News Review Staff
to Take a Vacation.

W. T. Anderson, well known to many people in the city as a former member of the NEWS REVIEW staff, was in the city today from McKeesport where he has been editor of the Morning Journal.
He was accompanied by Mr. Nill.

Mr. Anderson will leave on Friday
for Ireland where he will enjoy a deserved vacation.

The Drummer Boy of Shiloh.

On the River.

The river continues to fall, but a good boating stage will continue for several days. The packets will run all winter
from present indications. The marks at the wharf at noon today registered 15 feet, a fall of 1.6 feet since yesterday morning.

The Queen City and the Avalon went up today, and the Kanawha and Argand will be down tonight. The Ben Hur and Keystone State went down last night, and both boats had good trips
out of this place.

One of the largest shipments which
ever passed the city went down today.
It consisted of a cargo of steel rails in nine barges, three coal boats and six full barges. The rails were valued at

Pleasant Surprise.

A very pleasant surprise party was given last evening at the residence of John A. George in honor of his son
John who celebrated his birthday.

The evening was spent in music and games and much amusement was caused by the young men in the party presenting the host with a number of toys.

In the City.

recent unpleasantness with Spain as a private in Company K, Eighteenth Pennsylvania Volunteer infantry, and
who has been working in Kittanning
since being mustered out, is in the city today.

church Thursday night for hot turkey supper. 25 cents.

Giving Up Hope.

The parties who proposed building a co-operative glass plant in East End and could not secure the necessary bonds,
have about given up hope of locating anywhere, and it is probable the scheme
will be dropped.

THE SUDAN COUNTRY

MANY OF ITS PRODUCTS ARE VERY VALUABLE TO COMMERCE.

It is a Region Where Agriculture and Trade Would Smile With Benefice if Controlled by White Men.
Description of Dervishes.

By his recent victories in the Sudan
and the destruction of the khalifa's
power in the taking of Omdurman, the Bagdad of the mahdists, General Kitchener has brought under the control of civilization an important part of the earth's surface with a tremendous population and a productivity drawn upon
by a large portion of the western world.
The Sudan has an area of 2,000,000
square miles and a population that is estimated between 80,000,000 and 90,- 000,000. It is comprised of that section of Africa that lies immediately south
of the great desert of Sahara. On the south it is bounded by the Abyssinian
highlands, on the east by the lands that drain the Kongo and on the west by Senegambia. These are the average boundaries. Various geographers have given the Sudan various boundaries.

Eastern Sudan, in which the civilized
world is now particularly interested,
owing to recent events in the east and
the triumph of the sirdar's army, has
an area of 950,000 square miles and a population of more than 10,000,000.
This territory until 1882 was more or less under the rule of Egypt. People in general are familiar with Sudanese history and with the terrible slaughter
which the fanatic mahdists dealt out to brave Englishmen, Hindus and Egyptians. For the death of Gordon, the massacre of Hicks' army and the devilry in general of "Fuzzy Wuzzy," whom Kipling has immortalized in the song, the British people have for years
vowed vengeance, or, not to put too fine a point upon it, the reconquest of
the Sudan.

It is pretty freely admitted on all hands that "Fuzzy Wuzzy" will be breaking no more British squares or squares of any other nationality for some time to come. It matters little
how the British got into the Sudan—
whether for aggression or not. Once in,
their savage foes treated them in a manner to arouse the indignation of
any white man, and the putting down
of the dervishes and the laying low of
the hideous, cruel, brutal, blind, slave
trafficking khalifa is a distinct advance
for any civilization, British or otherwise.

But to return to the Sudan—as a country. The whole of upper Egypt is surrounded on three sides by deserts.
The desert regions are inhabited by the Arabs, whose chief industry is cattle
raising. The Sudan produces various commodities, many of them very valuable to commerce. The ARABS of the desert are fine sheep and camel raisers.
The camel is the most important beast
in the entire region and is used as the chief means of transport. On the mountains between Berber and Suakin sena is produced in large quantities. From the Sudan comes the chief supply of gum arabic. In the regions of the Atbara and Setitte rivers mimosas grow
in thickets. On the plains between the Blue Nile and the upper Atbara corn is grown so freely that a camel's load costs only a dollar. Other products are sesame, from which fine oil is extracted;
millet seed, which is called dochan,
and cotton. In almost all parts of the Sudan where cultivation is at all possible the soil will produce plentifully
such goods as sugar, spices and all sorts of tropical fruits. Below Omdurman
wheat is grown in large crops. From the regions of the White Nile come
ivory and india rubber. Rare feathers,
which find their way into the shops of
the capitals of Europe and America,
are brought down from the country beyond the Sudan and through it. It is a region in which agriculture and trade
would smile with beneficence if white
men had control of it.

Such is the Sudan—place of black
mystery, of death, of adventure, of wild
men and murder, the faroff Cathay to the American, the land of blood and revenge for the Briton.

The original of "Fuzzy Wuzzy" is
the devoted dervish of the Baggara tribe
who lives in the cultivated regions of Kordofan—tribes which threw themselves into the "holy war" with a fervor
that put all the other Arabs to the blush
and even astonished the prophet himself. The Baggara man has a skin like that of the American Indian, and for his athletic form, physical beauty, elegance of hand and foot, has few equals
in the world. He wears a white shirt

striped with red, leaving the right arm
uncovered, and he is very fond of trinkets, necklaces, beads and other adorn-
ments of person that appeal to savage
tastes. He carries the lance and the Solengin sword, and he never forgives
an enemy. He knows but one thing well
—hate of the European, whether that European be English, Irish, Scotch,
French or German, or, if there is another thing he knows better, it is his devotion to his religion—a devotion blinder,
more self sacrificing, in many ways
more sublime, than the transfiguring
devotion of the early Christian martyrs.
In a word, he is a human devil.—Chicago Times-Herald.

FELL DOWN A SHAFT

Now Charles M. Dix Wants
$5,000 Damages

FROM MRS. FOUTTS AND OTHERS

Thomas Haden Wants Some Money From the Wallace and Chetwynd Company For Work—Other Petitions Filed and News About the Court House.

LISBON, Nov. 15.—[Special]—C. M. Dix, of East Liverpool, has sued Eliza Foutts and others, asking $5,000 damages.

The petition says that the defendants own a large brick building at Fifth and Market streets, and by reason of negligence in leaving the elevator way open the plaintiff fell, permanently injuring his back.

Thomas Haden asks for a judgment of $330.50 against the Wallace & Chetwynd Pottery company, Nettie Wallace and Wallace & Chetwynd. The amount is claimed for work.

The case of the East End Pottery company, of Liverpool, against Joseph Deacon, is being tried today. The company sues for $3,500 from Deacon for mixing oxide of cobalt with their ground flint. It will be remembered that Deacon was convicted of the criminal charge of malicious destruction of property, and fined $500 and costs, the total being $700.

The case of I. B. Cameron against Cynthia Bradshaw was settled, the defendant paying $350 back taxes.

Alvina J. Hollister, administratrix of the estate of George Shinn, has filed a petition against Preston Groner, of Leetonia, and Sophia Zimmerman, claiming $500 on a promissory note.

The executors of John Cuning, of Unity, have been authorized to sell real estate.

E. W. Holtz, assignee of Cornelius Senning, of Leetonia, has paid a dividend of 42 per cent to the general creditors.

A WIFE'S COMPLAINT

Fortune.

Yesterday evening William Fortune, who lives with his family in Third street opposite city hall, was placed in jail by Officer Mahony at the request of his wife. He was very drunk when the officer gathered him in, and after a charge was placed against him he was put in the lockup for the night. He will be given a hearing this evening.

David Mackey, who was arrested Saturday evening in the Diamond for being drunk and put up security for his appearance, called at city hall last night. He pleaded guilty to the charge against him, and was fined $7.60 and released.

Nothing has been done by the police in the cases of the two recent robberies. One of the officers stated last night that it was probable nothing would ever be done in the matter, as from what he could learn there were no clues on which they could work. None of the stolen goods have been recovered, although the matter has not been entirely dropped by the authorities.

One of the Best.

There was a large audience at the Grand last evening to see "McDoodle's Flats" presented by Rice & Barton's comedians. The show was one of the best ever presented in the city, and the audience was kept in a continual uproar from the rise of the curtain until it fell at the close of the last act. The musical specialties by Hughes and Berry were unusually clever while J. K. Mullen was very clever. Romeo Gore, a jealous husband, played the part to perfection. The specialties introduced by the ladies of the company were also very good.

AN EAST END MYSTERY

Bert Maloy, of Johnstown, Although In Jail

SAYS HE IS NO ROBBER

He Called at the Home of B. Grosshans, and Was Admitted to Repair a Sewing Machine—A Few Minutes Later Valuable Jewelry Was Missing.

Bert H. Maloy, who says his home is in Johnston, Pa., is in jail charged with being a suspicious person. His case is being investigated by Chief Johnson.

Yesterday afternoon a telephone message was received at the central fire station asking that an officer be sent to the home of Abner Martin in East End. Officers McCullough and Bryan were detailed on the case and when they arrived Maloy was turned over to them. A short time before that the individual went to the home of Mrs. Benton Grosshans, in the East End, and inquired if a sewing machine needed repairing. He was taken to a room on the second floor where the machine was, and he commenced to do some work about it. Mrs. Grosshans went to another part of the house, and when she returned found it different from when she left it. She made an investigation and found that one gold watch, two diamond rings, one band ring which was her wedding ring, and some other jewelry was missing. The man in the meantime had left the house, and went to the Martin home, to which place he was traced by Mrs. Grosshans.

When the officers were bringing him to city hall he denied taking anything, and said with a sarcastic voice "O, they will find it all." When he was searched in jail a shirt owned by Mr. Grosshans was found in his bosom, and a handkerchief which was missing from the house was found in his hip pocket.

At a late hour this afternoon the missing articles had not been found.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Not Under Control.

Sometimes at sea a ship is found flying the signal, "Not under control." That is a very terrible signal. So long as the machinery and rudder and the rigging are sound and the ship is under complete control she may weather the strongest gale, but now she lies helpless at the mercy of wind and wave. No rescuing ship even dare come very near, for "not under control" means that she is a menace to others as well as herself. So in life we find far too often a man whose conduct indicates that the forces of his life are not under control. That is a sad and dangerous condition, dangerous for himself and for those about him. Safely lies in keeping the elements of character so adjusted that they are always under control, that thus we may keep our manhood true to its divine course.—Universalist Leader.

Laziness of Mind.

There is a laziness of the mind as well as of the body. People loaf mentally as well as physically. One is to be despised quite as much as the other. The man or boy who sits about on street corners and in stores telling idle tales is no more a social nuisance than is he who dawdles over his studies or dreams away the hours wool gathering which should be employed in planning and thinking about the serious problems of life. The mind should be held quite as rigidly to discipline as the body, for an aimless, wandering, unapplicable mind will destroy one's usefulness quite as much as a slothful, flabby, unskilled body.—Churchman.

Swearing.

General Washington, it is said, once uttered an oath, and his example is presented as an excuse for the profanity of other men, but with the statement General Washington's opinion of swearing should always be joined. He said, "This is a vice so mean and low, without any temptation, that every man of sense and character detests and despises it."—Congregationalist.

Mistakes.

People who make mistakes are those who quarrel with one another before their children or who allow the latter to grow up in idleness, those who talk about their troubles before strangers, the father who tells his children to go the way he does not go himself and the young woman who does not make a confidant of her mother.—Lutheran Observer.

Only One Design.

A sculptor has many models from which he chisels various statues, though one may be his masterpiece, but when I come into the Lord's studio I find only one design—that we should be made in the likeness of Jesus Christ.—Bishop Baldwin.

Men and women rarely get so old that in their secret souls they do not still think themselves fit subjects for matrimony.

KIND WORDS TO RAYMAN

WELL PLEASED WITH HIS WORK

Member Peach Voiced the Sentiment, and the Professor Replied in a Fitting Manner—Two Days of Vacation at Thanksgiving Time—Some Other Business.

The board of education met in regular session in the directors' room of the Central building last evening. There were present Members Vodrey, Norris, Williams and Peach. The session was opened with the reading of the xxiv psalm and prayer by Superintendent Rayman. The minutes of the last two meetings were approved.

A gentleman representing an eastern book concern presented to the board a new dictionary which is complete in four volumes. The work was inspected by the board and ten sets were ordered on approval, subject to the action of the text book committee.

The pay roll for the month of October was read. The amount was $2,114.50.

Superintendent Rayman's report for the month ending November 4, is as follows: New enrollment, males 65, females 43; entire enrollment, males 1262, females 1318; monthly enrollment, males 1218, females 1213; re-enrollment, males 20, females 15; re-enrollment No. 2, males 4, females 5; average daily attendance, males 1091, females 1087; percent attendance, males 95, females 93; promoted six, an increase of one over last month; pupils absent, males 713, females 647; pupils withdrawn, males 33, females 53; [last month 17 males and 14 females withdrew]; cases of tardiness, males 160, females 145; cases of truancy, males 21, females none; [last month 11 males and two females were recorded as truants]; corporal punishment, 67; teachers absent 9 1/2 days; visits by patrons, males 16, females 53; visits by board, 5; cases of sickness, males 205, females 244; [last month 132 males and 174 females were sick]; visits by superintendent, 113.

Superintendent Rayman stated that much progress was being made by the scholars in spelling and penmanship. The latter is now being taught in the high school and the progress the scholars have made is commendable.

Miss Shantz, a graduate of the high school of several years ago, has been granted a teacher's certificate, and asked the board to be appointed a substitute. It was done unanimously.

Bids for coal were received from Robert Moore and W. H. Frazier. The average cost per bushel from Mr. Moore was 71-6 cents and Mr. Frazier 7 1/2. The contract was awarded to Mr. Moore.

Mr. Peach stated that he was very much pleased to hear of the rapid progress the scholars have been making under the direction of Superintendent Rayman and if there was any help the board could render him they would do it gladly.

Mr. Rayman replied as follows:

"I am pleased to hear this from the board, and wish to thank them for that which they have done in the past. The crowded condition of the East End school and some others in the city should be remedied. In the Central building so crowded are some of the rooms that scholars are compelled to sit upon front seats." The matter was placed in the hands of the building committee who will make a report of their work at the next meeting.

As has been the custom in the past there will be no school on Friday of next week, the day following Thanksgiving. The teachers will not receive pay for Friday.

Doctor Williams stated that a well known photographer of the city who recently took photographs of the various rooms was now disposing of his work to the scholars at 25 cents a piece. Superintendent Rayman replied that he did not know of the fact, but would see that the action was stopped immediately.

The meeting then adjourned.

A UNIQUE UNIVERSITY.

De Manny-Talvande Establishes It at Azay-le-Rideau.

Le Comte de Manny-Talvande, who recently married Lady Mary Byng, lately a maid of honor to the queen, has taken a lease of the Chateau d'Azay-le-Rideau. It is a lovely example of renaissance architecture, perched on a broad island embraced by the river Indre. The park is well wooded and the waters overshadowed by weeping willows. His idea is to receive young Englishmen during the interregnum between the university and their career, whether in the army, the civil service, diplomacy or of enterprise in our colonies. They are treated as guests, and the association is founded on honorable understandings. In the first place, every one engages to talk nothing but French. In the second, more broadly, every one undertakes to enter into the spirit of experiment—that is, to live a reasonable life of mental and bodily activity in a thoroughly French manner.

Professors from the neighboring University of Tours deliver lectures on literature or history. Excursions are made to the many historic castles in the neighborhood—Chenonceaux, Amboise, Loches, Chinon, Langeais—impregnated with historical associations and filled with pictures of historical characters. Afterward essays are written on the lectures and excursions. French comedies are acted, and so forth. Meanwhile those who are studying for examinations for the civil service or their degree have every facility. There is a good library in the chateau, and a famous collection of pictures, including some of the most celebrated Clouets.

The five circular towers at the angles of the chateau afford in their four stories 20 circular studies, any one of which would enchant the heart of an overworked man of letters. In short, if it be possible to recreate a medieval university the best chance is offered by Azay. The students meet the residents of the neighborhood in social intercourse, come into contact at official fetes with the maire and prefet, follow the evolutions of the maneuvers and have only themselves to thank if they do not acquire a thorough knowledge of French life and a perfect facility in the French language.—London Outlook.

SEIZED IN THE EVERGLADES.

Corporal Walker's Experience While Hunting Deserters.

Corporal R. H. Walker, Company K, Sixth Missouri volunteers, returned recently to Jacksonville, Fla., from the everglades, where he went a few days ago to arrest a deserter from his regiment. He relates an interesting experience in the swamp. Walker says he arrived at Stewart, a half wild village on the edge of the everglades, a few days ago. He learned from some Indians that several white men were encamped a short distance in the swamp. In company with a guide he started for the place, feeling confident that his man was one of the number. The camp was reached after he had waded through marsh and water for several miles, but it was deserted. From there Walker was guided to another camp.

He was approaching this den cautiously when suddenly a bullet whizzed by his head. In a moment a grizzled bearded man wearing a soldier's uniform appeared from the brush, rifle in hand, and demanded what was wanted. Four other men also appeared shortly afterward, all heavily armed, and together they seized Walker and made him a prisoner. He informed them that he had not come to arrest them and would not do so if he could. After consultation between themselves Walker was told to go. With his guide he made his way back to the first camp. He strode boldly into the hut, and there on a blanket spread upon a bed of straw was the object of his quest, sleeping soundly with his rifle by his side. Quickly Walker covered the man with two revolvers and he was made to get up. His hands were then tied and he was marched to the station.—Special Chicago Record.

Her Short Honeymoon With a Tramp.

Mrs. Amele Walters, until about a week ago Miss Tennie Fox, is mourning a husband, $100 in cash, a gold watch and jewelry valued at several hundred dollars. About three weeks ago a tramp named Amele Walters appeared at the Fox home and begged a meal. He was accommodated. A week later he returned to pay for the dinner and asked to be taken in as a boarder, as he had secured employment. He stayed at the Fox home a week and met Tennie, the daughter. It was a case of love at first sight, and they were married. The couple went to Pettisville, O., to spend their honeymoon. While there he took the money and articles named above and decamped.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Choice of Two Evils.

It's always very wrong to fight, But, none the less, my son, Improve your muscles—don't relax As if all strife were done.

It's always very wrong to fight, But never close your ears When Uncle Sam suggests that he May need new volunteers.

Lost—Another Link.

Where, where is the time honored apron, The apron our grandmothers knew? It was ample and checked, it was ribbon bedecked—

Nay, 'twas every known fabric and hue, And the linen ones whiter than snowdrifts, So glossy with patience and starch! Now, where have they vanished, or has progress banished

Them all in her fin de siecle march?

Say, where is that cute little apron With pocket adorned with a bow? (Fascinations untold did that small pocket hold

For the fingers and eyes of each beau.) Such dainty, such furbelowed aprons, Each ruffled or ribboned or laced, With strings most alluring, embracing, securing

It safe to her trim, slender waist!

Ah, where is that dearest of aprons, So snowy, so soft and so cool, When "mother's lap" cured every sorrow endured,

Every heartbreak of playground or school? It is folded in lavender, yellowed With time and with kisses and tears.

Her sweet face recalling, her fond caress falling—

It summons from long, lonely years.

And where is that old fashioned apron, The apron no new woman wears, Since her smart tailor gown most correctly would frown

On such feminine frippery and snarles? Then what earthly occasion to wear it Would office or clubroom allow?

No small hands detaining, no home cares con-straining,

No apron strings tether her now.

Dame Fashion, restore the lost aprons! Make womanly home life the style! Our ball gowns neglect and our tailors reject, Reverse folly's wheel just awhile, And bring back the old days when only

The home seemed the dearest, the best; When Cupid completely each manly heart neatly

Cyclists to Invade Cuba.

Smith N. Fowler of Chicago is now making a trip through the country looking for crack cycle riders to take to Bermuda and the West Indies on a winter tour. His scheme leaked out recently, and his friends and wheelmen generally in Chicago are much interested in it. He intends to take his stars to Bermuda first, give a series of meets there and then go to Cuba and Porto Rico. Mr. Fowler was the promoter of the Florida circuit last winter, and he believes that America's new possessions will prove a bonanza for racing men.—New York World.

The Kaiser's Flying Trip.

Never again let foreigners laugh at American tourists for rushing through renowned picture galleries and boasting of having "done Egypt" in eight days! The German emperor and empress beat the band in the rapidity with which they are doing Palestine. Five minute stops are made at the holy places, and the kaiser makes a speech and the kaiserin snaps a kodak, and then on they pass like a sightseeing whirlwind.—Boston Herald.

Kite Flying Experiments.

W. A. Eddy, of kite flying fame, yesterday performed experiments on Liberty island with a view to ascertaining the effect of the immense amount of bronze in the Liberty statue upon the electrical condition of the surrounding atmosphere. An electrical collector was sent up by means of kites, and it was found that the statue did not absorb the electricity from the atmosphere beyond 100 feet away.—New York Tribune

UNION LABELS.

It should be a deep-rooted principle of all union workmen and union sympathizers, and particularly those members of the different organizations of East Liverpool, to buy nothing but Union Label goods, in preference to all others. And why not? If we ask fair wages for our labor, why should we buy goods made at unfair wages by others? The Union Label in every industry is a guarantee of fair wages, decent working hours, and union labor employed.

PATRONIZE UNION CLERKS.

UNION MADE BOOTS AND SHOES.

The Boot and Shoe Workers' union is the national head of the trade, and is a new combination of all the branches of boot and shoe workers. The above trade-mark when found on the sole or lining of a boot or shoe is a guarantee that the same is made by union labor. Look for the above design stamped on the sole of every pair of boots or shoes you buy.

CUSTOM TAILORS' LABEL.

UNION MADE HATS.

This Label is about an inch and a half square, and is printed on buff-colored paper. It is placed on every union-made hat before it leaves the workman's hands. If a dealer takes a label from one hat and places it on another, or has any detached labels in his store, do not buy from him, as his labels may be counterfeit, and his hats may be the product of scab or non-union labor.

UNION MADE CLOTHES.

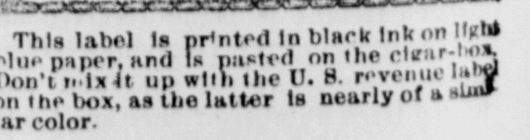

You will find the linen label attached by machine stitching to the inside breast pocket of the coat, on the inside of the buckle strap of the vest, and on the waistband lining of the pants.

BICYCLE LABEL.

"Do unto others as ye would that others should do unto you." You will endorse the "Golden Rule" by buying and riding bicycles bearing this label. The colors are as follows: The Union shield is in red, white and blue, on a background of pea green, bordered by gold. The label will be placed on the upper front side of the tube that receives the seat post.

BLUE LABEL CIGARS.

This label is printed in black ink on light blue paper, and is pasted on the cigar box. Don't mix it up with the U. S. revenue label on the box, as the latter is nearly of a similar color.

TOBACCO LABEL.

The above Label, printed on blue paper, will be found on all plug tobacco and on the wrappers of chewing tobacco manufactured in union tobacco factories.

This is a full size facsimile of the Label of the Bakers' and Confectioners' union. It is printed on fine white paper and is pasted on each loaf of union-made bread. It is an evidence that the bread is made under fair and wholesome conditions, and in clean and healthy bakeries. Following is the confectioners' and cracker label:

GIVING MONEY TO SCHOOL BOARD

To Be Used In Employing a Physical Director For the Public Schools—A Friend of the Movement Presents a Decidedly Original Idea.

MR. EDITOR:—Since reading the plan of "Citizen" in your issue of Wednesday last for physical culture in the public schools, the subject has been continually before me and the importance of the physical development of our children is more and more deeply impressed upon my mind.

It is indeed a lamentable fact, to which every parent in our city can add testimony, that few, of all the children who attend our schools, are physically sound and robust, and could some way be devised whereby this object could be attained, those who aid in this commendable work will not only merit, but undoubtedly receive the blessings of their children and of generations yet unborn.

Your correspondent very ably set before us the folly of pursuing the intellectual development of our children to the complete exclusion of the physical, and could some means be devised for placing in the hands of the board of education sufficient funds to carry out the work with the express desire of the parents in this city that such a work be undertaken, I have no doubt but that body, aided by our excellent superintendent, could so arrange the school work as to give place for instruction along this line in every room for a brief time once or twice each week.

But while this is a "consummation devoutly to be wished for and the beginning of an era of robust manhood and womanhood which would exert an untold influence for good in the future of our beloved country, yet the thoughtful citizen, resolving himself into a committee of one on ways and means, is confronted with the mighty question: How can this be brought about? Our board of education, exercising the greatest care possible in the expenditure of the public funds entrusted to them, find the entire amount at their disposal needed for the prosecution of the work already in hand, with little margin to provide the extended accommodation so urgently needed for our rapidly increasing school population, and would doubtless meet any request for the employment of a "physical director" in the schools with the seemingly unanswerable reply, "No Funds."

Then, too, some might be found who would look upon this vital question as a mere matter of play instead of a truly elemental step in thorough education, and object to what they would call an unwarranted expenditure of public funds.

I believe there are enough "citizens" in our city to overcome both the objections I have cited and to enable a thorough test of the idea to be made.

Permit me to suggest the following plan, which with such changes as may be deemed necessary by the superintendent and board of education, and with such details as may be found expedient for the successful carrying on of the work, will, I believe, give every child-lover in our city who recognizes the value of good health and a well-developed physique for the rising generation, an opportunity to help in a movement which has in it that power which shall revolutionize our ideas of thorough education and make us a nation to be both feared and envied by the entire world.

Your paper has ever been the champion of every laudable effort for the improvement of our city, and I am sure would not be backward in this.

Let a public subscription be asked for from individuals or groups of individuals, in sums of not less than one dollar per annum, to be paid to the treasurer of the board of education, either in a lump sum or in quarterly installments, and let all subscriptions be acknowledged in your columns at least once each week, showing the amount previously subscribed, the subscriptions for the current week, and the total thus reached.

The board of education would, of course, be required to keep this fund separate from all other money, and to use it only for the purpose designated, i. e., the employment of a physical director steadily in our schools until the fund was exhausted.

Long ere this, I have faith to believe, we shall have seen enough of the first fruits of the system to fully demonstrate its merit, and should the public funds afterward prove insufficient for carrying on the work thus instituted there would be such a hearty response to a second call as would bear testimony to the truth of the claims advanced by "Citizen."

WOMEN OF MANILA.

A CORRESPONDENT'S IMPRESSIONS OF THE FILIPINO BEAUTIES.

He Says They Are All as Ugly as Sin. They Smoke Big Cigars and Chew Betel Nuts—How They Walk—Something About Manila.

C. C. Carlton of the San Francisco Call, who has just returned from the Philippines, says:

"I longed for a sight of those picturesque Filipino beauties that I had read about. The papers and magazines had represented them as charming dusky damsels.

"They have a manner of walking on the forward part of ball of their feet," said one story, "and this imparts to the body a graceful motion and a most bewitching swing of the haunches."

"I traveled through the streets of Manila for nine days, eagerly looking for a female 'type,' that I might describe to my friends at home. Not one. All as ugly as sin. I am ready to believe that the graceful and attractive Filipino is like the beautiful Indian maiden, who, since the death of Pocahontas, is nowhere to be found out of Fenimore Cooper's novels. The Filipino girls wear a costume that is especially adapted for that climate. Those who can afford it dress in thin, gauzy stuff, a diaphanous and iridescent fabric woven from silk and a mixture of the pineapple leaf. It is called jusi, and yet another fabric is known as 'pinta cloth.' The Filipino girls wear their thick, black, glossy hair done up in rolls, much like the Chinese and Japanese women. On their feet are wooden slippers, which click, click, click on the flagstones as they trip along the street, sometimes with a basket of something balanced on their heads and again with a huge Manila cigar between their lips stained red with betel nut.

"Two Filipino girls meet on the street, both bareheaded, as Filipino girls invariably are. One is puffing a big cigar. Girl No. 1 says something in Spanish to the other, who immediately removes the cigar from her mouth, spits a stream of betel nut juice from between her lips, and hands the cigar to her friend.

"If I had been near enough and knew enough Spanish, doubtless I should have heard this dialogue: 'Senorita, give me a light, will you? How is business? Are you going to take in the cockfight this evening?'

"For chicken fighting, as everybody must know, has until recently been the national sport of the Filipinos. At the Oriental hotel I was endeavoring to inquire in the best Spanish I could command where and when I could see a cockfight.

"Guerrero gallo — guerrero gallo. Donde? y cuando? I asked.

"A mite of a Filipino girl (about 20 years old or so, I should say) tripped up smilingly and offered to escort me to a cockfight if I would pay the way. I surveyed her carefully and concluded that I didn't care to see a cockfight, but I said to her: 'After awhile. Must go up town now.' Would you believe it? When I got back, three hours later, the Filipino girl was waiting for me. I told her I had learned up town that cockfights had been prohibited (which was the truth), and then purchased my release by paying her a peseta."

"Manila itself is not a 'city,' although there are 200,000 or 300,000 inhabitants there and in the suburbs. It is just a rambling, ramshackly old place, with (one and sometimes two) storied houses, built of wood, with red tile roofs. Frequently the entire upper story of the dwelling houses is a sort of bay window—that is to say, they would be bay windows if they were not square. These windows extend across the entire front and are provided with sliding shutters. Frequently these small wooden dwelling houses are vine clad. There are trellises of morning glories—delicate tints of pink and blue—and hollyhocks, too, on either side of the door. In the yards I saw flaming red blossoms of the pomegranate and pepper tree and palms. These flowers, plants and shrubs do much to redeem Manila and render life tolerable if not pleasant to the visitor.

"Manila is not a compactly built town. These little houses are separated, and, in some parts of town, isolated, one from the other; but this is in the outlying districts, where, too, may be seen many houses constructed of bamboo, thatched with palm or palmetto leaves. The 'streets' of Manila's outlying districts are nothing more than ordinary lanes, bordered by palm trees, pepper trees, and pomegranate, with here and there, in the grass, a profusion of tiny pink and blue blossoms. In the outlying districts you have fresher air, the flowers breathe a sweet perfume; but in Manila proper—that is to say, in the heart of 'Binondo,' or in the 'Intra-Mura'—one's nostrils are greeted with all sorts of noisome whiffs—the most offensive smells that ever offended a man's nose."

THE CIGARS OF MANILA.

Now Much Better Than Those Americans Used to Smoke.

Cigars and cigarettes are remarkably cheap, even in the face of the economic conditions that exist in the east. The cheapest cigars are sold for $10 per 1,000, and the most expensive for $100 per 1,000. Reduce that to a gold basis and you find yourself wondering how they can be made for the money. The cigarettes are even cheaper. The cheapest grades retail for 1¼ and 2½ cents Mexican per package of 24 and 30 cigarettes, and the grades in most common use sell at the factory for $20 Mexican, or $9.50 gold, per 1,000 packages of 24 and 30 cigarettes each. The best cigars can be bought at retail at the cigar stands for 5 and 10 cents Mexican, and it is recorded that in the days of the monopoly a very fair cigar, as Manila cigars go, could be bought for 1 and 2 cents Mexican.

The genuine Manila cigar of today is not known in the United States, and if ever it finds its way there it will at once spring into immense popularity. The old Manila cigar, short and stubby, or cone shaped, is rapidly passing, and in its place modern cigars are being made. All of the modern shapes in vogue in Europe and America have been introduced since the monopoly ceased to exist and anything that pleases the fancy may be had at the kiosks of Manila. The modern cigar, made of the best Cagayan or Isabel tobacco, is not as good as the Cuban product, but it will bear fair comparison with it, and is certainly the superior of scores of the domestic brands sold in the United States. The tobacco is milder, and there is no flavoring introduced into it nor any chemical process resorted to in treating it.

There are 15,000 Americans in Manila now, and they take very kindly to the better grades of Manila cigars and freely predict a revolution in the cigar industry in the United States in the event of the annexation of Luzon of the Philippine group. The cigarettes are also made of pure tobacco. The entire industry has suffered on account of the inferior grades that are shipped from here, and Manila cigars have been unfairly condemned.—Manila Cor. Chicago Inter Ocean.

HIS LIFE SPENT IN SEWERS.

An English City Will Pension John Grubb For Fifty Years' Service.

The municipal authorities of Birmingham, England, have resolved to pension a man who has spent nearly half a century in building and exploring the sewers of Birmingham. His life contradicts the proverbial unhealthiness of sewer gas and lack of sunlight. The name of this important official is John Grubb, and he has traversed from six to seven miles or sewers each day, and he computes that his total tramp during the 50 years of his labors has exceeded 100,000 miles.

Grubb boasts that he has not known a day of sickness throughout his subterranean career, though during the first decade of his office there was hardly a single well constructed sewer in the city, and he was daily in danger of being attacked by armies of rats and was compelled to inhale the foulest odors. During the last half of his career he has constructed 14 miles of sewers in the most approved modern style. He has survived all of his employees, some of them not being able to stand the work more than a few years.

Grubb is now a septuagenarian and his vigorous health augurs that he will live 20 years more. The sewer veteran says his retirement may prove detrimental to his health. The greatest peril he has been exposed to occurred some 20 years ago on the occasion of the queen's visit to Birmingham. He was overtaken by storm water. A terrific rainstorm had broken over the city and the water was rushing into the sewers in torrents. It was a thrilling race for life, as he and his workmen had to fight big regiments of rats with their shovels, scaring them by howls and yells, as they made their way, submerged to their shoulders, to a distant manhole, which they knew could be opened.—New York Journal.

Curious Discovery In Mashonaland.

Much interest has been aroused among numismatists by news recently received from Rhodesia respecting the discovery of ancient Venetian coins in proximity to one of the Mashonaland rivers. The coins in question have, in the meantime, been sent down to Natal and submitted to expert scrutiny at Pietermaritzburg, with the result that casts of the originals are to be sent on to London. The coins have been declared to be medals struck at Venice between 1570 and 1577 A. D. On one side is the figure of St. Mark, with the inscription, "This dukedom is thine, O Christ, and the giver be thine," while on the reverse are three figures, two in a kneeling position, the other upright, with a halo, on which the inscription is, "The Doge Aloys Mocenigo, first magistrate of Venice."—St. James Gazette.

QUAKERS' OF RUSSIA.

DHOUKHOBORTSI IN AMERICA.

They Are Tolstoi's "Pets," a Religious Sect Persecuted in Russia and Siberia For the Last Hundred Years. Tenets of Their Faith.

Members of the Dhokhobortsi, one of Russia's many peculiar religious sects, for the last five years the especial protege of Count Tolstoi, are seeking to teach the United States, and a committee, comprising William Dean Howells, Jane Addams of the Hull House, Chicago; William Lloyd Garrison of Boston, the Rev. Dr. George Dana Boardman of Philadelphia, N. O. Nelson of St. Louis and Bolton Hall and Ernest H. Crosby of New York was formed recently in Philadelphia, to gather the necessary funds. Isaac N. Seligman is treasurer of the committee.

When Count Tolstoi began his present ascetic and benevolent mode of life, he became deeply interested in the Dhokhobortsi, and they have come to be known as his "pets." During the last five years Tolstoi has devoted almost his entire time to them and has bombarded the czar with petitions, begging permission for them to leave the country.

Their name means spirit wrestlers or champions of the spirit. They were first heard of publicly in Russia in 1750, when they were unearthed by the imperial police. Their origin is directly traceable to an English Quaker resident in Russia. They deny the existence of a personal God and believe God lives in the soul of every man, and is inseparable from any human being. According to their doctrine memory is God the Father; reason, God the Son, and will, God the Holy Ghost. They accept the fall of Adam as historical, but deny that it had anything to do with the fall of any other man, contending that the fault was Adam's alone and descended to no one else. They regard Christ as nothing more than a good man.

They say they are the only true worshippers of God and regard the rest of the world as superstitious and idolatrous. They consider, however, that their church comprises all men, who know that God has chosen them, though such cannot be recognized by any outward sign. They believe in the immortality of the soul, but not in hell, paradise or the prospective destruction of the world. When the millennium comes, they say, all sinners will be wiped away and the righteous will possess the earth, but still be obliged to work, be born and die just as now.

According to their belief, a child has no soul until one enters its body, some time between its sixth and fifteenth years. In social intercourse they acknowledge no such relationships as father and child, and denounce the compulsion of one man to do the will of another as sacrilege. The greatest abomination in their eyes before God is the Russian government, yet they are the most submissive men, have never offered the slightest resistance and have always paid their taxes with the utmost punctuality. Their family ties are based entirely on mutual affection. When affection ceases, they leave each other. They call their wives sisters. Children call their father and mother old man and old woman, and parents speak of their offspring as children of the tribe and not of individuals.

Their first severe persecution began on Aug. 28, 1799, under a ukase of Paul I, in which he ordered that all members of this sect should be banished to the Siberian mines for life. They were condemned to the hardest work, and their hands and feet were always to bear chains, so that, in the language of the ukase, "they who deny the supreme authority of earthly potentates, enthroned by the will of God, should feel sharply on their own bodies that there are authorities established by God on earth for the defense of the good and for the chastisement of villains like themselves."

In consequence of this ukase about 15,000 persons were transported to Siberia. They were flogged repeatedly with knouts and in 300 instances, according to official records, were mutilated. Alexander I gave them permission in 1832 to colonize on a Siberia farm, which their thrift and industry made very valuable in a short time. In 1839 their number had increased to 25,000, and the government seized their farm, sending all those able to serve into the Caucasian army corps and those unfit into the Nerchinsk lead mines, the deadliest of Siberia.

They did not decline to fulfill the peaceful duties of the regiments, but when face to face with an enemy they lay down. No amount of corporal punishment could make them go forward. They were allowed to return to Russia in 1860, and some 15,000 did so, only to be driven from one part of Russia to another until a few years ago, never being allowed to remain longer than six months in any one place. By this means their number has been reduced to 10,000.

Tolstoi's admirers in England and the United States have determined to do all in their power to bring these people hither and locate them in the west or southwest. Mr. Mode, a wealthy Englishman, who lives with Tolstoi and has given liberally to the great Russian's charitable schemes, arrived the other morning, and is now in Rhinebeck, N. Y., to make preparations for locating a temporary colony there. A small nucleus is now on the outskirts of London, and the English government has granted permission for the Dhokhobortsi to be taken to Cyprus, as a step on their way to the United States, as the czar's decree allows only two years for their removal from Russia.—New York Herald.

BIG COAL FAILURES.

Receiver Named For Two Companies
Operating In This State—Liabilities $1,200,000.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 15.—The Turney & Jones Coal company of Columbus and the Pennsylvania and Ohio Fuel company of St. Paul, with offices also in Chicago, were by the federal court put into the hands of the Security and Title company of Chicago as receivers. In the suit of Putnam against these companies application was made to have George S. Beason of Columbus also as receiver, but on the objection of Samuel N. Felton, receiver of the Columbus, Sandusky and Hocking Railroad company, Judge Taft refused to confirm Beason, who has been employed by the coal company.

Receiver Felton pleaded that these coal companies owed the Columbus, Sandusky and Hocking Railroad company $95,000, and that its interest should be considered. Judge Taft reserved to a further date the appointment of some practical coal operator as co-receiver.

The companies are among the largest that ever operated in the Ohio coal fields. Their troubles commenced in the summer of 1897 with the great coal strike. They had large contracts to fill in the northwest and were unable to get coal until late in the summer, and then at a high price and with very high lake rates.

The result was a loss of over $200,000 at that time. This summer they bought large quantities of coal, which is still on their docks, while their collections have been very slow. As they bought the coal early, a great deal of paper has fallen due before receipts were coming in. The crisis was brought about by New York parties declaring due the whole of an issue of $280,000 of obligations because one of the installments was not paid promptly.

The liabilities amount to $1,200,000. The officers of the companies claim they will pay it in full if the assets are carefully handled. The two companies were owned by the same parties—mostly by H. D. Turney of Columbus and John S. Jones of Chicago—and had to stand or fall together.

The mines of these companies furnished about one-half of the coal tonnage for the Columbus, Sandusky and Hocking railroad, and the future of that property depends very largely on what is done by the newly-appointed receivers of these coal companies.
